30 families homeless; 3 firemen injured

Fire ravages Ontario apartments

More than 30 Ontario families were left homeless and three firemen injured when a major fire pushed by Santa Ana winds roared through 11 multi-family apartment complexes on Rosewood Avenue Wednesday night.

Some of the shocked families, left homeless by one of largest fires in the history of Ontario, after spending the night at evacuation centers and friends homes, wandered back to the fire scene this morning to view the charred remains of their homes and valuables. Little was left for them to do except walk away to a bleak Christmas.

A moment dreaded by West End firemen for many years came shortly after 7 p.m. Wednesday when sparks from a fireplace blew onto the shake shingle roof of one apartment complex on Rosewood Avenue. Within minutes the hot embers fanned by gusting Santa Ana winds blowing in from the northeast set the shingles on fire. In another minute the apartment roof was engulfed in flames and residents became aware they were in danger. Near panic broke out among the apartment dwellers as the first fire companies arrived on the scene and burning shingles began blowing onto other apartment roofs to the west.

According to firemen at the scene, when the first companies arrived the residents were already taking the few valuables they could collect and putting them in their cars and the first of the 11 apartment complexes effected by the fire was totally engulfed in flames. Within 10 minutes four other apartment complexes on the north side of Rosewood Avenue were engulfed in a virtual firestorm. Hot embers and ashes swirling in the 40 to 70-mile-per-hour winds landed on even more apartment roofs on the south side of Rosewood.

Finding it impossible to control the forces of nature, fire crews and rescue personnel focused their attention on the frightened residents and assisted them in getting out of their apartments and to safety. An evacuation center was hastily set up by city officials at Imperial Junior High School on G Street and Imperial with the Salvation Army and Red Cross left to tend the incoming fire victims.

Police, assisted by the San Bernardino County Sheriff's helicopter, ordered the evacuation of dozens more apartments that lay in the path of the devastating flames.

Ontario firemen, directed by Ontario Fire Chief Richard Custer, called for assistance from fire departments in every West End city, including Chino, Montclair, Upland, the Foothill Fire District, Pomona, LaVerne, and the Ontario Emergency Services. Standing in reserve and manning the West End stations during the height of the blaze were fire companies from Central Valley, Lake Arrowhead, and Crestline.

Chief Custer said the fire that started about 7:05 p.m. was not contained until after 10 p.m. with more than 100 firemen manning hoses and pikes. More than 60 police officers and reserves cordoned off the two block area.

Firemen feared that if the fire were not stopped at the alley east of San Diego Avenue and south of Jay Street it could spread to dozens of other apartments to the west and south of the main fire. More than a million gallons of water pumped by three snorkle trucks and 22 other engines were poured onto the roofs of the unaffected apartments turning the streets into rivers.

The roofs of at least six other apartments south of Rosewood caught fire, but firemen managed to contain them within minutes.

The fire, thanks to the efforts of several engine companies from Montclair and Ontario and two snorkle trucks, was effectively stopped in the alley as the last blazing apartment complex on the north side of Rosewood, was flooded with water. A six man hose crew, manning a hose from the alley, attacked the last apartment dousing much of flame. As the hose crew pushed forward into the apartment a wall collasped burying at least three of the firemen and injuring Ontario Fireman Mike Lirley. Meanwhile Pomona Fire Captain Robert Wood was hit in the shoulder by a piece of falling roof. He suffered a shoulder separation and along with fireman Lirley was rushed to nearby hospitals by ambulance. Both Lirley and Captain Wood were treated and later released.

At least one other fireman, Capt. Ted Perez, was also rushed to a nearby hospital for injuries suffered in fighting the fire.

The fire was finally contained about 10 p.m.

Newsmen gathered at the scene around fire department spokesman Jim Brown and Mark White about 10:30 p.m. as the final information about the fire was read. As a result of the fire, four apartment complexes were completely destroyed on the north side of Rosewood Avenue, four apartments on the south side of Rosewood Avenue suffered major fire damage, while nine others on the south side of Rosewood Avenue west to San Diego Avenue were partially damaged. The loss to the structures and their contents would exceed $1 million according to the spokesmen.

Police officers had some anxious moments early in the fire when, even before the third apartment complex burst into flame, several looters were attempting to break into one of the vacated apartments. The police caught the men who were detained for a time and then released with a warning. Police Chief Lee Kolbrek said that he did not order his men to make any arrest of looters, as there were already to many other problems arising as a result of the fire, including a tremendous traffic tie up and the evacuation of the other apartment dwellers in the path of the fire.

It's a different story this morning however, as police were stationed at nearly every corner and around the burned-out complexes with orders to stop and arrest any looters in the area. Only residents of the apartment complex were allowed into the area, and then only after reporting to the police command post set up at Fourth Street and Vineyard Avenue.

Chief Kolbrek said that any resident wishing to return to his apartment to gather his remaining belongings would first have to check in at the command post.

Meanwhile, numerous residents of the area have extended lodging for the displaced and the evacuation center at Imperial Junior High School remains open. Also extending aid to fire victims Wednesday night were the residents of the Lamplighter Mobile Home Park on Fourth Street east of Vineyard, the Corona Elementary School, and the Vineyard Baptist Church.

Providing assistance in locating fire victims was the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army who were mobilized immediately. The two disaster service groups during the fire provided hot coffee, food, and other assistance to weary firemen and police at the command centers.

Spokesmen from the Red Cross and Salvation Army said that anyone having friends or relatives who are believed to have been evacuated from their homes may call 986-6651 or 986-6652 for information. Donations of food and clothing for the fire victims would also be accepted, the spokesmen said.

Mayor Paul Treadway who was called to the fire scene shortly after it was reported, remained in the area all night.

He said, "I really feel that a commendation is due to all individuals, even off duty firemen and police who responded, and the many citizens who volunteered their assistance."

Heart attack fatal to arms cache suspect

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A 55-year-old Ontario man, arrested along with his wife and son in connection with the weapons caches discovered in the valley, fell dead of a heart attack Wednesday as he walked into the Ontario police station.

Arthur M. Methe Sr. collapsed on the steps of the police station where he was about to be questioned concerning the nearly four tons of weapons and armaments found buried beneath his residence at 1053 E. Main St. in Ontario.

Paramedics attempted to save Methe's life as he was rushed to Ontario Community Hospital, but he was declared dead on arrival.

Methe had been arrested along with his wife, Edna, only hours after their 18-year-old son, Arthur M. Methe Jr., was jailed by Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies in connection with the stockpiles of illegal arms.

Mrs. Methe's other son, Donald G. Wiggins, 41, has been the prime suspect in the investigation since the first arms and explosives were found at the Ontario home and at Wiggins' foundry in Pomona one week ago.

Wiggins faces seven charges of possession of destructive devices, explosives, machine guns and other illegal weapons and equipment.

Mrs. Methe, who may face similar charges, was being questioned by police when she learned of her husband's death.

She was subsequently released on her own recognizance.

The younger Methe was taken to Los Angeles County jail and booked on suspicion of two counts of possession of explosives, one count of possession of destructive devices and one count of possession of a machine gun.

Food, beds provided homeless by Red Cross, disaster officials

In the wake of Wednesday night's apartment house fire that destroyed at least six buildings of the Camelot Apartments in the 1800 block of Rosewood Court in Ontario, Red Cross and disaster officials set up an emergency relief and aid station at Ontario's Imperial Junior High School.

Will Wells, a 15-year veteran with the Red Cross, was in charge of the station. By midnight, he had had at least 23 persons left homeless by the blaze make enquiries about relatives and provided beds, coffee or food to an estimated 20 more.

"In a relief situation of this kind," said Wells, "we estimate about 15 per cent of those affected will seek help at an aid station with the remaining 85 per cent going to friends for assistance."

Wells first heard of the situation at 8:21 last night after the Highway Patrol's Los Angeles dispatcher contacted the Red Cross Division office. Wells was also contacted by the Ontario Fire Department.

Throughout the night the Red Cross maintained an emergency list and logged people into its facility in the school's cafeteria. One woman nearly fainted when she arrived at the station anxious over the condition of her children and babysitter. They were safe with their grandmother.

The fire allegedly began in the apartment of the Camelot's managers, Tony and Susan Wesley. Joanne Heckman, assistant manager of the apartment complex, said, "My apartment and the manager's caught fire first. We heard hysterical screaming, went outside and saw sparks flying out of the chimney. About one minute later the roof was really going."

Mrs. Heckman said that Susan Wesley came to her apartment around 7 p.m. in a "hysterical" state saying the apartment was on fire. Mrs. Heckman said at first she thought it was another trash can fire since a similar incident had required the fire department's attention on Monday.

Mrs. Heckman said she was busy finding her children and was walking around in a daze for an hour after the start of the fire.

"I finally woke up in the hospital," she said. A friend grabbed some of the children and made sure they were out of the building. Mrs. Heckman's apartment was totally destroyed.

John Broadly, a 23-year-old brick mason whose apartment was in the same building as Mrs. Heckman's, said he smelled smoke and at first also thought it was another trash can fire.

"When I saw the flames," he said, "I called the fire department but they said they were already on their way."

Broadly and some other residents went to the back of the apartment complex, got hoses, and began wetting down apartment roofs as the fire department arrived.

"People were pretty cooperative," said Broadly. "There wasn't much panic. A lot of parents were worried about getting their kids out but the kids got out. You had to worry more about the adults."

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Six cars of a Chicago-bound San Francisco Zephyr Amtrak passenger train plunged down a 35-foot embankment before dawn today, injuring at least 46 travelers, authorities said.

There were no deaths and authorities said most of the injuries were bumps, bruises and cuts.

Greg J. Gee, 27, of Farragut, Iowa, was the most seriously injured. He underwent surgery and was listed in serious condition at Bergan-Mercy Hospital, a spokesman said. The hospital listed two others in fair condition.

The derailment happened just 10 minutes before the 11-car, twin-engine train was due at the Omaha station at 3:05 a.m.

Sarpy County Sheriff Pat Thomas said two sleeping cars, a diner, a lounge car and two coaches tumbled down the embankment.

Gianturco, Sinnott in heated exchange

Bitter fighting over highway plans continue

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state's transportation chief and a state Highway Commission majority are taking their dispute over highway programs right down to the wire.

The terms of two commissioners most deeply involved in the feud run out next month and there have been reports that two other commissioners will resign then.

But there was no sign of a friendly parting when the commission met for what turned out to be one of the bitterest confrontations in the majority's battle with the Brown administration.

At one point during the daylong meeting, Commissioner Joseph Sinnott accused transportation director Adriana Gianturco of "banking" money against commission wishes and "playing games."

There has been no banking, Ms. Gianturco shot back Wednesday. "All the money we have is programmed. There is no extra money."

When she denied Sinnott's charge that she was "playing games" with the commission, Sinnott said: "That's what it is. It is a game."

The Department of Transportation, which Ms. Gianturco heads, has been battling with the commission for several months over highway programs.

The dispute is over how fast and on what projects the state should spend its roadway dollars. The commission has the responsibility of approving highway projects and funding.

Ms. Gianturco and her staff say the commission, still dominated by appointees of former Gov. Ronald Reagan, have approved an overly ambitious six-year highway building program that could result in a funding shortage.

A majority of commissioners say the six-year plan proposed by Ms. Gianturco was too conservative and have accused her of holding back funds that should be spent now on highway development.

Wednesday's confrontation also included exchanges over management of district offices, construction in Bakersfield and Monterey County, and bidding on an Orange County overpass.

But the bitterest comments were between Ms. Gianturco and Sinnott, who at one point in a discussion of operations at district offices jabbed his finger at the director and said:

"I think I have a lot more experience in managing people than you do."

"That may be true," she said. "But I have the responsibility here.

At another point Ms. Gianturco complained about the commission's January meeting being moved ahead to insure that two lameduck Reagan appointees would still be on the commission. Their terms expire Jan. 15.

And in another development, Vice Chairman Ken Vetter said that the commission's six-year highway program was listed on Wednesday's agenda only to remind the department that it should be carried out.

Terms of Vetter and Chairman William Leonard run out next month. There have been reports that Sinnott and the fourth Reagan appointee, Winston Fuller, plan to resign then, but Fuller refused to comment on the possibility.

The argument over the Von Karman overcrossing at Irvine came when Fuller and Vetter complained that the department was moving too slowly to put the project to bid.

Ms. Gianturco said the department was waiting to open bidding until it had evaluated its priorities. "If there are misfits we want you to know about it," she said.

"We should not be telling them how to do their job," Fuller said of the department. "But I am tired of having none of things we recommend being done."

Sparks also flew when the commission voted 4-2 to earmark $431,000 for construction of Route 178 on-and-off ramps on Mt. Vernon Avenue in Bakersfield.

Vetter strongly supported the proposal and Ms. Gianturo turned to two reporters after the vote to remind them that Vetter was from Bakersfield.

And Commissioner Jack Brito, one of the two appointees of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. who opposed the ramps, complained about local governments who "juice the pot" to get their projects built first.

Bakersfield has offered to contribute $100,000 to complete the ramps.

But Vetter contended that the Bakersfield project had been a high priority in the past and should be now.

In other action, Vetter directed staff members to draw up a resolution including the Toro Park Interchange project on Route 68 in Monterey County included in the commission's six-year plan, a move Ms. Gianturco clearly opposed.

"I think the commission feels in the Christmas spirit," she remarked during a break in the meeting.

At another point Vetter, Sinnott and others stressed that the state should be spending funds saved by low project bids. Bids are running about $14 million under estimates so far this year. That compares with an underrun of $18.6 million at this time last year.

Reagan says he campaigned hard for Ford

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he did all he could to help elect President Ford, and that campaign workers who say otherwise are just looking for a "scapegoat."

"I actually had a schedule (campaigning for Ford) that was just about as full as my own schedule during the primaries when I was campaigning for myself," Reagan said Wednesday.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Reagan expressed optimism about the future of the Republican party, although he said a name change might be in order. He suggested that the party consider holding a miniconvention next year to adopt a revitalized statement of principles.

The former California governor, saying he wanted to dispel "a widespread notion" that he had refused the vice presidential nomination, confirmed that Ford didn't offer him the second spot.

He said he was glad he "didn't have to face that situation." Had the nomination been offered, with pleas that he was needed to unify the party, Reagan said, "I don't know what I would have done. It would have been a very difficult situation."

But Reagan said he didn't think his presence on the ticket as vice presidential candidate would have helped: "I've never believed that the second man on the ticket adds votes to the top of the ticket."

Reagan said "no defeated candidate for the nomination has ever campaigned that hard for the nominee," as he did for Ford.

He said criticism of his role was "just looking for an alibi on the part of some of the campaign staff who want someone to blame.

"I appeared in 25 states. I did a series of commercials ranging from 30 seconds to five minutes. I did a 30-minute television speech. Over a million letters were sent out over my signature soliciting support for the President."

Carter has chosen ambassador, economic chairman, sources say

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is naming Rep. Andrew Young to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and Charles L. Schultze to be chairman of Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, informed sources said today.

Sources in the Carter camp also said Joseph A. Califano is the top candidate to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. As chief domestic policy adviser to President Lyndon B. Johnson, Califano was the principal architect of the Great Society programs, many of which are administered by HEW.

Carter also is believed close to choosing Rep. Robert Bergland, D-Minn., to be secretary of agriculture.

Young, a Georgia Democrat, will be the first black named to a high-ranking post in the Carter administration. The U.N. ambassadorship is considered to be cabinet-level.

Young, 44, was a strong Carter supporter during the primary election campaign and was viewed as helpful in putting together Carter's huge majority among black voters in the general election. He won re-election to his third House term last month and previously had indicated some reluctance to leave Congress for the U.N. post.

Schultze, 52, has described himself as an economic liberal. He served as budget director from 1965 to 1967 in the Johnson administration. Since 1968, he has been a fellow at the Brookings Institution, a think tank here.

The Council of Economic Advisers is a three-member panel that advises the president on a broad range of economic policy issues and forecasts economic trends. In the past, the person serving as CEA chairman has been one of the president's top two or three economic advisers.

Califano, 45, was a Pentagon lawyer when then-Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara appointed him to be a top aide. In that role, he was involved in decisions leading to deeper U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

den hoses, said "It was the wind that did it. If it hadn't been for the wind the fire would have stayed in that one apartment."

Albritton's brother, Rick, said, "I heard some screaming and smelled the smoke. I went out, saw the apartment and asked Tony (the manager) if there was anyone inside."

Vincent Testa, another resident of the Camelot Apartments, said the fire started around 6:45 or 7 p.m.

"I thought something was burning and went out and saw the smoke. Just as I got out the manager was running into Joanne's (Heckman's) apartment

Lila Selke watched much of the conflagration from her apartment in the 800 block of North Vineyard Avenue.

"It was one solid wall of flame. It was horrible. The winds kept shifting. No matter what the firemen did it couldn't have been enough."

Selke's 21-year-old son, Steve, a police science major at Chaffey College, went up to the fire area and hosed down a few houses with garden hoses. He later returned to his mother's apartment where an Ontario Police Reserve Officer told them to leave because of the possibility of exploding gas lines.

The Ed Coldewe family, wife Jill, son David and the family dog, Cinder, all evacuated their house at 1853 Jay St., an alley's width away from the fire.

Mrs. Coldewe said the roof of their home caught fire from flying cinders but that a neighbor helped extinguish the small blaze.

"When the firemen arrived they just went up and down the street soaking down the houses," she said.

Mrs. Coldewe was forced to evacuate the area without her medication but obtained more through the help of paramedics and Ontario Community Hospital.

Ron Takacs, a civilian employe of the Ontario Police Department, was giving a burglary prevention lecture in the department's burglary prevention van last night around 8 p.m. in the Ontario FedMart store parking lot.

"Our sergeant showed up, said we had an emergency and told us to get the van up to Vineyard and Fourth Street for use as a command post. We asked the people in the van to leave, picked up our steps and did a code three over to the fire. We were operational as a command post within five minutes of our arrival."

Takacs was put in charge as the police liaison with the emergency center at the junior high school.

One relief worker said a group of Ontario "bikers" showed up at the aid station with a $60 donation for those left homeless by the fire.

"He wasn't standing up too well," she said, "but he sure wanted us to have that 60 bucks."

Another worker said the citizen band radio enthusiasts had been a big help in getting out the distress call. "Because of them," she said, "we have more food, blankets and supplies than we know what to do with."

Bob Sodaro of Cucamonga heard the cails on his radio and went into a Circle K market to buy coffee.

"I had my check book out and ready," he said, "but the guy just told me to take what I needed."

'Robin Hood' school funds bill proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly Education Committee's chairman is advocating a "Robin Hood" bill to equalize school funding by taking from rich districts and giving to poor ones.

On Wednesday Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, said his bill would take at least a "giant step" toward solving an expected state Supreme Court decision requiring equilization of school funding.

The assemblyman's measure is the first introduced this session designed to meet requirements of the Serrano vs. Priest case.

It would clamp a freeze on school property tax rates in richer district. Then funds generated by increased property values in those districts would be diverted to poor districts.

Greene also introduced legislation that would put a $350-million bond issue on the ballot in 1978 to fund new school construction.

The financing bill was prompted by a state Supreme Court decision five years ago which found that the state's school funding system, based largely on local property taxes, was unconstitutional.

"At the present time," Greene said, "we tell wealthy districts that there is a certain amount that they are allowed to spend per child.

"That, in turn, forces the tax rate down in wealthier districts because inflation of property values produces more for a given tax rate.

The financing bill is AB 65. The bond measure is AB 72.

U.S. industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by a resurgence in auto production, American industry in November manufactured more consumer goods, business equipment, clothing materials and other nondurable goods than at any time in the last nine months.

The upswing in output, reported Wednesday in the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production, indicated that some jobs may be opening in the economy, despite a slight rise in the unemployment rate for the month.

Over-all, industrial production, one of the economic indicators President-elect Carter will look at in determining his economic program, rose 1.2 per cent. This increase reversed two months of decline and was the biggest since a 1.3 per cent advance in February.

Teamsters fired

VALDEZ, Alaska (AP) — A contractor has fired 250 Teamsters working at the trans-Alaska pipeline terminal site in the largest mass firing in the three years the project has been under way.

Other union workers, who have been battling the Teamsters Union local for the right to do certain jobs, took over some of the Teamsters' duties Wednesday, an industry source said.

Carter pardon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter's advisers have reached substantial agreement on a plan that could extend Carter's promise of clemency for draft violators to perhaps as many as 250,000 Vietnam-era servicemen with tarnished military records.

Carter, who had promised during the election campaign that he would pardon draft law violators, has been urged by some groups to broaden such a clemency program to include military deserters and veterans with less-than-honorable discharges.

David H. Berg, a Houston attorney on Carter's transition staff, said Wednesday, "We've agreed in substance on what our recommendations to Gov. Carter will be with respect to the pardon and treatment of military offenders."

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Officials of Armour Oil Co. say they still are not interested in buying the Yellow Cab operation, even though the City Council has tried to clear the way.

Cassidy rites lot of laughs

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — The people laughed and applauded at the funeral of actor Jack Cassidy as he was memorialized with funny stories and warm anecdotes.

"It was very unusual because it was very uplifting," said actor Dennis Weaver after the nonsectarian service Wednesday. "People got up and spoke in very intimate terms about their experience with Jack. It was on a level where everybody kind of laughed."

Cassidy, 49, died Sunday in a fire that gutted his penthouse apartment.

Among those who spoke at the funeral was comedian Milton Berle who remembered Cassidy as an 18-year-old singer when they performed together in the stage production of "Spring in Brazil."

Berle said Cassidy told him once in Boston that the show "should have opened in Brazil and closed in Boston."

Singer-dancer Nanette Fabray, who organized the service, remembered Cassidy as a man always modishly dressed, even when he went fishing — in Gucci shoes and belt that matched his fishing pole.

Said Weaver: "He had one of the greatest wits of anyone in Hollywood. He was full of love and giving."

Also attending were Jack Carter, Eileen Brennan, George Kennedy, Ruth Gordon, Werner Klemperer, Richard Benjamin and others.

Actress Shirley Jones, from whom Cassidy was divorced last year, was present with their three children.

Cassidy's son by a previous marriage, teenage singing idol, David Cassidy, also attended with his mother actress-singer Evelyn Ward.

Cassidy was best known for his television roles, including the series "He and She," and his recent role as John Barrymore in the film "W.C. Fields and Me."

He was cremated and his ashes were to strewn over the Pacific Ocean.

Slayer receives death sentence

OROVILLE (AP) — Dennis "Corkey" Ogle, 26, has been sentenced to die in the gas chamber for the axe killing of an Oroville woman and the shooting death of her son.

Ogle, of Corona del Mar, was ordered to San Quentin Prison recently by Superior Court Judge Lucian Vandegrift while an automatic appeal is filed with the state Supreme Court.

Ogle was convicted of killing Virginia Corkin, 58, with an axe and fatally shooting her son, Shane, 21, during a burglary of their home last May 25. He acted as his own attorney during the trial.

The jury decided that the crimes involved two special circumstances — multiple murder and murder during a burglary — either of which calls for the death penalty under state law.

Bradley rejects Cabinet offer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter apparently has made overtures to Mayor Tom Bradley about a post in his administration but the mayor says he turned Carter down because of the responsibility he feels for Los Angeles.

Bradley said Wednesday that Carter has requested that he come to Plains, Ga., to discuss an unspecified Cabinet position.

"I indicated I was flattered but that I had a commitment to my supporters and the people of Los Angeles to continue serving in their city, and that I would regretfully have to decline," said Bradley.

An aide to Bradley earlier had said that Bradley had been offered a Cabinet post, but the mayor said Carter's overture was for consideration for a position in the administration. There was a report Bradley was being considered for FBI director.

The mayor said the decision was hard for him and that he was pleased that the President-elect was considering the mayor of a large city for a high position.

Bradley, elected in 1973, governs the nation's largest city to be led by a black.

Bradley indicated one factor in his decision was "that I didn't want to leave the city with only one person who had made plans and announcements" about running for mayor next year. Only state Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, has announced candidacy for the post.

Bradley said that to leave the city would be a "disservice to the city and people who might have run if I had not been running."

Bradley said he told Carter he would serve in an advisory capacity that did not require his presence in Washington. The mayor said he was alluding to a proposed council of urban advisers that would offer advice to the president on a regular basis.

The former Los Angeles police lieutenant and three-term city councilman became the first black mayor of a large, predominantly white-populated city in 1973, ending the 12-year rule of Mayor Sam Yorty with 56 per cent of the vote.

As a councilman, Bradley was sharply critical of police handling of the 1965 race riots in Watts. As mayor, Bradley has served as president of the National League of Cities and was a particpant in the league's recent meetings with Carter.

His focal points have included a community development program for new housing and rehabilitation of old homes, and improved social services. His administration has produced balanced budgets and attracted larger amounts in federal grants.

Hearing in 4th day in strangling of beautician

The West Valley Municipal Court preliminary hearing for Gerrard "Pierre" Hite, 26, accused of raping and strangling a Cucamonga beautician on May 5 continues today behind closed doors.

The preliminary hearing began Monday with Judge Martin Hildreath, on the request of defense attorneys, closing the courtroom to newsmen and spectators. The California Penal Code requires that a judge exclude newsmen and reporters from the court on the request of the defense.

Hite was originally arrested in August by Chino police investigating the alleged assault and burglary at a Chino woman's home. He was later charged with burglary in the case and assault with intent to commit rape.

The victim of the alleged assault and burglary, Mrs. Linda Larson, 26, came home and found a man inside of her home. She said the man attacked her and tried to push her to the floor. Her screams finally drove the burglar off.

Police said that Hite, a former employee at Chadborne Chevrolet in Upland obtained Mrs. Larson's address when she went to see about buying a car.

Meanwhile, San Bernardino County Sheriff's deputies investigating the death of Mrs. Noma Mae Stewart, 26, a Cucamonga beautician, were relayed the information from Chino and learned that Hite also had talked to Mrs. Stewart about a car purchase and had obtained her address.

Deputies, after obtaining a search warrant for Hite's home, discovered the names and numbers of other women in Ontario, Upland, and Chino on a list of the defendant's clients. The women were also the victims of obscene phone calls, prowlers, and attempted rapes, according to information filed in the request for a search warrant.

Another piece of evidence, possibly linking the suspect with the alleged rapes and murder of Mrs. Stewart, was also expected to be introduced at the hearing. The evidence was described as a pair of boots left behind by the burglar at Mrs. Larson's home in Chino.

The preliminary hearing will determine if police and sheriff's deputies have legally obtained enough evidence to bring the defendant to trial. Some of the evidence obtained could be ruled out in the preliminary hearing.

2nd trial in fatal beating set for Jan. 3

The second murder trial of a Tempe, Ariz., youth, charged with beating to death a Cal Poly professor in the victim's Diamond Bar apartment more than a year ago, has been scheduled for Jan. 3 in Los Angeles Superior Court.

The defendant is Richard Sinnott, 18, who was tried on murder and robbery charges last October. At that time, after a lengthy trial the Los Angeles jury ruled him innocent of the robbery charge, but could not decide the murder issue. A new trial was ordered.

The case originally was scheduled for Pomona Superior Court, but was transferred into Los Angeles because of its expected length. Deputy Dist. Atty. Clifton Garrott again with handle the prosecution.

The victim, 53-year-old William C. Warner, was found dead in his apartment the afternoon of Oct. 20, 1975. Fellow employes had gone there to find out why he had failed to arrive for work.

The murder trial of Rachel Irene Disson, 32-year-old Hacienda Heights woman charged with killing her husband March 28, 1975, has been continued to Jan. 27 in Pomona Superior Court.

The murder charge was dismissed against the woman at a hearing in the Pomona court last year, but that action was reversed by the state Appellate Court and she was ordered to stand trial.

The victim, Gary Disson, 35, was shot to death at the Disson home at 15434 Barata St.

Four Pomona police officers promoted

Veteran Pomona Police Department officers Vernon M. Weigand, R.B. Zbinden, Rick Shaurette and Roy Christensen have been promoted, Chief Richard A. Slaght announced.

Weigand and Zbinden were promoted from lieutenant to captain and Shaurette and Christensen from sergeant to lieutenant.

Weigand, 47, was graduated from Fremont High School in Los Angeles in 1946 and moved with his family to Pomona. He joined the department in 1952 after having returned from Korea where he was a sergeant in the Pomona Armored Tank Company of the 40th Army Division.

During his first seven years with the department Weigand worked in the patrol division as a patrolman, traffic officer and traffic investigator. In 1959 he was promoted to detective and also served as a juvenile officer. In 1963 Weigand was promoted to sergeant and remained in the detective division as a supervisor. In 1965 he was promoted to lieutenant and became deputy commander of the division. Later he served for one year as a patrol division watch commander.

In 1967 he formed the department's Community Relations Bureau and in 1974 he became deputy commander of the Administrative Services Division. He became acting division commander in 1975 and continued in that post until his latest promotion when he was assigned as commander of the detective division.

During his 24 years on the department, Weigand has completed numerous FBI courses and instruction in all phases of police work, many on the college level. He holds a teaching credential for the state and has taught police science and criminal justice courses at Mt. San Antonio College and several police academies.

Zbinden, 42, a native Californian, joined the department in 1959, was promoted to detective in 1965 and to sergeant in 1966. Four years later he was promoted to lieutenant and at various times was watch commander, commander of a special enforcement detail, was a deputy commander and acting patrol division commander and detective division commander until his latest promotion.

Zbinden graduated from Mt. San Antonio College in 1963 and presently is attending California State University at Los Angeles where he is to graduate next year with a degree in police administration. He holds basic, intermediate, supervisory and advanced certificates from the state Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training in addition to numerous training certificates.

Zbinden has a teaching credential and has taught at Mt. San Antonio College and Chaffey Community College. He currently is teaching at the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department and local police departments.

Zbinden is a member of the Pomona Management Club, the Los Angeles County Peace Officers' Association, the California Peace Officers' Association and the International Police Association.

Christensen, 49, joined the department in 1954 and was promoted to detective in 1964. Two years later he was made sergeant.

In that rank he served in various supervisory positions, including patrol sergeant, jail supervisor and in the Administrative Division. During the last three years, Christensen has been assigned to the planning and research unit.

Christensen was born in Chicago, but grew up and graduated from high school in Copenhagen, Denmark. He has attended numerous training courses presented by the FBI, the California Highway Patrol, and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

In addition, Christensen has completed courses in law enforcement subjects, psychology and administration at East Los Angeles Junior College and Mt. San Antonio College and also has attended many supervisory and management seminars. He has earned numerous training certificates including basic, intermediate, advanced and supervisory certificates issued by the state Commission on Peace Officers' Standards and Training.

Currently, Christensen is a member of the Association of Police and Research Officers, the Peace Research Association of California and the Pomona Management Club.

Shaurette, 33, joined the department in 1967 and attained the rank of senior patrolman in 1973. He was promoted to sergeant a year later.

He was appointed acting-lieutenant early this year and was assigned as watch commander — a post he still holds. His assignments within the department have included a tour as observer in the helicopter program and head of the burglary task force, the SWAT team and the special enforcement detail.

Shaurette has attended Mt. San Antonio College, Rio Hondo College and currently is attending Chaffey College. He also holds basic, intermediate and supervisory certificates and in addition several other certificates in peace officer training.

Shaurette served two years as secretary and two years as president of the Pomona Police Officers Association and is a member of the Los Angeles County Peace Officers' Association. He has served as chairman of a labor relations committee for the Peace Officers' Research Association of California.

All of these items will be displayed at Santa Claus, Inc., headquarters at 163 Pomona Mall West on Monday and Tuesday for needy parents to make selections for their children.

The seven women who have worked all year preparing the toys are Mrs. Ella Bockover, 69, vice president of the organization; her daughter, Mrs. Ula Mae Smith, a member of the board of directors; and Mrs. Vera Hill, Mrs. Julie Saige, Mrs. Connie Saige, Mrs. Roberta Smith and Mrs. Judy Spallino, all of Pomona.

Some 350 dolls have been dressed by Joann Longfellow of Pomona, Mrs. Hill, women at the Pomona Trinity Methodist Church and at least two other women in the community.

Members of the Altrusa Club of Pomona fashioned 300 felt stockings and partially filled them with candy and small gifts.

School children in Pomona, Claremont and Diamond Bar have been conducting toy drives for the project and toys still are coming in.

Members of the Kiwanis Club and the Circle K Club at Cal Poly Pomona have painted toys. Members of the Ganesha High School Z Club and the Girl Scouts have assisted with mailing so needy parents would be alerted to the availability of the toys.

Fashion Fabrics donated materials for doll clothes, and Mrs. Welford Turner of The Creative Press, Claremont, donated 100 children's books.

Santa Claus, Inc., President L. T. Rogers, Progress Bulletin city editor, credits Ula Mae Smith with "doing 90 per cent of the work this year."

Mrs. Smith, wife of Don Smith, an employe of the Northwest Paper Co., has eight children of her own. They range in age from 7 to 25. She has two grandchildren. She calls Santa Claus, Inc., her year-round hobby. She has been active in the organization the past six years.

Mrs. Bockover began her participation in the project that same year. This season she has dressed 75 dolls.

"We enjoy it very much," said Mrs. Smith, "or we wouldn't do it. But, it is hard to get volunteers interested."

Preparations for Christmas 1977 will begin shortly after the first of the year.

Pomona Valley Santa Claus Inc., serves largely welfare families in Pomona, part of Chino, Claremont, San Dimas and Walnut. Last year the volunteers provided toys for more than 1,200 boys and girls from 350 families.

MAKING REPAIRS — Roberta Smith, left, and Judy Spallino, both of Pomona, are making repairs on stuffed animals which will be cleaned and brightened before being displayed for needy parents to make selections for their children. All the toys shown were donated.

FILLING THE SHELVES — Ula Mae Smith, a Pomona Valley Santa Claus, Inc., director, places repaired and renewed toys on shelves ready for eligible parents to make selections for their childrens Christmas. Mrs. Smith, mother of eight, works year round renewing toys.

NEW PAINT — Vera Hill of Pomona has spent many hours applying coats of new paint to used toys in hopes the brightened articles will bring happiness to the children who receive them.

Merry Christmas

Meals on Wheels treats shut-ins during holidays

Pomona Meals on Wheels volunteers are making the holidays brighter for 50 residents who receive meals in their homes each day.

Instead of delivering meals to the shut-ins one day last week, 25 men and women were picked up by the volunteers and driven to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. There, the guests were entertained and presented gifts from Santa Claus. A holiday luncheon was served by the hospital staff.

The other 25 participants in the Meals on Wheels who were unable to attend the party will receive gifts this week.

Mrs. Phillip Grossman, party chairman, said the event was a cooperative effort by PMOW volunteers, hospital food staff workers and community groups.

For some of the guests, Mrs. Grossman added, this party may be their only holiday festivity.

Gifts were provided by the Light of the Valley Prayer Community of San Dimas, several businesses and clubs.

The 32 students in the Upland High School Vocal Ensemble and Harmony Chorus, directed by Carl Walters, entertained. Mrs. Mildred Turney provided background music and accompanied the singing of Christmas carols.

James Kuhn, president of PMOW, said that in 1976, approximately 12,000 nutritious meals have been delivered to Pomonans who are unable to prepare meals for themselves.

The organization is seeking additional volunteers who are willing to serve a few hours each week to package and deliver the meals. The food is prepared at PVCH.

Volunteers may call 623-0100 for additional information.

SANTA VISITS — Pomona Meals on Wheels volunteers Mrs. Juanita Gutierrez, Mrs. Azalia Francis, Leonard Shoemaker (Santa Claus) and Mrs. Bea Grossman, from left, surround Mrs. Anna Pilch, a guest at a Christmas dinner at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Twenty-five of the group's 50 meals recipients attended the party. Others will be honored in their homes.

Marijuana possession citations up 27 per cent

Citations issued by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department for possession by adults of one or more ounces of marijuana are up 27 per cent over the same period last year, according to Sheriff Peter Pitchess.

A total of 6,112 citations have been issued so far this year compared to 4,811 arrests made during the same period last year.

All marijuana offenses, including sales, cultivation and other similar felonies are on the increase also, he said.

"This should provide a rude awakening for those legislators who supported the passage of Senate Bill 95, the so-called 'marijuana bill,' " Pitchess said.

The most disturbing aspect of this report, Pitchess said, is an obvious trend by many, now bored with marijuana, to move on to its stronger derivatives. Arrests for the possession of hashish, which is five times more potent than marijuana, have tripled. Arrests for possession of hashish oil, which is about 30 times as potent as marijuana, also are up, Pitchess stated.

Chinoan ends fire training

Kenneth W. Ortiz of Chino has graduated from the seven-week training program at the Los Angeles County fire training school.

He will continue his advanced training at Station 42 in Rosemead.

New Games tourney slated in Upland

A new giant six-foot earthball, recently purchased by the Upland Recreation Department, will be on hand at the New Games Tournament Tuesday. The following week, on Dec. 29 and 30, the recreation department will be sponsoring a two-on-one basketball tournament.

New Games activities will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. at Magnolia Park, 651 West 15th Street, Upland. Besides the earthball activities, Upland area residents of all ages will be able to participate in such games as bulldog, people pass, hunker hauser, and tweezly whip. The games are free and for the whole family.

This year's two-on-one basketball tournament will be a double elimination contest, rather than single elimination. The event will be run on Dec. 29 for fifth and sixth grade groups and on Dec. 30 for seventh and eighth grade groups. Teams can be made of combined grades.

All games will be played at the Upland High School basketball courts. Registration both days will be from 9 to 9:30 a.m. at the school courts. Awards will be given to first, second, and third-place winners. For further information about both of these activities, contact the recreation department at 985-0994.

Farewell dinner held for Ontario judge

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

More than 50 attorneys, judges, bailiffs, court clerks, and other dignitaries joined together recently to present Ontario Superior Court Judge James Cunningham, Sr. a special farewell dinner at the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

Judge Cunningham, who has spent nearly 20 years on the bench, will retire on Jan. 2 after a long and noteworthy legal career. San Bernardino County Juvenile Court Judge Kenneth Ziebarth, on hand for the farewell dinner, may tentatively be appointed to fill Judge Cunningham's seat on his retirement.

Judge Cunningham was lauded by his collegues at the dinner, spiced with bits of humor. Judge Cunningham, according to the guests, was instrumental in gaining automatic cost of living raises for the judges in the county, and through his court cases, set many new legal precedents. He has served the court as presiding judge of the West Valley Superior Court.

During the dinner Judge Cunningham, accompanied by his wife, was presented a special plaque commemorating his years of service by Larry Walker, administrative assistant to Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65th Dist.) on behalf of other local legislators in the West End-San Bernardino County and Pomona Valley area.

The judge was also presented a large wooden fishing tackle box with an engraved plaque by a number of his closest collegues.

Bidding special farewells to Judge Cunningham were his former court staffers: Tom Zacharias, bailiff; Joe Miller and Fran Walsky, court reporters; and his present court staff of Jim Stauffer, Bailiff; Jane Folmen, court reporter; and John Tanguay, court clerk. Also on hand were retired court clerks Grace and Ed Hamilton.

Judges speaking included Archie Mitchell, former West Valley Court Superior Court Judge; Judge Henry Busch, Judge Clifton L. Allen; Judge William Pitt Hyde; Judge Richard Garner; Judge Ziebarth; and Judge Howard Weiner.

From the Municipal Court were: Judge Dyson Cox, Judge Dave Merriam; Judge Martin Hildreth; Judge Philip Schaefer; and Judge Jack Jager.

Others on hand included: San Bernardino County District Attorney James Cramer and Don Crowell, Superior Court Executive Officer.

Judge Cunningham at the conclusion of the dinner said that during his career on the bench "There has been a tremendous emphasis in the growth of that body of law having to do with protecting the personal rights of defendants. Personal rights in some parts of the country were not protected in years past, but that is not true in California. They always have in our state. They were not protected as well in the eastern portion of the United States, where most of the cases ruled on by the Federal Supreme Court originated.

"I think its about time, in California, that the pendulum should swing back the other way, emphasizing the rights of the victims of the crimes," said Judge Cunningham.

Judge Cunningham said it would be likely he would be recalled to the bench on occasion when the court calender became crowded, or when special cases arose, where an outside judge would be called to the bench.

$4,000 needed for Greenwood Bungalow

The Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow restoration project is presently in need of an additional $4,000 to complete funding for phase I of the building's remodeling.

June Hymen, a teacher in the Arroyo School kindergarten who is directing the restoration project, said the building has been relocated to the Casa Primera property at Park and McKinley Avenue and has been placed on a new foundation. New roofing planks have been added to the building with shingles planned to be put on in the coming weeks.

Hyman said she has collected roughly $5,000 in pledges of the $9,000 needed to complete the first phase of the restoration which includes the foundation, roofing, painting and clearing away of debris from the new site on the Casa Primera property.

Beginning Jan. 3, she said, students from the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) work program will begin roofing with shingles, painting and clearing the grounds of the new site.

"We hope to have the place presentable within 60 days," said Hyman.

Work still remaining on the bungalow includes some carpentry, sanitation and sewer work, electrical work, plaster and patching, windows and termite control.

Hyman said donations of supplies or money are welcome. Those wishing to make donations may send them to the Barbara Greenwood Account, Historical Society of the Pomona Valley, Care of June Hyman, 204 Ford Ave., Pomona, 91768.

Donations are tax deductable.

Pilgrim Place festival proceeds to be distributed

The Pilgrim Place annual festival Nov. 12 and 13 this year brought proceeds of $54,105, which residents of the retirement community have voted to allocate to different phases of the health services available.

Festival treasurer Ross Thomas reported at a town meeting that the 1976 festivities netted more than $5,000 over the 1975 festival.

The residents voted to allocate the festival proceeds as follows:

—$25,000 towards the construction costs of a proposed health services center.

—$10,000 to the residents' security health fund. Money from the fund is assigned on a confidential basis to residents in special need because of emergency or long-term health expenses.

—$10,000 will help to meet the deficit in the operation of the McCabe Health Facility and Medical Clinic.

—$3,000 for special equipment needs at McCabe.

—$2,500 for installation of fire prevention smoke detectors in independent living units.

—$600 towards remuneration for a coordinator of ministeries at McCabe.

The remainder of the festival fund will go towards advance supplies for the 1977 Pilgrim Festival Nov. 29.

General chairman Doris Roth at the town meeting cited the work of more than 400 Pomona Valley residents who aided in the festival work as well as the gift of pies for the snack bar and plants and many other gifts for sale.

Two special performances of the pageant, given before the festival, drew 2,400 school children, who were impressed.

Nurses at PSH welcome probe, defend patient care

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Nurses at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona welcome the state's investigation of deaths at the hospital since they feel the hospital is well-run and employes are concerned about the patients.

The announcement by Gov. Edmund Brown's health department troubleshooter, Raymond Procunier, that 44 deaths at the state hospital for mentally retarded children have been classified as "very questionable" has brought strong defense of the facility by employes.

The state recently launched a probe into deaths at all 11 state hospitals after reports of questionable patient deaths, poor administration and sometimes brutal treatment of patients at some hospitals. At this time, most of the attacks have been directed toward Metropolitan and Camarillo hospitals.

News stories that 11 of the deaths at Pacific State hospital may have resulted following an infection which spread through the children's acute unit, has upset hospital personnel who feel that the general public is being misled.

"We wish the public could come out and get better acquainted with our hospital," said one nurse. "The mentally retarded youngsters here often arrive in the acute hospital as emergencies, with a very short life expectancy.

"Many of these children live much longer than expected. But a mentally retarded child is often multihandicapped and has physical problems affecting his life expectancy."

The staff also explained that these youngsters are just naturally less active than normal children, and therefore more prone to respiratory illnesses.

"Of course, we are short staffed," said one nurse, "But what hospital isn't?"

Staff members said they were kept busy doing "all the paperwork" required by the state and medical authorities and that upon occasion, they probably did fall behind in some record keeping.

This would coincide with the report by a hospital administrator that, to his knowledge, the charges against Pacific State seem to result from the fact that coroner's reports or outstanding information from a lab technician or a physician were missing from patient's charts.

"The parents of our patients are involved in the programs here, and are fully aware of what care their children receive," a nurse said. "They'd be the first to complain if they saw neglect. But they are highly supportive of us."

The Parents Council in November presented a proclamation praising the hospital and the medical staff.

During the holiday season, many clubs and civic groups visit the hospital to deliver gifts, give parties in the wards and entertain the patients.

"We hope this seasonal community interest will continue throughout the next year," added the nurses. "We feel that we may need public support. We feel, also, that we are doing a good job and are proud of the hospital."

On campus

A crash course to prepare persons for the Real Estate Salesman's License Examination has been programmed for the winter quarter by CHAFFEY COLLEGE.

Two on-campus classes will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting Jan. 4 and Jan. 6 respectively.

The three-unit tourse is based on sample questions used in past state examinations.

Information on registration procedures may be obtained from the admissions office here. The telephone number is 987-1737.

Tom Keating, a doctoral candidate at CLAREMONT GRADUATE SCHOOL, has been awarded a $1,000 Linhardt Dissertation Fellowship to complete a camparative study of the state's role in education in Florida and California.

In addition, Keating received a grant from a private Georgia foundation to publish and disseminate his research findings among state and local education leaders throughout the country.

While pursuing his doctorate at CGS, Keating teaches at Garey High School, Pomona. Last summer, he codirected an education and law workshop at the American Education Week Conference, sponsored by the U S. Office of Education at Chautauqua, N.Y. During this winter quarter, he taught a course on the legal and financial aspects of education at Cal State San Bernardino.

Faculty and staff members at HARVEY MUDD COLLEGE will contribute $48,467 to the college's fund-raising campaign.

The sum represents support from 89 per cent of the college's 142 employes who have pledged donations over a four-year period.

President D. Kenneth Baker described the employe response as a "tremendous effort, far beyond the hopes of the college when the campaign started."

Faculty-staff response was a small but significant first step in a $25 million campaign. Because of matching grants, the $48,467 actually triples to $145,401. Trustee Joseph Jacobs of Jacobs Engineering Group Inc., Pasadena, and the Mildred E. and Harvey S. Mudd Foundation each pledged to match employe donations dollar for dollar.

Major aim of the campaign is to build a more stable economic base through increased endowment for the private college which opened in 1957. Other goals are to retire debts, bolster curriculum and faculty research, and add equipment and biological sciences laboratories.

The fund-raising effort will move increasingly outward in coming months. A campaign has already begun with alumni. Future efforts will be directed toward other individuals, corporations, and foundations.

Net premiums written by EUCLID NATIONAL INSURANCE Inc. rose 260 per cent during its second year of business over its first year of operation in 1975.

This increase was reported by General Manager Thomas McCall at the second annual meeting of stockholders.

The locally-owned insurance firm, with headquarters at 615 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario, also reported earnings of $6.60 per share, a better than 50 per cent return on invested capital, for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31.

Stockholders retained the seven members of the board of directors for another year's term.

Officers elected by the board include Jackie Holz, president; Harry Crowell, first vice president; Thomas McCall, second vice president and general manager; Neil Nevills, treasurer; and Mel Hodell, secretary. The other two board members are Arnold Anderson and William Cambio.

The staff of Euclid National Insurance now has increased to seven, including three secretaries and three sales persons.

Kiwanians play Santa at boys home

Santa Claus has visited the McKinley Home for Boys in San Dimas.

This Santa, however, was not the traditional one with flowing white beard and red suit; instead he was represented by many men, all members of the Kiwanis Club of Los Angeles.

The Kiwanis were guests for a traditional turkey dinner and an original play, "We Interrupt This Program," written by McKinley's program director, Gary S. Bean, and performed by boys residing at the home.

Harvey A. Anderson of North Hollywood, chairman of the McKinley Home Committee of the Kiwanis Club of Los Angeles, presented the boys with two tournament soccer games. One will be used in the home's recreation hall and the other in the newly opened "Group Home" in La Verne. The Kiwanis Club also provided numerous gifts for each youth at the nonprofit, nonsectarian children's agency specializing in residential care for boys 8 to 18 years of age.

Members of the San Gabriel Valley Auxiliary to McKinley wrapped the gifts.

For over 55 years, the Los Angeles Kiwanis have supported the home and sponsored numerous special events.

The Christmas play was also performed before members of the Los Angeles Auxiliary to McKinley at a luncheon. Each boy also received a gift from auxiliary members.

L.A. moves to open traffic lane

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has moved to force the California Department of Transportation to open an unused preferential traffic lane on the San Diego freeway to all vehicles.

The council Tuesday asked the city attorney to explore legal action to force Caltrans to open the nine-mile diamond lane. The council also vowed to seek state legislation to see that the lane is used.

The preferential lane, which runs from the Santa Monica to the Ventura freeway, was completed in September. Caltrans intended the lane for use by buses and carpools but has kept it closed to traffic because of widespread opposition to the preferential concept.

BEN WHO? — If the painting that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is remarking about at the State Department looks familiar it's because it greatly resembles the famous Greuse portrait of Benjamin Franklin. Only the face has been changed — it's Kissinger's. The portrait was presented to him at a reception.

Nation must cope with poor families, says panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Academy of Sciences panel says it does not know what it would cost to guarantee health care, jobs, day care and a minimum income to poor families with children.

But the panel thinks it can predict what will happen if those goals are not reached:

"The rates of child abuse, crime, drug dependency, failure in school and other indicators of our attention to the problems of children and families will grow," it said in a report.

The report was commissioned four years ago by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The $204,000 study readily identified the problems facing children. One out of every three does not receive adequate health care. Millions of preschool children receive inadequate attention because their parents are poor or absent from the home.

More than three million live in homes below the poverty level and 60 per cent of poor children are raised by single parents.

Among all Americans, the study found, 52 per cent of mothers with children of school age work. Thirty-seven per cent of those with children under the age of 6 work.

The nation must cope with what amounts to a rapid disintegration of the nuclear family, defined as a unit of two parents and their children, the panel said.

As a solution, it proposed putting more money in the hands of the poor, to guarantee that no child spends the formative years of his life in a household living below the poverty level.

It recommended an income redistribution plan, such as a negative income tax, to replace the current welfare system; public employment and job training programs; and a deliberate policy of growth stimulation by the government.

Such programs, it said, should add to the income of 40 per cent of American households.

The panel chairman, Dr. Robert Aldrich of the University of Colorado, said it was cautiously optimistic that its recommendations will be adopted by the Carter administration and enacted by Congress.

Marine biologists puzzled

Suicide squid litter beaches of Cape Cod

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

EASTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Biologists are trying to figure out why millions of squid have squirmed onto the sandy beaches of Cape Cod since mid-October, committing mass suicide in the freezing air.

"Some days there are so many of them on the beach that it's impossible to walk without stepping on them," said Robert Prescott of the Cape Cod Museum of Natural History.

If rescued and thrown alive back into the sea, the long-tentacled animals immediately climb back ashore.

The dead squid litter the icy beaches along the Cape Cod Bay side of the peninsula. The heaviest concentrations are between Brewster and Eastham about halfway out the Cape, but unusually large numbers are being found along the entire length from Provincetown to Sandwich.

The squid, some of them two feet long, ride the waves onto the beaches. Then they push themselves above the water's reach by squirting water through the jets they use for propulsion, and wiggle on the sand until they die or are killed by hungry birds.

"This would be a problem if it was summer," Prescott said. "They would really smell."

But since it is cold, the dead squid freeze on the beach, and flocks of gulls and other sea birds eventually eat them. Some people have been putting the squid in freezers for use next summer as fishing bait.

Various theories have emerged to explain the mass suicide. One is that it has been caused by decimation of schools of fish, squid's natural enemies, by foreign fishing fleets.

In Cambridge, the Center for Short-Lived Phenomena has also noted that squid are much more plentiful than usual in the waters off Cape Cod. It said commercial fishermen have caught up to 11,000 pounds of squid in two hours. Ordinarily they would bring in 10 to 20 pounds.

"Squid are a popular prey for ground fish like cod and pollock," noted Fred Lux of the National Marine Fisheries Service.

"It's possible there is a relationship between the decline of fish and the increase in squid," he said. "If you get an extra large population, they will extend farther north and south than their normal range.

Other theories tie it to unusually cold weather or to unfathomed cycles of nature, like those which guide the migrations of birds.

"These squid began showing up in Cape Cod Bay around mid-July in increasing numbers," Lux said. Then, "the water cooled off very rapidly this fall. It's possible that the squid have suffered temperature shock."

The heir to the British throne did not finish as a casualty his 5½ years service as a naval officer. It was merely the way the crew of the minesweeper Bronington, which the 28-year-old prince has commanded for the past 10 months, said goodbye to their skipper.

Charles was seized by his officers, who were clad in long white doctors' gowns, and pushed into a ricketty wheelchair with his personal standard lashed to it.

Then he was trundled down the gangway and along the jetty as the Bronington's 43-man crew swarmed behind cheering.

"Behave yourselves," he called to the crew.

Into the Christmas spirit(s)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If some Americans aren't yet into the spirit of Christmas, many of them at least seem to be into the spirits.

That evaluation was offered by Stuart D. Watson, chairman of Heublein Inc., of Framington, Conn., who said his company's liquor sales are up 25 per cent over last year.

"People are indulging themselves a little this year," Watson suggested.

"This will be a record December, but for the year the industry's growth rate won't be above one to two per cent," Watson said.

Smoke detector would have saved the life of Ontario victim

Ontario fire inspectors believe that a small investment of $30 or less could have saved the life of an Ontario woman who died recently in a townehouse apartment fire at 1136 Vesta St.

"There is no doubt in my mind," that Mrs. Alice Jewell Taylor, 28, of the Vesta Street address," would be alive today if an inexpensive smoke detector had been installed in the apartment," said Ontario Fire Department Division Chief Rick Lebel.

"We are convinced that she and her friend (James Atchison) would have had a minimum of 30 minutes warning if a smoke detector had been placed on the ceiling above the second floor stairway," he continued.

As it was, Atchison, nearly delirious and in shock from smoke inhalation, managed to get out of the blazing apartment, while Mrs. Taylor, totally disoriented by the smoke, attempted to claw her way through a bedroom closet. She died seconds later as the superheated air burst into flames throughout the large two-story apartment.

Firemen said it was fortunate that Atchison opened a bedroom window for a moment while trying to find a way outside. The oxygen from the open window allowed Atchison to regain his senses momentarily and make his way to the patio to escape.

Lebel said, "Had the couple installed a smoke detector in the stairwell ceiling of the two story apartment they would have had time to call the fire department and get to safety, with firemen arriving in time to keep the damage to a minimum."

Mrs. Taylor's body was found in the east bedroom laying next to the closet where she had tried to claw her way out.

"Just a smoke detector would have prevented this terrible tragedy," said Lebel again.

He said that the burned windup clocks found in the Atchison apartment indicated that the fire flashed through the apartment between 2:45 a.m. and 2:50 a.m. The fire alarm was called in by a neighbor at 2:47 a.m.

Meanwhile, several police officers reported that earlier in the morning, about 1:30 a.m., they had smelled smoke in the area. But a search revealed no fire at that time.

It was nearly 45 minutes to an hour after that that the fire flashed over in the apartment, becoming visable from the street. Firemen believe that the smoke smelled by the police officers earlier was coming out of the apartment from a vent above the downstairs kitchen.

A smoke detector, the moment the curling smoke drifted up to the stairwell ceiling, would have sounded its alarm, far in advance of the flames or heavy smoke filling the upstairs. The sound of the alarm, had their been one in the apartment, would have awakened Mrs. Taylor and Atchison, and probably their neighbors in the adjoining apartments.

Lebel said, "It's really too bad that something like this has to happen before people realize that smoke detectors do save lives."

Lebel said that any resident in Ontario desiring information about smoke detectors is invited to stop by the nearest fire station and pick up several brochures the department has available for residents. He said that the fire department would, if requested, send a firemen or inspector to a home to show the resident where the best location for smoke detectors would be.

Lebel said that nearly all smoke detectors sold in the major stores today have to be approved by the state fire marshal and are usually priced between $25 and $50. He said the fire department is not allowed to tell residents the best or worst type of detectors.

Lebel said he would like to see every homeowner, who does not already have smoke detectors in their homes, to place a smoke detector on their Christmas shopping list. He added that most new homes, mobile homes and apartments being built in the city after 1974 should have smoke detectors installed because of new ordinances adopted by the city.

Action against officers with drinking problems recommended to Hahn

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

Los Angeles County Counsel John H. Larson has recommended that police officers with drinking problems be identified quickly and either be rehabilitated, transferred to non-sensitive jobs, or fired.

That action, described as "imperative," was recommended to Supervisor Kenneth Hahn recently. Hahn had inquired about county policy in such situations.

The inquiry was brought about by a case in which the City of Los Angeles was held liable in the sum of $980,000, resulting from one policeman wounding another during their off-duty hours.

According to Larson, the police officer was intoxicated when his service revolver was fired, wounding his companion. The wounded man later sued the city.

Larson wrote that "the city was held liable for negligence on the theory that it permitted the officer to remain on the force with a weapon in his possession, knowing that he had a propensity to become intoxicated and display his weapon in a dangerous manner."

The city's latest appeal has been denied by the state Supreme Court, he added.

The incident occurred while the officers were drinking in an apartment.

Larson wrote that "it has long been the accepted law that a public agency can be held liable for negligence if they know, or should have known, that one of their employes had violent tendencies or displayed other forms of behavior that would pose a threat to third parties and the agency did nothing to remove the threat.

"The court in this case apparently felt that since a police officer regularly has a weapon in his possession or nearby, it was negligent to permit him to remain on the force with access to a weapon after he had shown that he reacted violently under the influence of alcohol.

Larson wrote that it is imperative that officers with drinking problems that affect their performance or that individuals who display violent trends or irrational behavior be identified as quickly as possible.

That action would protect the public from injury and the county from liability, he wrote.

Larson added that it is the responsibility of the department head to find out and eliminate individuals who have personal problems or conditions which pose a potential danger to the public.

The county personnel department maintains an employe alcoholism program for the identification and rehabilitation of employes with drinking problems.

Larson pointed out that it is to the county's advantage to show that extensive efforts have been made to identify such problems and eliminate the high-risk employes.

He added that the judgement levied against the City of Los Angeles would provide the county with sufficient justification to fire officers who display the same tendencies as did the officer in the Los Angeles Police Department case.

Autopsy discloses death at CIM was by hanging

A San Bernardino County Coroner's office autopsy failed to prove that the death of a California Institution for Men inmate on Sept. 23 was caused by anything other than self-inflicted hanging.

On Sept. 23 the body of inmate Robert Garza, 25, of Sanger, a reputed leader of the La Nuestra Familia prison gang, was found hanging in a cell. The body had numerous bruises and a cut on the nose and a punctured eardrum leading CIM investigators and Chino police to believe someone may have killed Garza and attempted to make it appear he had committed suicide.

The coroner's autopsy showed only that Garza died as a result of suffocation brought on by neck compression. With the autopsy in investigators have little other evidence to show that death was caused by another, and have tentatively closed the case. Two inmates were being questioned in Garza's death prior to the autopsy being completed.

County's M.O.S.T van to be at GOSH Friday

The Claremont Public Library will bring the county's M.O.S.T. van and the Claremont High Chamber Chorale to Griswold's Old School House Friday.

The M.O.S.T. is the Los Angeles County Library System's multi-media van, used for Media Outreach, Service and Training.

The van will be in the GOSH parking lot from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The high school choir will present an hour-long program near the van at 2 p.m.

Inside the van visitors will see a variety of materials available at the library, such as books, magazines, pamphlets, records, cassettes and films.

Headsets are on board for those wishing to listen to the record, cassette, or radio station of their choice, and video cassettes on various topics will be broadcast during the day.

Kaiser agrees to take action on its pollution

Kaiser Steel Corp. faced with an order of abatement sought by the Southern California Air Pollution Control District has agreed to take immediate and specific action to alleviate numerous air pollution problems at its Fontana steel mill.

The district had filed an abatement order against Kaiser following concentrated inspection of the steel mill by three agencies, the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, the California Air Resources Board and the SCAPC.

J. A. Stuart, chief air pollution control officer for the district, said that Kaiser will be required to spend approximately $7.8 million over the next two years for additional facilities, materials and personnel that will be needed to implement the control program.

Terms of the agreement were presented to the Air Pollution Control Hearing Board today in San Bernardino and include an immediate improvement of operating procedures, more and better control equipment and a compliance schedule that runs through 1988.

If accepted by the board, the stipulated order will require Kaiser to meet certain specific conditions.

"Coke ovens are the most difficult aspect of a steel mill to control because of the size and the nature of the operation," said Stuart. "The corrective actions that Kaiser Steel must now take should significantly reduce this source of pollution.

Stuart also said, "The district sought the stipulated order because it would provide more immediate control measures than the originally requested order."

He emphasized, however, that the stipulated abatement order, once formulated, is legally binding and that Kaiser could be fined up to $6,000 dollars a day.

Bonita teachers threaten to strike

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Teachers in the Bonita Unified School District are threatening to strike or withold services in the event a contract cannot be agreed upon in the near future the board of education was told Wednesday night.

Representatives from the Bonita Unified Teachers Association (BUTA), "Angered at the lackadaisical attitude toward negotiations and the lack of response from the board of education's representatives," declared their intent to withold services if current mediation attempts are unsuccessful in hammering out a settlement.

BUTA President Robert Shears complained to the board, "We've been frustrated by four months of effort only to have the board's representatives stick to positions more restrictive than in the past."

The administration, however, claims the opposite is true and that the BUTA representatives are making "unrealistic demands" in contract negotiations.

Recently, teachers and administrators declared an impasse in negotiations that have been taking place for several months. A mediator was requested by both sides to help find a solution to the dispute. Apparently, however, mediation has had an escalating effect.

Teachers picketed the school district offices recently to show their displeasure at the pace of negotiations.

For Wednesday night's board meeting they again demonstrated their unhappiness by crowding the board chambers with supporters.

A number of picketers with signs waited outside the district offices as more than 120 teachers attempted to pack into the small school board chambers.

Outside teachers could be heard chanting, "We want a raise. We want a raise."

Bonita School Supt. James Johnson expressed concern over the tactics the teachers were employing and asked the school board to grant him "emergency" powers in case the teachers did decide to strike.

Such powers were granted by the board unanimously.

Johnson, school board president Eugene Bowers and Bonita PTA president Kay Borges, all were critical of some of the tactics recently employed by teachers.

Johnson described the recent picketing by teachers as "unnecessary and not a very good example to set for the mediator.

"I don't know how the teachers can possibly think that picketing would do them any good. It seems to me it could only have a detrimental effect to their position.

"We are as interested as anybody in a quick solution to the problems that separate us, but with mediation it seems to me people should work in a spirit of cooperation not diversity.

Pomona Parks, Recreation stages show

Pomona Parks and Recreation Department will stage a holiday show entitled "Prelude to Christmas" Friday at Palomares Park Community Center.

The program will star children from the park's preschool program, students from area elementary and junior high schools, and recreation staff members.

Director of the program will be James Benson of Palomares Junior High School.

The 90-minute program will begin at 7 p.m. Admission is free.

Other than fanning of fire, winds do little area damage

Winds which hit the valley late Wednesday are blamed for fanning a major apartment complex fire in Ontario but did not cause other serious damage, according to reports from police departments and the California Highway Patrol.

General Telephone Co. provided emergency telephone service at the scene of the apartment fire. Mobile telephone service and special lines connected the Ontario Police command center at Vineyard and Fourth Street and the evacuation site at Imperial Junior High School until the wind blew the lines down, breaking the connection.

The winds from the north and northeast will gust up to 10 to 25 miles per hour today but are expected to calm down this evening, the National Weather Service predicts.

The CHP said this morning that while there is sand in the air, visibility is not hampered and no roads have been closed due to high winds.

Spotlight on area crime

Barmaid robbed, kidnaped, beaten, raped

A woman employe at the Walnut Room, a tavern at 19687 E. Valley Blvd. in Walnut, was robbed, kidnaped, beaten and raped by three men early today, sheriff's deputies said.

The victim, a 34-year-old barmaid, was found later in Carson where her abductors had abandoned her. She was taken to Harbor General Hospital where her condition this morning was termed fair.

Deputies said the men, described only as three male blacks, entered the tavern just before 1 a.m. All were armed with pistols. After looting the safe, they forced the woman into their car and drove away. She was found two hours later by deputies cruising the Carson area. They said they had not learned where the attack on the woman had taken place.

Deputies said they arrested one suspect in the case. He is a 19-year-old man arrested in the Carson area.

Two men robbed

Two Pomona men, one confined to a wheelchair, were robbed on a Pomona parking lot Wednesday night, police said.

One victim, Raymond L. Navarro, 26, said he and his companion, Brian Wilson, 27, had been at a restaurant and he was placing Wilson's wheelchair in the trunk of his car when three youths approached on the parking lot in the 100 block of E. Sixth Street.

Navarro said one youth, who he believed held a pistol, warned that he would be killed if he did not give them money. Navarro surrendered his wallet. Then the youth approached Wilson, who was in the car, but got nothing from him. All three youths ran southbound into a nearby alley.

The leader was described as black, about 16, 5 feet 6 weighing 130 pounds. He wore a blue knit cap, blue jacket and blue jeans. The other two, also black, were also about 16 years old, police said.

Pomona woman hurt

A Pomona woman suffered a head injury Wednesday afternoon when she apparently was attacked and robbed on a shopping center parking lot in the 1400 block of E. Holt Avenue in Pomona, polce reported.

But the victim, Virginia King, 42, said she could not recall what happened to her. She was found by passersby, lying unconscious and with a head injury, shortly after 1:30. She was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was released later after treatment.

Police said the victim told them she had been carrying a purse and several packages. All were missing when she was found lying on the pavement.

Two women robbed

Two women, leaving the La Cabana Restaurant at 500 N. Palomares St., Pomona, Wednesday night, were robbed of their purses on the parking lot, police reported.

Betty Mendoza, 41, of Ontario, said she and Pamela E. Northrop, 25, of Pomona, were at their car when a man leaped from bushes, armed with a shotgun. He demanded and got both women's purses before running to a car parked nearby and being driven away.

The gunman was described as black, 5 feet 6 and very thin. He wore a brown coat.

Claremont school board announcements made

Merrill airs candidacy for board

Dexter "Jim" Merrill, 842 Hood Drive, Claremont, has announced that he is a candidate for a Claremont school board seat in the March 1977 election.

Merrill is an account manager with DuPont Company and is responsible for chemical sales in the 11 Western states, and currently is a member of the Claremont Planning Commission.

His four daughters attend Claremont schools.

Merrill said that he and his wife made Claremont "our home because of its educational opportunities for our children and ourselves."

"My interest in our schools and my desire to see continued high standards of excellence prompts me to run for the school board," he said. "I especially am concerned that we have community participation and involvement in the education of our children."

The "Jim Merrill for Schools" steering committee so far includes Jil Stark, Lynn Jackson, Dennis Blay, Russ Martin and Freeman Allen, who will serve as treasurer.

Mrs. Stark has commented on the importance of having a member of the business community on the school board.

Oglesby to add name to the list

Alice Oglesby, an eight-year resident and volunteer in Claremont, has filed as a candidate for the Claremont school board election in March 1977.

Mrs. Oglesby, a parttime instructor at Citrus College, has been a volunteer aide in the Claremont elementary schools for the past six years.

She has developed and taught science units for pre-school children in Montclair and mini-courses in chemistry, biology and geology for elementary school students in Claremont.

Mrs. Oglesby holds a doctor of philosophy degree in bacteriology and has two children.

An active member of the Claremont League of Women Voters, she has served three years on the board, and has been school board observer and a member of the organization's speakers bureau.

A member of the Sierra Club and the Audubon Society, she was a volunteer tour guide at the Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden for three years.

Two will not seek re-election

Two Claremont school board members have announced that they will not seek re-election in the coming March election campaign.

Arthur L. Steffen Steffen Jr., elected to the board in 1969, has said that eight years of effort is enough.

"It's time for a fresh change and a fresh look on the board," Steffen said.

Calling his two terms in office "an enriching, positive experience," Steffen said that he learned a great deal, but was frustrated by bureaucracy while trying to do a good job.

Steffen has served as board president three years.

Robert Stafford, who served on the board from 1959 to 1975, chose not to seek re-election last year, but was a successful recall candidate May 18 this year and has served Ernest Taylor's unexpired term.

He was board president from 1961 to 1963 and 1967 to 1969.

"Under the present circumstances I don't intend to run for another term," Stafford commented.

Suing firms is big business

There has been a lot of talk lately about the growing number of product liability lawsuits — claims against businesses or manufacturers for injuries caused by allegedly unsafe or defective products — as well as the growing size of awards.

As evidence of both trends, the number of such claims in 1975 was 50 per cent higher than in 1971, and the dollar volume of claims in 1975 was three and one-half times that of 1973.

Much of the talk has come, not surprisingly, from the insurance industry, which has to foot the immediate bill for damages when a court or jury finds a manufacturer at fault. In the final analysis, of course, it is the general public which pays the bill when the higher cost of insurance premiums is passed along in the form of higher prices for consumer products.

Which may be all right, and the only way it can work. The trouble, however, is that the present system is inordinately enriching the few, especially lawyers, at the expense of the many, charges one insurance industry spokesman.

Not only has American society adopted a "sue complex" but shortcomings in our tort system are encouraging too many frivolous lawsuits, says Robert T. Clayton, president of the 175,000-member strong Independent Insurance Agents of America.

Thanks to the contingency fee method, whereby a lawyer is paid a percentage of the award if and when he wins the case for his client, inflated and unreasonable claims can be pursued at little or no expense to the plaintiff, he says. As a result, many claims are settled out of court for amounts in excess of what is justified simply to avoid the high cost of legal defense should the case go to trial.

Again, the complaint is from the insurance industry side. But when lawyers themselves join the chorus, we know something must be wrong.

Four national associations of defense lawyers recently issued a "Products Liability Position Paper" asserting that "judicial excess" has created a products liability crisis.

The paper, issued jointly by the Defense Research Institute, the International Association of Insurance Counsel, the Federation of Insurance Counsel and the Association of Insurance Attorneys, says nothing about contingency fees but does include proposals for 13 reforms of tort law and procedure.

And while the names of these organizations suggest that their primary concern is for the welfare of the insurance industry, the fact that fewer products liability cases would mean less need for their services lends weight to their proposals.

For example, the lawyers urge a system of "comparative responsibility" which would take into account the responsibility of the plaintiff as well as the defendant. Damages would be diminished in proportion to the responsibility of the person suing for them.

A complete defense would be allowed in the event that an injury resulted from the product being altered, modified, misused or abused by the plaintiff, or from his failure to maintain or repair the product.

The paper also recommends that manufacturers and sellers be relieved of the burden of the duty to warn against product hazards which are patent or open and obvious to any normally intelligent person.

Nor should a product be considered defective which conformed with the industry's "state of the art" at the time of its design or manufacture.

The public, our legislatures and especially our courts must realize, says the paper, that the ultimate cost of expanding liability is borne by the public. Further, not only will "continued judicial excess" lead to increased products cost, but if liability insurance becomes unavailable to certain manufacturers, it will lead to the closing of businesses and a resulting loss of jobs.

Think on these things

Good intentions have the same look of nothing at all. Yet, we always expect other people to know that we intended to do something — slow as we are in getting to it.

Frequently, the good intentions we are supposed to have hold the key to our happiness. While we bog down in the seeming necessities of living — the things that mean so much slip away. And it is always a surprise to us that other people do not know what we are thinking.

An intelligent being is supposed to have what it takes to surpass himself — if only he just doesn't intend to, but gets side-tracked to nowhere.

The day of the true self-sufficient person has never really existed. Without other people, without a sense of concern and humility, success is lost to the over-ambitious.

English critic John Ruskin once said that the first test of a truly great man is his humility. Can he take success without falling over his own pride? Can he do it without wanting to go back and destroy everyone who tried to hold him back? Can he give credit where credit is due?

The non-residency problem

Dear Editor:

Pomona school trustee Braswell most certainly has the right idea, but he did not go far enough. Since he was speaking as a board member, he confined his residency requirement to the school district employes. The Pomona problem is non-residency; the police do not live in Pomona, the firemen do not live in Pomona, the miscellaneous employes do not live in Pomona. In other words, Pomonans support other cities, but not Pomona.

In one, two or three years each one of these employe groups will be demanding yet another cost-of-living pay increase to maintain their standards of living. They do not care that each increase in their salaries takes more money out of Pomona into their communities and makes their neighborhoods more affluent and ours poorer.

Council should pass an ordinance now which prohibits any further increases, ever, in any salaries and, effective in 1979 roll back salaries to the 1976 levels. The passage of such an ordinance now would give any employes unwilling to work for 1976 salary in 1979 ample time to find a position in the community in which they live.

If council wants to know how strongly Pomonans feel about non-resident employes let them put it on the ballot.

Courts grease oilmen's path

WASHINGTON — A federal appellate court has been caught conniving with the oil and gas interests. The oilmen slipped through the back door of the Fifth Circuit Court in New Orleans last month to gain an advantage over their customers. This could wind up costing the consumers billions of dollars in higher gas prices.

An outraged Sen. John Durkin (D.-N.H.) learned about the multi-billion-dollar caper and called upon Chief Justice Warren Burger to investigate.

The chief judge of the accused court, Judge John Brown, has taken himself off the case and out of the controversy because he owns some $30,000 worth of oil and gas stocks. But he told us he has laid the scandal before a three-judge panel, headed by Judge Charles Clark, who refused to talk to us.

We have been able to piece the story together, nevertheless, from affidavits and interviews.

During the first week in November, the Federal Power Commission prepared an order granting billions in rate increases to the natural gas companies, which are controlled largely by the oil giants. Both the oil companies and the consumer groups awaited the order anxiously, with notices of appeal — the consumers to block the increase, the oilmen to boost the rates even higher.

The moment the order was issued, the consumer lawyers were ready to rush into Washington's appellate court to file their appeal. This court has usually given the consumers a fair shake. The oil representatives, on the other hand, prepared to file their papers in the New Orleans court, which has been friendly to the oil and gas industry.

Both sides knew it would be a race. For the court where the papers were first filed would hear the case. A secret observer turned up in New Orleans, meanwhile, to keep an eye on the oil industry's legal maneuvers. He was William Braun, a counsel for the House Commerce Committee, who suspected there might be some hanky-panky.

The FPC was expected to hand down its multi-billion-dollar ruling at noon on November 5. Braun was waiting in New Orleans' big federal courthouse. "At twelve noon," he swore in an affidavit, "I kept a careful watch on the activity of the clerk's office personnel . . . and did not observe any person filing any documents."

There was no sign of the oil representatives at the court counter where all the filings are supposed to be submitted in public cases. The astonished Braun could hardly believe the oil barons had slipped up, with billions at stake. He checked with deputy operations clerk Barry Stiebing.

Stiebing "informed me," reported Braun, "that 16 petitions for review . . . had been filed by Conoco, Tenneco, and Superior." Braun stared at Stiebing in disbelief. "I asked when the filings had been made," continued the House attorney. "And Mr. Stiebing informed me . . . at or about twelve noon."

Unless the papers had been filed by invisible men, the oilmen had to be dealing in the backrooms of the federal court. Braun investigated, and we confirmed what happened.

Actually, the oil representatives had shown up a day earlier on the possibility that the FPC might have issued its ruling on November 4. They slipped into Stiebing's office and used his telephone to find out whether the ruling was ready. The obliging clerk had "stood by," according to Braun's affidavit, in case the oilmen needed him.

The following day, the faithful Stiebing again closeted himself with the oilmen in his private office. He "commenced standing by," at 11:40 a.m. He even kept his telephone line open to the oil lawyers in Washington as noon approached.

"At twelve noon," declared Braun, "Mr. Stiebing was told to file the first petition." This was followed by another at one second after twelve, another at 20 seconds after twelve, still another at 45 seconds after twelve, right on until 12:04.

It turned out that 15 of the 16 oil petitions were incomplete. But Stiebing magnanimously offered to allow them "to be completed this afternoon."

Meanwhile, a second House lawyer, Patrick McLain, watched the "race to the courthouse," at the Washington end. The consumer lawyers received no special treatment. They were obliged to use a public telephone and to file at the public counter. They got one break which almost gave them a tie with the oil lawyers. The Washington court clock was calibrated by minutes, not seconds, so the consumer men were given the benefit of the doubt on filings up to 30 seconds past each minute.

Sen. Durkin's private letter to the chief justice spelled out the charges against the Fifth Circuit Court. "It is clear," wrote the senator, "the natural gas producers were permitted extended use of non-public facilities in the Fifth Circuit clerk's office. They were provided the undivided attentions and services" of the clerk's office. "I am sure you agree that such backroom filings are, at best, inappropriate and, at worst, give the appearance of impropriety . . . I urge the Supreme Court to conduct a full investigation."

Footnote: Stiebing told us he would "welcome an investigation into my personal integrity in this matter." U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallinghouse in New Orleans said he had found no wrongdoing. He praised the fairness of the court which, he said, was traditionally accommodating to lawyers from both sides. Burger's office had no comment.

PRIVILEGED ARABS — The State Department has quietly cut off special privileges that had been granted to Arab students in this country. For more than 20 years, students from Saudi Arabia and Kuwait were admitted on A-2 visas, which are normally reserved for foreign officials and heads of state. No other foreign students received this special status.

The Saudi and Kuwaiti students were singled out for preferential treatment because at first, they were all members of royal families. But this is no longer true. Therefore, Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D.-Pa., complained to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger about the favoritism.

As a result, the State Department ordered the A-2 visas revoked by October 31, but an official told us that the search for A-2 carrying students probably will go on past the deadline. They have to be located first, he said.

Pres. Ford, tall in defeat

The transition that is taking place in Washington — one President taking over from another — has not always been orderly, has rarely been comfortable and has never been this genuinely cordial.

President Ford stands tall in defeat. President-elect Carter has repeatedly acknowledged Mr. Ford's uncommonly courteous and helpful manner and reportedly has said that he would be honored to have Mr. Ford serve in some appropriate capacity in the Carter Administration.

Never in the history of our nation has there been this degree of transitional co-operation.

Vermont Royster has watched inaugurations since F.D.R.'s first and has researched those previous. He agrees that the civility of this Ford-Carter turnover is unprecedented.

Neither of the two Adamses would even attend the inaugurations of their successors, Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson.

President-elect Lincoln had to take over from President Buchanan without one word of communication, without the least gesture of co-operation.

When Franklin Roosevelt was elected he rejected any liaison with incumbent President Herbert Hoover. On Inauguration Day, Mr. Hoover was left to depart without ceremony — to make his own way to Union Station — without even Secret Service protection.

More recently, though Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower had worked closely for years — after the election there was no personal cordiality between the two men.

When it was Gen. Eisenhower's turn to move out his public attitude toward John Kennedy was politely proper but privately he kept referring to his successor as "that boy."

So the shift in power — Gerald Ford to Jimmy Carter — is being accomplished with a mutuality unique in our history.

President Ford has left nothing undone to facilitate a comfortable and orderly transfer of authority. His Cabinet was immediately made available for briefings. The presidential plane was placed at President-elect Carter's disposal as was Blair House.

Considering the campaigning which goes before, these two months of transition have to be most difficult; both men by now are — or are becoming — accustomed to subservience.

Royster suggests that someday we might want to give consideration to adopting the British system where the turnover is accomplished without this November-January gap — which does tend to leave our nation vulnerable for two months.

But until the big switch can be accomplished more efficiently — these two men — this year — are managing the transition with dignity which is a credit to both of them and a worthy example for the future.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Because of all the stories they must print about fires, thefts, muggings, murders, seductions, rapes, political briberies and pollution, our newspaper editors sometimes find it a bit difficult to counterbalance the news about sex, assault, crime and violence with reports on the more ennobling happenings in this modern world.

But they manage! — Today's good news, for instance, starts with the announcement that there are 118 grooves on the edge of a dime. It also includes the fact that 244 million cans of sardines were sold in the U.S. last year.

Then there is the welcome assurance that persons subject to heart attacks can lower their blood pressure by squeezing their ears. Under the heading of crime prevention, we learn that no less an authority than the ex-governor of Texas, John B. Connally, is advocating that the execution of convicted criminals should be nationally televised.

If his suggestion accomplishes nothing else, it should at least provide a welcome relief from some of the gore and mayhem we're now getting on television. And finally, to guide us onward and upward and keep our sense of artistic appreciation on the ball, we are told that a musical group calling themselves "Sex Pistols" have just been awarded a gold record.

Sacramento scene

Supreme Court location

By EARL G. WATERS

It seems appropriate that Chief Justice Donald Wright will retire early next year. For he surely shows signs of being "round the bend." His response to Senate President Pro Tem James Mills' demand that the Supreme Court relocate in the state capital is a classic of illogic.

It is his view that basing the court in Sacramento would subject the justices to "political atmosphere" and make its function more difficult. That's stuff and nonsense for dozens of reasons.

To begin with the justices are political animals. They got their jobs by appointment of the governor. They had to do something political to win the appointment. So none of them are blushing novices in the political arena. They aren't going to be seduced by the mere brushing of shoulders with other politicians. Besides, being the seniors of the entire judicial system, they are all big boys, perfectly capable of distinguishing right from wrong. Association with active politicians in the swim of current events isn't going to contaminate them.

In fact, judging from some of the decisions being handed down by the court, it might do them some good to get out of their cloistered sanctuary and mingle with the common folks. It might broaden their perspectives on issues.

This latter wouldn't be so much a factor if the court stuck to interpreting the law but increasingly it has demonstrated its tendencies to legislate in defiance of the constitutional separation of powers. Well, if it is going to legislate then all the more reason for it to be seated in the state capital.

Apparently Wright wants the best of both worlds. He says it's better for the judicial branch to be completely separated from the legislative and executive branches. This evidences an unbelievably simplistic logic that such separation is achieved by geographic distance.

Extending that, undoubtedly Wright, were he a justice of the U.S. Supreme Court would be seeking to remove that body to Wounded Knee or the Salt Lake desert. Never mind that the court has functioned these 200 years in the heart of the national government without being tainted by Washington politics.

The State Supreme Court headquarters in San Francisco more by happenstance and inertia than for any good reason. Initially seated in Sacramento it moved to the Bay in 1878 and has remained there ever since despite the specific requirement of law that Supreme Court justices "shall reside at and keep their offices in the city of Sacramento."

Operating in an aura of being something next to God, these Solomons have not felt any need to comply with the law. After all what court action could successfully compel that compliance?

Wright cleverly used the dodge that Gov. Jerry Brown wouldn't be willing to spend the money to build a suitable home for the court in Sacramento. It was adroit in the knowledge that Brown resists spending for anything that isn't his idea.

But Mills' suggestion contemplates the use of the Library and Courts Building which now houses the Third District Court of Appeals. The fact is the structure was built in the 1920's for the specific purpose of providing a home for the Supreme Court.

The court's adamant position on its headquarters has been tolerated long enough. Because of it, headquarters of other state agencies have gotten away with being located elsewhere, to the confusion of the people and at the expense of efficiency. It seems time to bring them all back to the capital where they belong, the whims of Chief Justice Wright to the contrary notwithstanding.

Ann Landers

Many caught in this trap

Dear Ann: Almost daily, and now in your column, something is published about "warehousing" the elderly and the inhumane conditions of homes for the aged. How many of these "experts" have actually faced the problem?

My 83-year-old mother has had two strokes. She is senile, can't walk, is very heavy and has no bladder or bowel control. Trained personnel is required to take care of her.

Unfortunately, my mother is very demanding. Her latest request is that we take her to the hairdresser, in an ambulance, if necessary. (There's a hairdresser in the home but mother doesn't like her work.)

When mother first became incapicitated my father tried to take care of her. It amounted to 24-hour-a-day duty and nearly killed him. She doesn't like being in the home, of course. They must tie her in a wheelchair so she can't fall out. They insist that she eat her meals and take her medicine. She views all this as a conspiracy to "mistreat" her.

Father visits her twice a day. I see her at least four times a week. For the privilege of keeping her in this "warehouse" we pay $1200 a month.

I don't expect to live to be 83. If I make it I will surely be on welfare. Mother's illness will have wiped me out. As the nation's leading Arbiter of Conscience, how about presenting the other side? — Another "Bad Child"

Dear Child: I was inundated by letters from "the other side" and my heart goes out to all of you who are caught in this trap.

There are no easy answers, but it seems to me that if our great country could spend 150 billion dollars on the war in Vietnam, someone in Washington should be able to figure out a way to care for our elderly at a cost that will not pauperize whole families.

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago a woman who worked as my husband's secretary told him she thought she was falling in love with him. He said he took it "as a joke," reminded her that they were both married, and he swears on his mother's name there was no affair. The secretary moved out of town with her husband and family soon after her "confession."

I knew nothing of this episode until a few weeks ago when one of those "Language of Love" cards arrived. The former secretary had sent it to his office but it was mistakenly forwarded to our home. The card listed poetically "my reasons for loving you." The damn fool signed her name and added, "Be Happy."

I wonder if she realizes how much anxiety her card has caused me. My husband must have liked her once, but now he says, "Forget the dumb broad." Well, it's not that easy.

My first impulse was to send the card to her husband (I'm saving it) but there are children involved and I don't want to punish innocent people. Nothing would give me greater pleasure than to hurt her as she hurt me. What do you say? — Unwanted Mail From Wichita

Dear U.M.F.W.: Your husband gave you excellent advice. I hope you take it. People who try to "get even" invariably end up behind. Tear up the card and quit while you're ahead.

First makeup is nail polish

Q. "In which country do the girls start wearing makeup at the earliest age?"

A. Believe that's a tossup between Great Britain and Sweden. It's not unusual for the young ladies aged 12 there to go the cosmetics route. Here's a trick query you can spring at the dinner table: What sort of cosmetics do most girls use first? Say nail polish.

The word "atom" came from the Greek "a" for "un" and "tomos" for "cuttable," or more loosely translated, "too small to be divided any further," I'm told.

Fitting, is it not, that the pastor of a church in Amarillo, Texas, is a man named Jack Amen? A Proper Job Club candidate, of course.

SOUTHERN COOKING

Q. "This TV newsman down in Plains, Ga., the other day said so-and-so was so dumb he didn't know the difference between cracklings and chitlings. So what is the difference?"

An. Cracklings, what's left of the hog's hide after it has been rendered down for the fat. Chitlings, the cooked intestines of the hog.

When you tell somebody there are turtles that can travel at a speed of 22 m.p.h., you ought to explain you're talking about certain sea turtles in the water, no?

Q. "Louie, have you ever lived in New York City?"

A. Have indeed. Off and on. Odd little items of trivia come to mind about New York City. Like the time back in the 1950s when the Board of Education there unanimously voted to include in its night school a course entitled: "How to Brew Beer."

SPEECH

In the ancient Babylonian Talmud, a book written by men, in the line: "Ten measures of speech descended on the world; women took nine and men one." That particular observation only dates back to A.D. 500 or thereabouts. It is by no means the first such remark of its kind in recorded history. Similar expressions chiseled on stone from a far earlier era have been turned up by the diggers. Not all women regard it as a chauvinistic wisecrack. Some say it simply means to imply that women in general are more articulate than men.

An insurance firm in Zurich discounts policies by 20 per cent on cars driven only by women. On the proven contention, it's said, that women drivers are less impatient, less aggressive, less careless and less dangerous.

Q. "Christopher Columbus supposedly was the first to prove the earth is round, but who actually originated the idea?"

A. First written record of the notion appears in Plato's writings of 399 B.C., but scholars say Socrates merits the real credit.

When the surveytakers checked out all the countries in Western Europe, they learned to their large surprise that the nation with the highest proportion of citizens who refuse to drink anything alcoholic whatsoever is Ireland.

Dr. Miller

Egg nog not for your cat

DEAR DR. MILLER: How much egg nog can a cat drink without it hurting him? Fishy, our cat, is just crazy about the stuff. He'll do anything, even come when called, to get it. — S.T.

DEAR S.T.: Even if the nog's non-alcoholic, and it should be, more than a slurp or two can be contraindicated for cats because (a) for fat cats, it carries too many calories, and (b) many cats, regardless of their weight, may develop gastrointestinal problems, principally from the sugars it contains.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I was interested to learn that wild animals in the zoo get their distemper shots just like my own animals do. Do they get the same shots? — S.T.

DEAR S.T.: The vaccines used to protect domestic cats and dogs against, for example, distemper are of two types. One group consists of killed vaccines in which the virus used has been changed in its character sufficiently so that it can no longer cause the actual disease in the animal, but only the disired immunological response to it. A surprising variety of zoo animals are susceptible to the distemper viruses. Animals ranging from the lesser Panda to blackfooted ferrets are susceptible to canine distemper virus, for example.

Care must be used when vaccinating the wild species with that second group of distemper vaccines, the modified live virus group, since these vaccines, safe for use in the dog, may not be changed in character enough to be safe to use in some of the more exotic species. The virus then, in fact, may actually cause the (distemper) disease it is designed to prevent. Because of this potential hazard in zoo animals, it is often safer to use only the killed vaccines where there is no possibility of introducing a live virus potentially dangerous to them.

DEAR DR. MILLER: For parents who have very little time and a child who wants one but isn't likely to show much interest in it, which is easier to raise, a puppy or a kitten? — S.K.

DEAR S.K.: With rare exceptions, kittens are considerably easier to raise than puppies. Even so, kittens do require some effort to raise and are entitled to at least a minimum amount of care, consideration and even affection. If this seems unlikely, than neither puppy nor kitten would be the right pet.

Do victims burn at roasts?

Q: I was wondering, watching one of those Dean Martin TV roasts, whether famous personalities really resent the insults hurled at them. We know they can give it — but the question is, can they take it? — Mrs. Steven Brown, St. Louis.

A: "They're only insulted when they're overlooked," says George Jessel, called by some "the toastmaster General of the United States." Don Rickles assumes a posture of wide-eyed innocence if a "victim" of his cutting remarks seems to bleed easily.

The beloved Harry Hershfield, who toastmastered literally thousands of luncheons, dinners and suppers (sometimes as many as four different functions a night to pay tribute to some contemporary or dignitary) once told us that his favorite targets were politicians. Like the time he introduced fiery New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia — only to be topped when his honor retorted: "Thank you, Harry. No matter what anyone says about me, they're partly right!',

Jack Carter has a flip mind to match his flip lip. So, too, has Jan Murray. Years ago in Miami, he was introduced by Eddie Shaffer, one of the fastest and funniest of the ribsters. "Jan," Eddie said, "is so thin his funnybone shows." Howard Cosell, who's undergone assaults from the dais for many years, shows no scars. Only if the comments are flattering does he realize he's being had.

The "insult" speech is a tradition of the trade that's older than George Burns. Once confined to a comparative handful within the hallowed halls of theatrical fraternities, television gave it national exposure.

Milton Berle has always been a master of the put-down, whether his target is male, female or in-between. The late Tex O'Rourke, who was official biographer at the Saints and Sinners fall-guy luncheons, went to great pains to dig up no-no's in the lives of the honored guests he was lampooning. New York's Mayor Jimmy Walker and New Jersey's Gov. Harold Hoffman, though not pros, were two of the quickest and slickest toastmasters of any era. Both had a flair for slicing up their victims, then picking up the pieces with a handshake and embrace.

One of our all-time favorite roastmasters is comedian-author-world traveler Joey Adams. When I relayed the question of whether he could take it as graciously as he dished it out, Joey answered with this letter:

"A good roastmaster is a hangman who has vowed to dishonor the guest. It's up to the comedians on the dais — better known as the assassins — to set the pace. They never have time to eat their grapefruit — they are too busy shoving it in the face of the guest of honor. That happened to me on three coasts within three days — when the Footlighters in Miami Beach and the Friars in New York and Hollywood dishonored me.

"Milton Berle said: 'Usually we roast the ones we love at these dinners — tonight we violate that custom in honoring Joey Adams.' Don Rickles said: 'I've known Joey Adams, man and boy, for 40 years — and I don't like him any more as a man than I did as a boy.' Georgie Jessel proclaimed: 'I sacrificed a lot to be here — mostly my self-respect.'

"The idea at these parties is: if you can't think of something nice to say about the guy — let's hear it. It was the occasion of my new book, 'Here's to the Friars' — which is about all these roasts ($8.95 — autographed $7.95) — and the comedic killers never let me forget it. 'Joey wrote a book,' said Bob Hope. 'I didn't know he could read. His book is in the fifth printing — the first four were blurred!'

"Howard Cosell chimed in: 'I love Joey Adams. I have no taste but I love him.' Pat Henry stabbed: 'Joey married a nice girl named Cindy. She's very sentimental. She saw a sign that said Help the Handicapped — so she married Joey.'

"Jack Carter killed me with: 'Success hasn't changed Joey Adams. He's still the same arrogant bum he always was.'' Jan Murray said lovingly: 'I'm a guy who likes to cook. I've baked a lot of ribs, I've boiled some liver, I've pickled some feet. But this is the first time I've roasted an ass.'

"Of course, I know that all of this is done because they love me. Comedians only roast the ones they love. And if you believe that, I have some swampland in the Everglades I'd love to unload on you!

"Don Rickles claims only one person ever objected to his needling: 'I made fun of a ringsider's beard — and I almost got belted. That broad had no sense of humor!'"

Dr. Lamb

White spots require watching

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am inquiring about a diagnosis my sister had. The doctor said she has leukoplakia. It's some spot she has on her tongue. What is this? Is it a form of cancer? Could you tell me what should be done for it? She had a biopsy; the doctor said it was not malignant, but she is worried.

She has had trouble for years swallowing anything that was not chewed-up real fine. She is undernourished because of the swallowing, and not being able to swallow her food, she sometimes relies on liquid made from blending in a blender, like milk, honey and banana.

After all the doctors she's been to, they should have told her what causes her difficulty in swallowing. Can you give her any advice on this?

DEAR READER — The term leukoplakia means white patch. Leuko in medical terminology means white and plakia refers to a patch. Most often they are seen on the lip or stem rests on the lip surface. Ill-fitting dentures may injure the inner cheek or other areas of the mouth, including the side of the tongue and cause a leukoplakia. In all of these instances the irritating factor should be identified and removed — or corrected — whether it is the pipe or a set of ill-fitting dentures.

The general nutrition problems your sister has experienced may be related to the leukoplakia, but I can't say without knowing more about the basis of her difficulty in swallowing.

Leukoplakia should be regarded as a potential cancer. That is why the doctor took a biopsy. Many of them do not progress to a malignancy, but others do. I must emphasize that your doctor has already considered this and has satisfied himself that your sister does not now have a cancer. However, it is very important that she be examined regularly and that a doctor check the status of the spot to detect any new changes as early as possible.

If your sister smokes she should quit at once. If she has dentures that don't fit or a natural tooth that sticks out in such a way to irritate the inner cheek of the mouth, but they do occur on the tongue and gingiva (gums). A common cause is smoking.

The pipe smoker may develop a leukoplakia of the lip, where the pipe tongue, these or related problems that cause irritation should be corrected without delay. The mouth should be kept absolutely clean, at all times. If any other local treatment is needed her doctor will be able to tell on the basis of the nature of the spot.

The swallowing problem could be from many different disorders, including spasm of the esophagus. And even nervous tension can cause it. Anyone who has difficulty in swallowing must have a medical evaluation as soon as possible. One of the many different causes is cancer of the esophagus. Early detection improves the chances for adequate treatment. Your sister has had frequent examinations so I would not think this would be her problem.

Do you know someone who needs to know about the harmful effects of smoking? If so send 50 cents with a long, stamped envelope with his address on it, and ask for The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes. Just send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Says Who!

Doomsday community sees monetary crisis

STELLE, Ill. (AP) — This community was established to plan for doomsday, expected in the year 2000. But residents are more concerned now with surviving the world monetary collapse they see coming next year.

"We are trying to get as self sufficient as we can. We are not panicky, just prudent," says Malcolm Carnahan, who rode out a power struggle to become head of what is known as the Stelle (a German word meaning "place") Group. "All signs point to the collapse of the world monetary system in another year. It was foreseen by our founder in 1963."

Carnahan, 39, once a minister in Harrisburg, Pa. and formerly with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in Chicago, says the Stelle community, sprouting on the prairie 100 miles south of Chicago, has accelerated preparations for the monetary crisis.

"We've sold 80 of our 320 acres and are using the money to build greenhouses to grow vegetables and fruit," he said. "Some families are switching to wood-burning stoves. We are stockpiling grain and raising rabbits, poultry and livestock."

The Stelle philosophy comes from Richard Kieninger, who published his visions in 1963 in "The Ultimate Frontier."

He saw it as his special mission in this life to prepare members to build a better world after the Apocalypse — earthquakes, erupting volcanoes, tidal waves — wipes out most of the world's population.

When the Apocalypse comes in another 24 years, the Stelle Group, which expects to grow to 250,000 joiners from throughout the world, will be airlifted to safety and will return to build the Nation of God, according to Kieninger's plan.

Originally, the group planned to construct its own aircraft, which would hover over the holocaust. But Carnahan says little has been done along that line yet and perhaps the equipment eventually will be bought.

Kieninger also envisioned a great depression in or after the mid 1970s and a monetary breakdown leading to it.

Surrounded by cornfields, Stelle looks like a modern housing development mistakenly plopped down miles from the proper suburb. There are 24 well-groomed homes on a winding road. The community has its own water-filtration and sewage treatment plants, and all electrical and telephone lines are undergound. There are no road signs leading to Stelle. It's just there in the hinterlands and takes some looking and wandering over farm roads to find.

The Stelle Group is a nonprofit corporation, and Stelle Industries is the profit-turning business. A factory houses woodworking, plastics, graphics and metal divisions.

Carnahan explains that the Group — with about 175 adult believers, 70 living in Stelle — is neither a movement nor a religion. Its members, he says, are practical, chosen people, whose lives are based on a system of accountability and responsibility.

"Visitors who might expect to find a far-out community are very disappointed," he says.

All children must attend school until they are 21, although at 18 they have the option of continuing classes in Stelle or going to college. The children set their own pace in school, and, through a combination of classwork and work at home with their parents, most finish third-grade level work by the time they are four years old.

"I don't tell my son that school has to be fun," said one mother. "Going to school is his job, and he goes there just like his father goes to his job."

There are few time-consuming organized school activities because there are other things for youngsters to do — organized sidewalk cleaning, for instance.

"If a child can sweep the sidewalks, there is no reason to have a man sweep the sidewalks," said a mother.

Noise is considered an invasion of personal privacy, and children are supposed to be more seen than heard. But they go on family outings and periodic field trips. A mother said that when they visit Chicago the children are apalled at the noise and bedlam others create, especially in the cafeterias in a museum and on the grounds.

There are no laws at the Stelle community and no police. Doctors, lawyers, architects and teachers are among residents, and some commute 20 miles to Kankakee or to Chicago.

Each family keeps its own finances, but everyone is asked to contribute 10 per cent of his income and time to Stelle. When an individual passes a screening and becomes a resident member, he must will all his possessions — with the exception of household furnishings and cars — to the Stelle Group. Members must be financially solvent and own no real estate or other assets outside the community. Prizes or inheritances must be donated to the group.

Al Piel, general manager of the fctory's woodworking division, said he became interested in the community after reading Kieninger's book.

"It had such an effect that I just stopped everything and spent two months in libraries trying to support or discredit what I read. I couldn't discredit it, so here I am," he said.

Stelle is a community of smiling, friendly people. It has come back from a power struggle within its own ranks that belied some of the beliefs in the group's basic Golden Rule of 12 great virtues: Charity, courage, devotion, discernment, efficiency, forbearance, humility, kindliness, patience, precision, sincerity and tolerance.

The founders, Richard Kieninger and his wife, Gail, had marital troubles and now are divorced, said Carnahan. He said Kieninger was often gone in 1974 and left his wife in charge, and there were quarrels when be returned.

"Richard was voted out in April 1975 and now is in Garland, Tex., setting up another Group," said Carnahan. "He visits us now and then, and we consider him our liason with The Brotherhood. Gail, who voted for his ouster, replaced him as the teacher and interpreter."

Gail and 30 followers left in October 1975 and now are in Centuria, Wis., Carnahan said.

Carnahan was elected president.

"Stelle is now on a more democratic basis. Any major issues are decided by majority vote," he said.

Supercar already built in farmhouse near Goleta

GOLETA, Calif. (AP) — You can't buy it, but a car exists today that meets the tough 1980 federal smog standards, gets 30 miles to the gallon and affords its occupants greater safety in high-speed accidents.

This "supercar" isn't being made in Detroit but in an old farmhouse outside this rural town 90 miles north of Los Angeles. However, its developers, Minicars, Inc., hope the ideas used in its design will eventually be adopted by the auto industry.

The car was developed under a $3.3 million contract from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Minicars is one of two firms selected to develop a "research safety vehicle," or RSV. The other company, Calspan Corp. of Buffalo, approached the problem by modifying existing cars but Minicars built their RSV from the oil pan up.

Although it's new, the RSV developed here "is not an invention," says Minicars president Donald Friedman, who resigned as head of General Motors commercial projects division to found Minicars in 1968.

"There's no new technology," says Friedman, 49. "It's just applying existing technology to cars. Detroit could make it within the next few years."

Minicars' RSV has a 104-inch wheelbase, about the same as a Ford Maverick, but the resemblance stops right there. The RSV, which carries four passengers, has airbags that inflate automatically in a crash for the front passengers and lap and shoulder belts for those in back. It also has a sophisticated electronics system that includes a microcomputer and radar that senses "threats" and puts on the brakes if the computer decides the driver isn't paying attention. If he is, the system has built-in safeguards against "false alarms."

"If the wheels are turned, the radar can assess whether or not it will hit an object," says Friedman. "And it will be clear to the computer that the object is being avoided by the action of the driver."

Minicars found that the most lethal crashes are frontal collisions, so the RSV has a completely crushable front end to cushion the impact. The windows are made of a special shock-absorbing plastic and the body is covered with a flexible plastic layer that all but eliminates nicks. The car weighs less than 2,000 pounds and is powered by a specially charged Honda engine mounted near the middle of the vehicle.

Friedman says a "no-frills" version of the RSV could be mass produced and sold for roughly the same price as a Ford Pinto — about $3,500. Adding each of the safety and consumer electronic options would push that figure up about 30 per cent, he estimates.

Friedman says the RSV refutes the auto industry's contention that safe cars wouldn't sell well.

"In the last RSV program, the government turned out something that looked like a tank," he says. "It can be the safest thing in the world, but if no one wants to buy it, it's not going to save one life."

Minicars decided to try for an attractive vehicle that still met the program's goals of safety.

"The goal of the program is to show that the national social goals of safety, economy and emission control are practical, synergistic and economically feasible," says Friedman. "The auto industry says it's not possible, but we have come up with some fairly convincing evidence that you can get the emission controls for 1980, 30 miles per gallon, safety at 50 miles per hour and do it within the general cost framework of today's cars."

Despite this, Friedman says the chances for a mass-produced vehicle like Minicars' RSV aren't terribly bright.

"The consumer isn't demanding it," he says, adding that Detroit would probably be happy to produce such a car if it could make the same profits as it does now.

"We're not saying that Detroit should produce this car," he says. "We're saying that they should apply some of the technology we've developed — maybe not next year, but at some point."

Minicars itself is not in the business of mass-producing cars, although it made 20 RSVs (18 of them are to be crashed for analysis with two being kept for display).

The next step in the NHTSA program "is to refine the structure and producibility characteristics of the car so no one can say 'Well, you can't do this or you can't do that,'" Friedman explains. By doing this, the NHTSA hopes to influence Detroit into adopting at least some of the features developed by Minicars, he says.

N. Dakota coffers bulging

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — While many states and cities worry where their next dollar's coming from, North Dakota has a surplus the tax commissioner says "isn't just a cushion — it's a mountain of pillows."

The coffers are bulging in this almost entirely rural state primarily because of booming prices for farm goods, which in turn have sent revenues from income and sales taxes soaring.

State Budget Analyst Dale Moug estimated Thursday that on Jan. 1 the general fund will have a surplus of $176 million left from a two-year budget of $442 million approved by the 1975 legislature. When the legislature adopted the budget, it cut taxes by $44 million.

Mindful of their fiscal fortunes, North Dakotans passed a measure in Tuesday's general election reducing the state sales tax on most items by 25 per cent — from four to three cents on the dollar. The vote was 129,181 in favor to 93,272 against.

Voters also reduced the sales tax on farm and irrigation equipment from 4 to 2 per cent, and eliminated a 4 per cent tax on electricity bills.

The tax cuts are expected to sharply reduce future surpluses, but state officials said they could not immediately project the amount. Officials also said it had not yet been determined what they will do with the $176-million surplus.

Tax Commissioner Byron Dorgan said that between 1970 and 1975 North Dakota, where the health of the farm economy "is everything," led the nation in personal income growth.

"The farm economy just went wild," said one state official. "The price of wheat went up and we had bumper crops."

The rosy picture for North Dakota is a switch from the early 1950s, when residents had the highest tax burden of any state in the country — with 11.27 cents of every dollar going to state or local taxes. The national average at that time was 7.58 per cent.

But taxes here climbed more slowly than elsewhere, so that in 1975 the average resident paid 12.03 per cent of his income in state and local taxes, compared with 11.89 per cent nationwide.

The sales tax cut will put the slightly more than 600,000 North Dakotans below the national average.

State Rep. Earl Strinden of Grand Forks, state House Majority Leader in the last session, sounded one sobering note for the future. He pointed out that because the economy is "90 per cent agricultural, the income can go up very fast, but it can also go down very fast."

Bootlegger of tapes sentenced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man who admitted bootlegging thousands of popular stereo tape recordings has been sentenced to 1½ years in federal prison on income tax evasion charges.

Michael Joseph Behar, 41, was convicted Nov. 9 of evading taxes on more than $1 million earned on the scheme.

Federal Judge David W. Williams also placed Behar on three years probation Monday.

Impressive phenomenon

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State University recently awarded its 200,000th degree.

"It took us from our first graduating class in 1861 to 1965 to award our first 100,000 degrees," said John W. Oswald, university president. "And now, in only 11 more years, we have graduated another 100,000 — a very impressive phenomenon."

Man guilty in jade theft

VAN NUYS (AP) — The last of three men charged with the theft of jade statuary from the home of mystery novelist John Ball has pleaded guilty to a first-degree robbery charge.

Daniel Zabala, 24, of Westminster, entered the plea Tuesday before Superior Court Judge Joseph DiGiuseppe. Sentencing was set Dec. 7.

Officer tells of death throes of sinking ship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "We're suspending the search. It would be impossible for anyone to survive out there."

The words, reluctantly spoken by Coast Guard search and rescue quartermaster Forest Telfer, confirmed the fate of the captain and 17 crewmen from the sunken lumber carrier Carnelian-1 in a raging Pacific storm. One man was discovered dead during the rescue operation. Another 14 crewmen were saved.

For Coast Guard officers who had lived the search four days and nights, the decision to stop looking was born of knowledge of the sea.

"It's not a really hard decision to come to when you have all the facts to go by," said Lt. Jeff Hathaway, who coordinated the rescue effort and terminated the search Sunday night Nov. 14.

"But it's very hard not to get emotionally involved," he added. "Being in the Coast Guard you've got to have a love and respect for the sea and we all know we could someday be in the same position as those people, and it means a little bit more to me."

Nov. 11, the Carnelian-1 sank to the bottom, and the 1,000-square mile hunt for its 33-man crew began. Merchant vessels diverted to the storm-tossed scene laboriously plucked survivors from the water in the midst of a jumble of floating lumber from the crippled ship.

"Every particular search and rescue case has its own individual problems and hazards that have to be overcome," Hathaway recalled. "The Carnelian was a problem to us because of two things: the position of the distress call, which was practically out in the middle of nowhere, and secondly — and probably most primarily — because of the weather conditions."

The 9,774-gross ton ship was built in 1967 in Osaka, Japan and owned by NSI Navigation Co. of Panama.

The vessel arrived at Anacortes, Wash., north of Seattle, on Oct. 28 to take on a cargo of lumber for Japan, according to Williams, Dimond Co., the ship's Seattle agents.

The ship departed Anacortes on its final voyage Nov. 2, steamed west 80 miles through Puget Sound and the Strait of Juan de Fuca and into the open sea. Carnelian-1 laid a great circle course for Japan, a much-used water highway familiar to ships in Pacific commerce.

As the ship crept on, the seeds of disaster were being sown above the trackless expanse of the world's largest ocean.

In the area of Midway Island, 1,300 miles northwest of Honolulu and 2,200 miles east of Japan, a ragged fleet of thunderstorms was building. A "bad weather" trough of low pressure was taking up residence in the mid-Pacific.

At about dawn Wednesday, Nov. 10, Carnelian-1 found itself in the midst of the storm with the wind blowing up to 60 miles an hour.

For the next 24 hours Carnelian-1 was flogged by mountainous seas rearing up to 35 feet. The skipper, Kwong Hung, 53, struggled to keep the bow pointed into the seas.

"It's the worst weather of the year," said U.S. Weather Service Forecaster Bob Morrell.

The overhanging wavecrests crashed on deck and on Thursday some of the logs lashed there broke loose. Some went crashing over the side; others moved forward on the deck, pushing the ship's bow farther into the waves.

It was 10:15 a.m. PST Thursday when Carnelian-1 radioed its initial "mayday" distress message to the Coast Guard at Pt. Reyes, about 40 miles from San Francisco. It was relayed by teletype to the Coast Guard Rescue Coordination Center in downtown San Francisco.

The ship's position was 1,400 miles northwest of Honolulu, Hawaii, 700 miles southerly of Adak, Alaska, and 800 miles northeast of Midway.

The message said the lumber lashed above holds 1 and 2, forward of the bridge, had broken loose and gone over the side. Nothing indicated whether hatch covers over the holds were damaged or had carried away, but the forward hold was flooding as the waves crashed over the log-weighted bow.

The first message said the ship's pumps were operating and able to handle the flow of seawater.

Along with all shipping in the area, Coast Guard, Navy and Air Force planes from Barber's Point Naval Air Station in Hawaii, Midway, Adak and Kodiak, Alaska were alerted.

At 11:30 a.m. PST the ship radioed that the pumps had quit, the forward hold was flooded and that Carnelian-1 could remain afloat only two hours more.

At 12:35 p.m. PST the ship's radio operator messaged briefly, "We'll be going any minute," and 20 minutes after that he issued the ship's final transmission — and its death warrant. The radioman said he was leaving the radio shack to stand by his lifeboat station, that the ship might remain afloat for 90 minutes but could "go at any time."

The powerless vessel, now dead and listing in the water with a flooded hull, had two lifeboats and a raft. These were not equipped with either food or water, the Coast Guard said.

Not long after the final transmission, the Coast Guard announced that the crew, 18 Chinese and 15 Burmese, had abandoned ship. Some made it into the boats and the raft while others clung to floating logs ejected from the doomed ship. The water temperature was about 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

A Navy P3 antisubmarine aircraft from Adak reported at 1:45 p.m. that it was in radio contact with survivors.

Three merchant ships were diverted to the rescue scene. The first was expected to reach the survivors no sooner than 6 a.m. PST Friday, but the Coast Guard reported another ship — the 472-foot Hunter — "appeared out of nowhere" and started plucking sailors from the wild ocean.

At dusk Thursday, with the wind down to 35 miles an hour, search planes reported they were able to spot fewer than half the 33 members of the crew. Two were safe aboard the Hunter, three were perched atop an upside down lifeboat from the Carnelian-1; eight were trying to keep their balance on floating logs, and a handful were in rafts dropped by the planes.

On Friday, one of the search planes flying 1,000 feet above the scene reported that the winds at that elevation had increased to nearly 70 mph, with surface winds blowing at nearly 60 mph.

Wind and seas were so rough that one of the rescue vessels was driven off.

"It's still raining and storming," Coast Guard spokesman Larry Clark reported. "The winds are picking up, there's more spray and rain and visibility is deteriorating."

The Hunter reported spotting a body afloat in a life jacket. The freighter Wisteria rescued eight seamen before dawn, and another four an hour later.

The Hunter and Wisteria steamed for Japan with the survivors. The Coast Guard cutter Mellon arrived Saturday morning and reported no sigh of other crewmen.

Hopes for other survivors dimmed with each passing hour. The Mellon remained on the scene and resumed the search at dawn Sunday.

As the gray day wore on, the resurgent storm strafed the area with winds of 57 mph and 30-foot waves.

After an all-day search Sunday, the Coast Guard was forced to conclude that further efforts would fail.

"We are suspending the search," said the report. "It would be impossible for anyone to survive out there with 55-degree water and the seas the way they were."

The Coast Guard said an investigation of the disaster was likely at the action of the Panamanian owners. In any case, they said, the United States would have no part in it since the ship was foreign and the disaster took place on the high seas.

$3.1 million dividend to be divided

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A $3.1 million dividend for the late billionaire J. Paul Getty can be distributed among his relatives because it is not part of his estate, a judge has ruled.

Superior Court Judge Neil A. Lake ruled against the J. Paul Getty Museum which argued that the money from a 1934 trust of his late mother, Sarah C. Getty, should be part of the estate since the dividend was declared last May 5, before Getty's death in London June 6 at the age of 83.

The museum is a principal heir of the Getty estate under his will which is being contested by his oldest granddaughter, Anne Catherine Getty.

Lake said in a written opinion Monday that the money "was not available for distribution" as part of the estate because it was paid four days after Getty's death and thus should be distributed to his successors — children and grandchildren.

Agriculture students up

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Student enrollment in the College of Agriculture at the Pennsylvania State University for the fall semester totaled 3,650, an all-time record for the college.

Robert E. Swope, assistant dean for resident education in the college, noted the increase in total enrollment from 3,463 last year and said that it was estimated that 70 per cent of the students came from urban and suburban areas of the state.

10-15,000 Viets have committed suicide, claims Canadian priest

PARIS (AP) — A Canadian Jesuit priest recently expelled from Saigon after 19 years of missionary work says between 15,000 and 20,000 Vietnamese have committed suicide rather than live under Communism.

There was no independent confirmation of the estimate, which the priest said he calculated from figures he got from dozens of hospital officials and hospitalized survivors in Vietnam.

Vietnamese officials in Paris declined comment.

Western diplomatic sources in Paris said, "We have heard these reports about harsh conditions and suicides but we cannot verify these rather startling figures."

The 52-year-old priest, the Rev. Andre Gelinas, also spoke of extermination of South Vietnamese officers and anti-Communist guerrillas and mass transfers of city dwellers to dreaded "New Economic Zones."

He said the Communists have mounted a pro-Soviet propaganda blitz and an antichurch campaign and that incredible rumors have been spawned by the harshness of Vietnamese life, including one that Pope Paul VI had mounted a liberation offensive and another that the Israelis were coming to the rescue.

Father Gelinas' first-person account recenlty appeared in a two-part series in the Paris news magazine L'Express. The priest, now living in Montreal, confirmed and expanded his story in a telephone interview with The Associated Press on Wednesday.

Despite the hardships, Father Gelinas said churches are more filled than ever in Vietnam and even predicted that some positive things might emerge from Communist rule.

Father Gelinas, who arrived in Vietnam in 1957 and lived on under Vietnamese Communist rule from the fall of Saigon in April 1975 until he was expelled 15 months later, said "the real big test began with the monetary restrictions.

"After having frozen bank accounts June 10, the government announced to the people in September that they had 12 hours to carry all their money to the bank. Afterward it would no longer be valid. Each family could keep only the equivalent of about 1,000 francs ($200).

"It was then that the big epidemic of suicides began: tens of thousands of Vietnamese, ruined, hopeless, put an end to their days. They thought they couldn't survive any longer in Saigon, that they would have to leave for the New Economic Zones, these clearings where city populations were being sent in masses."

Asked by The Associated Press for a more precise figure than "tens of thousands," Father Gelinas said, "anywhere from 15-20,000, based on my conversations with hospital officials and some of the would-be suicides who lived."

Father Gelinas said another fear was that the Communist propaganda would succeed in pitting children against parents, and that some Vietnamese "committed suicide by entire families.

"With revolvers, like the former policeman who killed his 10 children, his wife and mother-in-law, before killing himself. Or by poison at dinnertime: the father, after explaining it was necessary to put an end to their trials, passed out the poisoned soup. Sometimes they came to me beforehand to know if it was a mortal sin."

Asked his response, Father Gelinas said, "Of course I would tell them that it was a mortal sin. But I would also tell them every man has the right to liberty, even if there is physical risk involved, even the risk of life."

Father Gelinas said 400,000,500,000 Vietnamese have been sent to Communist "re-education camps" scattered about the country, and that in the camps holding ex-commandos and paratroopers, "four or five are shot a day. Others are put on mine-sweeping details."

The priest said Vietnamese television and movies are flooded with Soviet propaganda films and that "the methods, doctrine and heavy-handedness of the police and bureaucratic apparatus is completely Soviet."

Father Gelinas also said "many Vietnamese are taking refuge in prayer as a result, and one can say that never have the churches been more filled."

However, he praised what he called "the new sense of solidarity" the Vietnamese have under the Communists. "There is also something positive in giving a political awareness to the masses," he said. "People are learning to live and work together, and something good can come out of all this."

Ford officials warned they'll soon be facing a tough, rugged world outside

WASHINGTON (AP)—High-level Ford administration officials are being warned that they face a tough time adjusting to the world of private business after they leave government.

The government executives are getting this advice: Don't overprice yourself and don't be reluctant to admit that you're looking for work.

And they're being warned about a potentially greater hazard: unconsciously taking out their resentment over losing a prestigious government position when they interview for a job in private industry.

More than 40 administration officials paid $75 each to attend a day-long seminar on job placement Tuesday sponsored by management consultant firms.

Eva M. June, president of Ability Search, Inc., of Washington, one of the speakers, warned the officials about some of the pitfalls they face.

Few executives, she said, make "formal advance preparation to line up new employment. They are surprisingly unaware of the current job market and how to penetrate it successfully. For them, panic will set in on Jan. 20," when Jimmy Carter is inaugurated.

Miss June said most of the men and women she has talked to in the administration seemed genuinely surprised that President Ford lost to Jimmy Carter. "They're just starting to come alive" and consider their futures, she remarked.

The ones who have worked for four or five years in government have it tougher than those with briefer service because the vets have lost contact with the latest needs of private industries, she said.

"It's a frightening experience for many of them," she continued. "Some are afraid to reveal even to friends that they don't have any offers."

With no interested employers lining up at their door, Miss June suggested that government executives may feign a casual air about their prospects to conceal their anxiety.

She added that their dilemma may be intensified by "Potomac fever," a reluctance to leave the Washington area and the proximity to power that they have come to like.

Her advice to them: "Don't be half-prepared in an interview situation. Don't refuse to move. Don't make salary a prime consideration. And don't let resentment over being unemployed undermine your chances for a new job."

Carter reorganization plan gets opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter's plan for a reorganization of the federal government is encountering opposition from a key member of Congress and a well-known legal scholar who questions the constitutionality of the way he wants to proceed.

Carter has said he wants Congress to give him authority to submit reorganization plans to Congress that would go into effect after 60 days unless either the House or Senate expressed disapproval.

That's not a new way to proceed. The same method was written into a reorganization act passed in 1949, upon recommendation of a commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

Carter told a news conference recently that he wants four-year authority from Congress to submit reorganization plans.

"I don't think there's any doubt I'll get that authority," he said.

During his campaign, Carter repeatedly pledged to cut the number of federal agencies from some 1,900 to 200. He conceded that such a consolidation in the number of agencies might not result in a reduction in the number of federal employes.

Many observers and Carter staffers believe the only way such a sweeping reorganization of the bureaucracy can take place is with the authority the President-elect is seeking.

In effect, Carter would be authorized to reorganize the executive branch if Congress did nothing to stop him.

That authority was described by one Carter aide as "the guts of reorganization authority. Without it, it's almost back to the drawing board."

If Carter must submit his reorganization plans in the form of legislative proposals that would be subject to amendment by Congress and would require approval at the committee level as well as by the full House and Senate, there would be many more opportunities for opponents to torpedo them.

Prof. Raoul Berger of the Harvard Law School said the proposal to have reorganization plans take effect unless Congress disapproves them raises "a constitutional doubt."

Emphasizing that he supported Carter in the election, Berger said, "I don't like the notion of giving such a tremendous blank check to the president."

Berger's view was echoed by Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee.

Brooks plans to submit a bill that would require positive congressional approval for reorganization plans.

Critics of the veto method of reorganization note that it would allow a president to eliminate agencies created by Congress without a congressional vote.

PAINFUL, EMBARRASSING — Alfonso Jiminez, an instructor for a Los Angeles auto drivers school, grimaces with pain from chest injuries sustained in a collision in Los Angeles. Witnesses told police Jiminez, who was alone in car, failed to stop for red light.

Design flaws held responsible for most of recalled vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — Design flaws were responsible for about two-thirds of the 52 million cars and trucks recalled during the past 10 years to correct safety defects, federal safety officials say.

In just the past six weeks, General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. have recalled 770,000 vehicles to correct such problems as faulty fuel lines, ill-fitting fuel tank caps, weak steering attachment washers, defective shoulder belts and malfunction signal lights.

But the Big Three U.S. auto makers disagree with the federal assessment of their products during the past decade, contending there is no predominant cause of defects that result in recalling vehicles.

"One time it may be an improperly stressed bolt, the next time it may be a bolt that isn't properly tightened," a Chrysler Corp. spokesman said.

"I don't know how you can simply assess whose fault it is," adds a GM spokesman. "Obviously, we as a manufacturer have an obligation to provide our customers with the absolute best products available. We strive to do just that.

"It's unfortunate when a safety defect arises, but rest assured if we find a defect we move quickly to correct it."

But Andrew Detrick, director of the Office of Defects Investigation for the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration (NHTSA) in Washington, says causes are definitive. Gilbert L. Watson, chief of consumer affairs for NHTSA, agrees.

"We have isolated the causes into two areas, design and quality control," Detrick says. "Quality control includes workmanship, quality of materials and failure to catch errors in inspection.

"Our studies have shown that about two-thirds of the more than 2,000 recall campaigns have been due to quality control, but that two-thirds of the faulty vehicles recalled have been due to design flaws.

"If you make an error in design, you've probably made a monumental error in numbers of vehicles. It could run through a whole model year, maybe two years. By the same token, the quality control people have their own audits and are constantly picking up their errors after a relatively few vehicles have been produced."

Not only do design flaws cause the largest number of vehicles to be recalled, Watson notes, but almost all vehicles recalled for that reason must be repaired. He cited the 6.7 million 1965-69 Chevrolets that were recalled in 1973 to correct faulty engine mounts.

"That recall, like most of the major ones, had nothing to do with assembly line work," he says. "The design flaw came to light over the years with stress caused by use."

A Ford spokesman countered: "We think those statements are overly simplistic. While it's true that worker error is a small part of it, there is no common denominator for defects but human error throughout all stages of building a car, from its design to the suppliers. It is almost impossible to pin the blame to a particular area."

The first recall campaign was directed at the 1916 Buick.

No more U.S. POWs, panel concludes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special House panel concluded Wednesday that there are no Americans still being held prisoner from the Indochina war.

Some 2,500 Americans were not fully accounted for at the end of U.S. involvement in the war, and the Pentagon still carries 728 men as missing in action and 33 as prisoners.

While no Americans are alive and captive, said Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., there is evidence that "Indochinese nations can account for many of these men. Not all of them, but many of them."

Montgomery was chairman of the House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia, appointed 15 months ago to probe the MIA issue.

Montgomery said the main problem now is to achieve the fullest accounting of the missing as possible. That this has not been done, he said, is the fault of the Vietnamese, Laotian, and Cambodian authorities.

The committee recommended that the Pentagon resume its case reviews, the mechanism for reclassifying a man from missing to killed in action. The Pentagon suspended the reviews in deference to the panel's investigation.

In a case review, officers evaluate all the evidence available on the circumstances of the serviceman's disappearance. The judgment in all the cases so far has been to reclassify the man as killed in action.

In World War II and the Korean War, missing servicemen accounted for 22 per cent of those killed in action, said the committe report. In Vietnam they totaled four per cent in a 12-year period. The panel said the vast difference was the result of an outstanding U.S. military search and rescue effort during Indochina combat.

Rep. Ben Gilman, R-N.Y., a member of the panel, opposed the recommendation to lift the Pentagon moratorium on case reviews.

The result of the reviews, said Gilman, is to reduce the number of MIA's, thus lessening the significance of the issue.

Gilman also said it was premature to, in effect, conclude the missing men were dead until a full and exhaustive accounting is made by the Indochinese governments.

The committee is going out of business with the issuance of its report, Gilman noted, and thus an important instrument will be lost for focusing attention on the issue.

At a news conference, Montgomery said identification procedures are so comprehensive that all of the remains recovered to date have been identified. As yet, he said, there is no unknown soldier from the Indochina war.

The panel said 2,546 Americans did not return from the war. Of these, 41 were civilians.

Of the 33 listed as prisoners, the panel said 11 were believed to have been prisoners who were never accounted for by their captors. The rest of the men on the list, the panel said, were either improperly classified as prisoners or there is no evidence to suggest they were taken prisoner.

The panel also recommended:

—That the Pentagon ease as much as possible the security restrictions on some of the evidence used in the case reviews and withheld from the survivors of the servicemen.

—That a suitable memorial inscribed with the names of all those unaccounted for be erected in Arlington National Cemetery.

—That in future wars the military assure that a highly trained rescue force be available in the combat zone.

Firm sees record sales year for autos, trucks

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is predicting record U.S. car and truck sales in 1977, in the wake of the strongest auto industry sales pace for an early December in seven years.

In contrast to trimmed forecasts issued recently by other auto makers, GM Chairman Thomas Murphy said Tuesday he was raising his estimate by 250,000 units to nearly 14.8 million domestic and imported sales next year.

The current record of 14.6 million vehicles came in 1973 and was followed by a severe two-year recession.

Murphy also announced a record $3 billion in capital expenditures planned for 1977, up 25 per cent from an estimated $2.4 billion spent for facilities and tools this year.

"We have made this commitment to growth because we are convinced the prospects for the economy and the automobile industry in the year ahead are very favorable," he said. "Our confidence has not been diminished at all, nor has the consumer's confidence, which is all important."

Meanwhile, the four U.S. auto makers reported car sales during the Dec. 1-10 period totaled 211,528, up 1 per cent from a year ago. The daily rate of 23,503 units was the highest for the period since 1969.

Ironically, GM, which has been leading the industry's recovery, reported a 1 per cent decline in early December sales from a year ago, its first period decline since August 1975. GM blamed the drop on a Chevrolet dealer contest a year ago which produced strong sales.

Ford Motor Co. reported a 5 per cent sales gain for the period, and Chrysler Corp., reported a 9 per cent increase.

American Motors Corp., the small-car specialist which has been in a deep slump all year, posted a 23 per cent sales decline for early December.

For the year-to-date, industry sales are up 22 per cent from 1975.

Motorists setting record in consuming gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite continuing warnings of dwindling energy resources, American motorists are setting records in using up gasoline.

The Federal Highway Administration said Thursday that the gasoline consumption rate this year will be greater than any year in history.

The agency estimated that motor fuel consumption would total 118.8 billion gallons this year, including 115 billion for highway travel. It said the nation would use 4.4 billion gallons more motor fuel this year than in 1973, when the previous record was set.

As pleas for conservation go unheeded, the agency said, the increased usage apparently comes not only from more highway driving but higher speeds as well. Although it did not take a national average, the Highway Administration said highway speeds are increasing based on a sampling of states.

Gasoline consumption is increasing at a rate of 5.7 per cent, comparable to what it was before the Arab oil embargo of 1973 and more than twice the 2.5 per cent increase recorded in 1975. The government had hoped to keep annual consumption increases to less than 3 or 4 per cent.

The highway administration had said this could be a record year for motor fuel usage, but based on figures from the first three months only.

Current agency projections are based on state reports of motor fuel consumption and on current trends, motor fuel production figures and other factors.

Supporting its claim that highway speeds are on the rise, the agency said, for example, the average speed of free-flowing traffic measured on highways with a 55 mile per hour speed limit in Texas was 58.4 miles per hour for the quarter that ended June 30; California, an average of 54.8 miles per hour; Maryland, 54.5 miles per hour; Indiana, 56.8 miles per hour; and Virginia, 51.4 miles per hour.

The top figure was reported by Connecticut — 60.8 miles per hour — or five-tenths of a mile per hour faster than the 1973 national average.

California will burn more gasoline, 11.4 billion gallons, than any other state in 1976, the FHWA estimated, but several other Western states will have larger percentage increases. For example, Alaska is expected to burn 9.6 per cent more fuel for highway uses in 1976 than in 1975; Colorado, 8.9 per cent more; and Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, and Wyoming all will use 8 per cent or more fuel for highway purposes.

Texas will use 8.6 billion gallons of gas and diesel fuel, New York will burn 6.0 billion gallons and Ohio, Illinois and Pennsylvania will use more than 5 billion gallons each.

The increase in gasoline and other fuels for highway uses will offset a small decline in fuel uses for non-highway uses such as agriculture, construction, aviation, and marine.

The highway agency said the nonhighway total would be slightly below the 3.6 billion gallons used in 1975.

Where the votes are

The North has long cast a majority of the votes in U.S. elections but the South and West are catching up, the Conference Board notes. Only 30 per cent of the votes cast during the 1930s were from the South and West. But by 1972, the difference had narrowed to 55 per cent for Western and Southern states.

U.S. reports on weekly earnings said inaccurate

NEW YORK (AP) — There are two sets of government figures on the weekly earnings of a "typical" household head with three dependents.

Earlier this year the figure in one was $245, in the other, $174. The difference was 41 per cent.

Both are official figures. Both are from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. While the discrepancy has remained unresolved for years, it isn't overlooked; footnotes dutifully call attention to it.

For critics who have become increasingly disturbed about the nation's reliance on economic statistics of questionable verity, the situation is a prime exhibit, an illustration of the dangers in decisions based on numbers.

"I have observed that few people outside BLS are even aware that anything is seriously misleading about the numbers," writes Geoffrey H. Moore, director of business cycle research at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

The smaller figure, an estimate issued each month, tends to be used more than the larger figure, obtained by survey and released once a year. The smaller number is incorrect, a gross understating, says Moore. "It just is not so."

Moore knows. He was commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics until 1975, which in itself is a commentary on the pertinaciousness of numbers known to be misleading, and therefore dangerous to the decision-making process.

"I should have done more about it at that time," said Moore in an interview. But series of numbers, once begun, have a tendency to persist even when wrong, he explained.

"Concerned about statements that real earnings have gone nowhere since 1965," Moore recently wrote an article on the subject for The Morgan Guaranty Survey, a monthly examination of the economy published by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

"Why the difference?" he asks in the article. He answers: "The main reason is that the monthly series is based on an assumption — and that assumption happens to be wrong." Numbers, no matter how neat they appear to be, are only as good as the assumption underlying them.

The assumption on which the lower earnings number is based is that the average worker who supports a family of four has the same weekly earnings as the average of all workers.

"But the average of all workers includes many who work only part of a week," Moore points out. And it also includes many young, single persons who have not yet attained their full earnings capacity.

"Hence it seriously understates the average earnings of a worker who supports a family of four," says Moore. And the distortion may be getting worse, because the percentage of part-time earners has been increasing.

Ironically, says Moore, "Many of these part-time earners are helping to increase family income, yet because they are averaged in with the rest, they actually reduce the figures used in monthly estimates."

Without getting into the mathematical details, it can be said that the distortion is even greater because the annual survey figure, the larger one, is a median, while the monthly estimate is based on an arithmetic mean.

"The median of an income distribution, as Mr. Jimmy Carter recently learned after his remark about taxes, is usually substantially lower than the mean," Moore comments.

But what does all this add up to? To bad decisions, of course. If the numbers aren't real, if they are nothing but symbols adrift, how can we deal with the realities — which too often today include inflation? This is how Moore expresses it:

"By issuing, 12 times a year, figures that substantially understate the level and the trend of real earnings of the typical family head, the government itself creates an instrument of inflation — for it fosters and appears to justify pay demands that exceed the limitations imposed by increases in productivity."

Why does this substitution of numbers for analysis continue? "It started years and years ago and probably at that time there wasn't anything better and it looked like a pretty good series," said Moore in the interview, adding:

"There is a tendency for all statistics to persist because of the vested interest of those compiling and using them. They want to see what the figures show each month."

"Like fortune tellers," said a long-suffering economist here.

COLLEGE PORNO QUEEN — Gail Palmer, name changed to protect her family, has credentials more like the girl next door, than those of a porno queen. Gail, a 21-year-old Michigan State University student, repulsed after seeing her first x-rated movie, decided to improve the situation by writing, directing and arranging financing for an x-rated movie — all with no prior experience.

'Girl next door' now porno queen

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gail Palmer, a 21-year-old Michigan State University junior, was repulsed after seeing an X-rated movie, for the first time, so she did something about it: She made one of her own.

She doesn't appear in "Hot Summer in the City," a film about the abduction and rape of a young woman by four men just before the 1967 Detroit riots.

But she wrote it, directed it and found the money to finance it — all with no prior experience.

Miss Palmer's credentials read more like those of the venerable "girl next door" than of a porn queen. She was raised a Catholic on the East Side of Detroit and her father, today, is superintendent of a small school district in Michigan's thumb region. For that reason, she uses the surname Palmer rather than her real name.

She saw her first X-rated film in Kalamazoo where she was a freshman — and a cheerleader — at Western Michigan University.

"I had a girl friend who was dating a guy who managed an adult theater in Kalamazoo," Miss Palmer said. "He was supposed to have had the star of a film on hand to sign autographs one day.

"Well, the star didn't show, and he asked us if we'd fill in and fake it — pretend we were the girls in the porn film. We really needed the money, so we said we'd do it."

Before long, Miss Palmer became friends with the manager, who was impressed with her business sense and offered her a job managing his firm's theater in Lansing.

Miss Palmer accepted, and transfered to Michigan State where she currently carries 22 quarter hours and maintains a B-plus average in her physical education major.

"My dad couldn't believe it, and my mother was really mad," Miss Palmer said. "She said, 'Oh, I don't want you working in one of those places.' But I told her it was really a nice place and that I'd be getting a lot of good business experience."

When Miss Palmer first took over the Cinema X, it was doing about $150 worth of business a day and she thought she knew why. Within six months she had business up to about $33,000 a month, where it remains today.

She tried innovative things, like having a sidewalk sale featuring slow-selling sex novelty items from the theater's bookstore.

"When I came here, the Cinema X complex had a theater and a book store," Miss Palmer said. "And the films were awful. I put in a game room and took a survey. I asked the customers what they would like to see. Nobody had ever bothered to take a survey before. But I did, and we got rid of those awful films and started getting in good stuff."

She said the surveys indicated customers wanted to see better-quality sexually explicit movies with stories and plots. She said that's when she first started thinking of making her own.

After she had finished the book and the screenplay, Miss Palmer finally got the money to finance her film from an outfit in the Bahamas called Caribbean Films. And that's when the fun really started.

"I convinced these guys to give me the money on faith alone," Miss Palmer said. "I had never made a movie before in my life. All I had was an idea. Now, I had the money and I had to go out and find the performers, the equipment, the cameramen, everything."

Most of the performers were Michigan State students, a mistake Miss Palmer said she would never make again.

"The things they would tell me, just to let them be in my movie, you wouldn't believe," she said. "One guy promised me he could do what had to be done. So we had all of this general footage of him already shot and then when it came time for him to perform in the sex scenes, he couldn't do it. But I was stuck with him.

"I couldn't afford to go back and shoot all that general footage again. So we got a stand-in for the waist-down shots."

She said other members of the cast — male and female — grew to dislike one another in the five-week span of the shooting, further inhibiting their attempts at love-making before the camera.

"I've got three more movies coming up," Miss Palmer said, "and I'm making them all in California, and I'm using professionals. No more amateurs."

The 70-minute film, which cost about $100,000, has played most major U.S. cities this year. The backers have recouped all of their money.

"I know they're making profit now," said Miss Palmer, who took a straight salary of $7,000 for the deal, which included her promise to tour the country promoting the film. She said she would work for a percentage of the profit on future films.

Miss Palmer said she has no qualms about performing in an X-rated movie, but insisted it would have to be a screenplay "even Catherine Deneuve couldn't turn down — a big budget, big costume picture.

"From what I'm doing, I'll make enough money to go in business for myself in something I really enjoy," she said, indicating she would like to open a health spa and dancing school. "And I feel this is just a stepping stone, you know? A way for me to make money. And, still, I enjoy it."

Old timers 'benched'

OILTON, Okla. (AP) — You might call it the problem of the missing bench.

A group of elderly men who have traditionally sat and watched the time and traffic pass by in this northeastern Oklahoma town are annoyed.

Part of the traffic that had passed included elderly women, and the men think they're the ones responsible for the loss of the bench. Before the bench disappeared overnight, some of the women had complained the men "just sit there, spitting their tobacco and looking at our legs."

Police Chief Fred Stewart has been tipped by one of the men that the bench has already been used for firewood.

Liberal Judaism making headway in Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Jewish Reform and Conservative movements that began in Germany 150 years ago and swiftly spread in the United States are now sinking roots in Israel. But they face vehement opposition from the Orthodox rabbinate that wields enormous political power here.

"We are making tremendous headway, but the more we gain, the more belligerent is the religious establishment in Israel," says Conservative Rabbi Benjamin Kreitman of Louisville, Ky.

The Reform movement, which has made optional such religious traditions as skullcaps, and eliminated segregation of the sexes at prayer and the exclusive use of Hebrew for worship, is still reviled by the Orthodox as "watered-down Judaism."

Conservative Judaism, which has made less extensive adaptations, is also considered too liberal for Orthodox standards.

Both movements held their world conventions in Jerusalem in November and renewed charges of discrimination by Israel's Orthodox clergy. They demanded "full rights and recognition" by the state rabbinate.

For years the rabbinate has refused to recognize Liberal Judaism in Israel. Liberals have received no state financing for synagogues, and their marriages and divorces have had no legal standing here.

The rabbinate, which wields full control over marriage institutions, insists that wedlock must conform to the Halacha, the centuries-old Jewish law based on the Torah, or five books of Moses.

The rabbinate considers its overriding purpose to be the guarding of those holy laws.

"We Jews are one people by virtue of a single document, the Torah, which is Halacha," says Orthodox Rabbi Charles Weinburg, an American-born Israeli who is senior aide to Israel's Chief Rabbi Shlomo Goren.

"We believe the halacha is continually evolving," argues Conservative Rabbi Kreitman. "It develops and responds to the needs of the time."

The penetration of Liberal Judaism into Israel has gathered momentum with the increasing number of Reform and Conservative Jews heading Jewish movements in the United States.

U.S. Jewry is Israel's vital ally, and the Israeli government can no longer ignore the Liberals' demands in order to preserve its cabinet coalition with Orthodox Jewish politicians.

Conservatives now have 22 congregations in Israel with their own synagogues, compared with four in 1972. The Reform movement has 13. Five years ago it had one.

The reformists made a major breakthrough last year by joining the World Zionist Organization, a move that put the final stamp on Reform Jewry's support for Israel. Up to World War II it was generally apathetic toward the concept of Jewish statehood.

But problems remain. The Israeli rabbinate, outraged by the fact that some Reform rabbis in America perform weddings of Jews and non-Jews, refuses to recognize reform nuptials performed in Israel.

While Liberal Jewry has millions of followers in the United States, Orthodoxy is still the only form of worship that Israelis know. But surveys show that 80 per cent of Israelis are secularists who do not practice Judaism. Thus the rabbinate has been unable to stir broad public opposition to liberal streams of Judaism.

"We believe we have a message for this majority," says Rabbi Kreitman. "They are spiritually homeless, and we can help some of them."

Reform Rabbi Ira Youdovin of New York says "there is less of reflex negative attitude against non-Orthodox Judaism."

Widespread use of male 'pill' still a decade away

NEW YORK (AP) — One male birth control pill may be safe and effective in reducing sperm production, early tests on humans show, although widespread use is at least a decade away.

The report on the male pill was one of several on new approaches to contraception presented to a Ford Foundation seminar marking the publication Wednesday of a major study on the reproductive sciences.

The report cited more than 200 promising research developments that could lead to more effective fertility control, including, along with the male pill, a vaccine to prevent pregnancy, agents that might keep the fertilized egg from taking root in the womb and a once-a-month contraceptive.

But the study, conducted over the last two years, also warned that efforts to improve contraception "may be seriously delayed" by a decline in the funding of reproductive research. The money being spent worldwide has declined from a high of $120 million in 1974 to an estimated $109.9 million in 1975 and an estimated $105.6 million in 1976, researchers said.

Research on the male pill is based on the fact that steroid hormones are among the chemical substances known to suppress the production of sperm by the testes. But the steroids can produce such side effects as loss of libido, or psychic energy, so the male pill is a combination of the steroid danazol and a synthetic male hormone, testosterone.

"This may be a safe and effective male contraceptive," Dr. C. Alvin Paulsen of the University of Washington School of Medicine told a seminar for science writers Tuesday. The latest clinical trial has just begun at the university, he said.

A first study involved 88 normal male volunteers, 19 to 35 years old, each getting a daily oral dose of danazol and a monthly injection of a testosterone. It was effective in 83 per cent of the men in reducing sperm production to essentially infertile levels, with minor adverse reactions, the study said.

After the dosage was stopped, Paulsen said, sperm production returned to pre-drug levels within six months, establishing reversibility.

A second study involving 66 men reduced the dosage of the danazol by changing the intervals at which it was given. The study showed promising results in both reducing sperm production, called oligospermia, and eliminating it, called azoospermia.

The current study will examine what happens when the testosterone dosage is altered, to see if it is possible to avoid adverse reactions seen with high male hormone exposure. These include blood pressure changes.

So far 12 men have achieved azoospermia within one to seven months of drug use without serious adverse reactions, researchers said. Another 53 men are in earlier stages of the trial, and similar clinical tests are going on at Baylor University and at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Preliminary work also was reported on efforts to develop a contraceptive vaccine that would intercept a signal, a pregnancy hormone, produced by the fertilized egg to tell the ovary not to produce a menstrual period. The result would be the loss of the egg.

The study sponsored by the Ford Foundation, "Reproduction and Human Welfare: A Challenge to Research," was directed by Dr. Roy O. Greep of the Harvard Medical School, and carried out with help from the Rockefeller Foundation and the International Development Research Centre of Canada. Greep, Marjorie A. Koblinsky and Frederick S. Jaffe wrote the 622-page report.

Erosion threatens luxury homes at Solano Beach

ENCINITAS (AP) — Luxury apartments teeter at cliff's edge, the pounding waves loosening rocks and sand at a rate which alarms coastal geologists.

Erosion has eaten five feet deeper into the bluffs at Solano Beach, between suburban Encinitas and San Diego, in the last 18 months.

A 70-foot portion of railroad track threatens to collapse onto a beach.

In the last century, while the shore has receded 800 feet, dozens of homes have tumbled into the Pacific Ocean, the ground underneath giving way.

The property with its spectacular westward view from the California coast is among the hottest selling anywhere. In Solano Beach, two condominiums were built recently on a crumbling bluff.

"There is no foundation there—no bedrock," geologist Gerald G. Kuhn said.

Kuhn, a research associate at Scripps, said in an interview that 300 miles of shoreline bluffs from Santa Barbara, 100 miles north of Los Angeles, south all the way to San Diego are wearing away.

San Diego County supervisors are expected to vote Dec. 28 on an historic first step to protect prople from buying on unstable land.

In a proposal presented Wednesday, the county's Integrated Planning Office asked that $18,000 be spent on an initial study made by Scripps Institution

University of California geologists would predict the rate of cliff erosion, taking weather patterns into consideration.

Surface water runoff from rains and streams cut deep ravines in the cliffs, weakening them. Construction site changes have altered drainage patterns and the weight of new buildings has helped crush cliff as well.

Government plans have been proposed to buy up land where rainfall runoff is most severe and to establish publicly financed flood-control systems.

A concrete seawall is proposed by Scripps for the "totally unstable" land under the Del Mar Beach and Tennis Club and Del Mar Shores Terrace developments. Private homeowners have built such walls in growing numbers in recent years.

The beachclub's owners plan to spend $500,000 on such a wall. But even concrete has been battered and broken by the relentless tide, Kuhn says.

Absolutely, Say Scientists

Acne — Is It Treatable?

In just a few weeks from now, your mirror could reflect very good news. It could tell you that you no longer suffer from acne.

This is recent news, the result of experiments conducted by the nation's top skin specialists on the staffs of major medical schools.

The story began in Germany several years ago, when scientists learned that a by-product of Vitamin A had the ability to act on the skin pores.

This substance, called Vitamin A acid, was tested in America by the nation's leading medical school dermatologists.

They found that by adjusting the strength of the preparation to the individual patient's tolerance level, they could loosen the "bunched" dead cells lining the skin pores.

It is the "bunching" of the cells which finally plugs the pores and sets up the acne possibility, beginning with whiteheads and blackheads.

Further experiments followed. The scientists learned that by adding a further step, the application of prescription-strength Benzoyl Peroxide Gel, they could kill the acne bacteria itself.

Thus, combining the one-two step treatment, 85 per cent of patients treated in the medical school clinics found themselves free of acne in six to 12 weeks.

It was momentous news, the first effective treatment yet devised for the age-old skin disease. The method was recorded in the nation's medical journals.

This treatment is now available at the Acne Care Medical Clinics, Inc., located in Costa Mesa, Huntington Beach, Inglewood and Covina.

There is no longer any need to suffer from the ravages of acne. It is no longer an untreatable mystery.

Rams QB remains a dilemma

LOS ANGELES (AP(— The dilemma of a starting quarterback faces Coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams once again and it's a problem he's faced often before this season.

Preparing to battle the Cowboys at Dallas on Sunday, Knox doesn't know whom his field general might be.

Pat Haden suffered a sprained right knee against Detroit last Saturday. He first was listed as doubtful for the opening Super Bowl playoff game, but then was moved up to questionable.

Casting away the official jargon, that means he's getting better.

If Haden doesn't further improve, the starting job would go to James Harris, who was supplanted in mid November by the rookie from Southern California.

A year ago Knox lost five regulars to injury and Harris, his No. 1 quarterback at the time, wasn't able to play in the opening playoff game. Ron Jaworski took over and the Rams beat St. Louis.

This season, it was Harris at the helm until he broke a thumb against Buffalo in an Aug. 28 preseason game. Jaworski took over until he broke a shoulder in the regular season opener against Atlanta.

Then Haden directed the troops to a 10-10 tie against Minnesota. Harris came back, but on Oct. 11 he suffered a shoulder injury against San Francisco.

Haden started the next week against Chicago, suffered a concussion in the first quarter, and Jaworski took over.

The next week Jaworski started at New Orleans, did very little, and Haden came on to pull out the 16-10 victory.

Harris was back for a 45—6 victory over expansion Seattle but then the Rams lost at Cincinnati 20—12 and Haden replaced Harris.

First time out on this deal, the rookie and the Rams lost to a sharpshooting Jim Hart and the St. Louis Cardinals 30—28 but then beat San Francisco, New Orleans and Atlanta.

At Detroit, Haden was hurt early and Harris took over and despite trailing 17—6 at the half, marshalled his troops and the Rams won 20—17.

Now come the playoffs. In the four-year tenure of Knox as head man, the Rams are 1—3 against the Cowboys. And it won't be until this afternoon that Knox decides who will be his starting quarterback.

Dallas beat the Rams 27—16 in the 1973 divisional playoffs and whipped them 37—7 a year ago in the National Football Conference championship game.

"We're due or overdue," commented Knox who has divided his two regular season games with Dallas since coming West four years ago.

Poly should hire promotions man

As Cal Poly continues to interview prospective football coaches, it might be wise for the university to also consider hiring another person to handle the fund raising-for the entire athletic department.

That is what Poly really needs.

No one person should be expected to coach, recruit and also raise funds at the same time and yet it seems like fund raising is the primary requirement in seeking a football coach.

It doesn't really matter if someone can coach. After all, his staff can handle that part of it.

Sorry, but it doesn't work. Coaches should coach and not have to worry about offending somebody who happens to be a big contributor.

At least two possible candidates for the vacant Poly football job have been turned off about it because of the way the interviews are conducted. Raising money is the main topic.

As one coach said, "It made me seem like a used car salesman."

Athletic director Don Warhurst, who has the main task of recommending potential coaches to Dr. Robert Kramer, the president of the university, says a coach must be able to relate to the community.

That's very true. A good coach should have community relations as one of his assets.

But being primarily responsible for raising the funds necessary to have a winning program is another matter.

If Poly wants to remain in the very competitive Division II level, it must find other ways of staying alive financially.

At the present course, it would be much more sensible to drop down to Division III with no scholarships and less financial problems.

Only practical way

The best and really only practical way of staying at Division II is to hire an experienced fund raiser for the athletic department to be responsible for raising funds for the entire athletic program rather than have each individual coach taking care of his or her needs.

A good example of the type of person Poly needs is Lew Cryer, the new associate athletic director at Oregon.

After serving on the staff at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Cryer went on to the University of Pacific where he inherited a program which had raised $23,000 the year before his appointment. In his last year at UOP, Cryer's promotions accounted for $335,000 for the university.

That's the type of man Poly needs to direct the entire program. With help from the individual coaches, the university just might be able to make the whole thing work.

The present situation at Poly is terrible.

There is little alumni support. The students have cut down their financial support and there is the usual apathy of a commuter school. The Cal Poly Associates, the only true athletic booster group, is very ineffective since actor Ed Nelson stepped down as president.

The rise of woman's sports is a factor since the financial resources must be divided even more. Even the bigtime powers now have money worries because of inflation.

Poly does have a lot of things going for it. The coaching staffs are excellent and the facilities are generally good with the major exception being the inadequate football stadium.

Scolinos true champ

John Scolinos, the respected baseball coach, did the "impossible" last year of leading the Broncos to a national Division II championship despite having a budget smaller than most of his opponents.

And Scolinos always remembers the community with his annual youth baseball clinic.

It's sad to think the men's basketball team, coached by personable Don Hogan, is forced to play major college foes on the road just to be able to have enough money to operate.

This is a crucial time for Poly.

The university can not afford to hire another football coach who will end up leaving in three years saying it can't be done.

It either works this time or going to a non-scholarship program would be the best thing.

Has anyone bothered to ask the students or alumni what they would like to see happen in Cal Poly athletics?

Their answers might be very interesting.

TANGLED

New Orleans' E.C. Coleman (12) and Lakers' Cazzie Russell get their arms tangled as Coleman tries to block Russell's shot. Pete Maravich of Jazz (7) and Lakers' Kareem Abdul Jabbar watch the action. Lakers won, 115-105, and Russell scored 24 points.

Lakers win one on road

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "When Jabbar is able to take the kinds of shots he did, there is no way to stop him," said New Orleans Coach Elgin Baylor after the Los Angeles Lakers beat his Jazz 115-105 Wednesday night.

Abdul-Jabbar hit 35 points to lead the Lakers' attack.

Los Angeles took the lead early in the NBA game. New Orleans pulled even once, at 87-87 early in the fourth quarter, but couldn't get in front.

The Jazz played its second game under Baylor, the assistant coach who was named interim coach after Butch van Breda Kolff was fired Tuesday.

Jazz star Pete Maravich, leading scorer of the NBA, left the game early in the second half after reinjuring an ankle. He had 15 points for the night.

Freddy Boyd was tops for the Jazz with 24 points.

Los Angeles Coach Jerry West said he thought the Jazz "let down a little when Maravich went out...We know Maravich will score, but we didn't want him to score 51 points like he did Tuesday night against Kansas City."

The Lakers' record is now 15-12 while the Jazz dropped to 15-13.

Ontario cager Athlete of Week

Otis Manning, who led the Ontario High basketball team to its first championship of the Upland-Montclair Tournament last week, has been named Athlete of the Week by the Progress Bulletin.

Manning, a six-foot, 160-pound senior guard, led the Jaguars in scoring during the tournament with 80 points in four games. He scored 21 points in Ontario's 75-63 win over Ganesha, 21 again in the Jags' 66-58 conquest of Pomona, 12 in a 56-50 win over Wilson and 26 in the title game, a 60-53 victory over Upland.

Besides being Ontario's high scorer for both the tournament and the season, Manning leads his squad in assists with an average of six per game.

Manning will be presented a plaque by Pomona Elks Lodge 789, sponsor of the PB Athlete of the Week program, at a dinner at the lodge on Jan. 12.

Banks nears Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Home run slugger Ernie Banks and perfect game pitcher Jim Bunning are among five new candidates eligible for election to baseball's Hall of Fame.

In addition to Banks, who hit 512 homers for the Chicago Cubs, and Bunning, a 224-game winner who pitched a perfect game for the Philadelphia Phillies, other new candidates on the 34-man Hall of Fame ballot include pitcher Camilo Pascual, outfielder Curt Flood and infielder-outfielder Harvey Kuenn.

The ballots were distributed to veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America Wednesday. Election to the Hall requires mention on 75 per cent of the ballots returned.

Last year, pitchers Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon earned the honor. Other high finishers were the late Gil Hodges, Enos Slaughter, Eddie Mathews, Pee Wee Reese, the late Nellie Fox and Duke Snider.

Players may not be added to the ballot until five years after their retirement from active play, and then only after being approved for consideration by a special BBWAA committee. A player then can remain on the ballot for 15 years before being passed onto the Oldtimer's Committee.

Long Beach wins easily

The first round of the San Dimas Tournament of Champions, and the second night of action Wednesday, was highlighted by Long Beach Poly jumping all over the Clark Chargers from Las Vegas, Nevada, 85-62. All-American Dino Gregory led the jumping Jackrabbits with a big 22-point outing, coupled with 12 rebounds and a 14-point assist by another All-American, Manuel Johnson.

In the other game of the evening Alex Black, yet another All-American star sank 13 baskets and two free throws for 28 points as he led the Corona Del Mar Sea Kings to a 49-36 victory over the Workman Lobos. In fact, Black had more points in the third quarter than the Lobos did.

The Sea Kings jumped out to a first period lead of 14-5, and Corona Del Mar never looked back. Blackhad 10 in the first and all eight scored by the Sea Kings in the second quarter.

Billy Morales, Workman's star guard, was the Lobos only threat, picking up 14 points and giving a fine exhibition of playmaking as he rallied Workman to within two points at one spot in the second quarter. Besides the 14 points, Morales had three assists and four rebounds.

The Jackrabbits did not give the visiting Chargers any welcoming to the state of California, breaking out to a 21-11 first quarter bulge, and from then on it was "off to the races." Long Beach used its tremendous rebounding and speed to break down an otherwise fine defensive Clark team.

Vernon Curtis (14) and Brad Hardisty (11) were the Charger starters to put up a big fight, but by the final period, both were visibly tired. Jeff Justice came off the bench to add another 12 points, but it was a case ofhoo little, too late. In that final quarter, Clark was outscored 28-19.

This now sets the stage for the second round of play tonight, as Ganesha will play in the consolation semifinals against Palos Verde at 3 p.m., while at 5 p.m. the Lobos will tackle Clark. The big boys shooting for the championship round begin action at 7 p.m. with Verbum Dei and Pasadena knocking heads and Black will lead the Sea Kings against Gregory and the Jackrabbits of Poly at 9 p.m. all under the Supertent of La Verne College.

West L.A. vs. East L.A., 5:50 p.m.
L.A. Harbor vs. Riverside, 7:30 p.m.
Golden West vs. Citrus, 9:10 p.m.

Citrus, however, advanced into the second round of the championship bracket with a 76-70 decision over Glendale in a morning contest. Chaffey dropped a 85-57 decision to West L.A.

The Owls will battle Golden West tonight in a 9:10 p.m. contest while the Mounties fight Glendale to stay alive in the tourney. MSAC's tip off time is set for 12:50 p.m. while host Chaffey takes on Orange Coast at 2:30 p.m.

In other tourney action, East L.A. downed Orange Coast 57-50, L.A. Valley romped over Fullerton, 82-64, L.A. Harbor downed San Diego Mesa, 71-67, Riverside defeated El Camino, 93-76, and Pasadena edged San Bernardino, 75-73.

MSAC had a chance to tie the contest at 69-69 with 18 seconds remaining in the game. However, Jim Love, who had drawn the Mounties within one point, missed the important charity toss. But the Mounties rebounded the missed free throw and John Gagne was fouled in the process of putting it in the hoop. Gagne missed the front end of the one and one and Golden West rebounded the ball and before the Mounties could get their hands on it again time had expired.

Dick Rockwood kept the Mounties in the contest in the second half of action as he bombed in 16 of his 22 points. Rockwood connected on 8 of 11 shots as he kept Golden West from increasing its margin of four to six points.

The Mounties were hurt on the boards as Golden West with several bigger men than the Mounties forwards controled the board play. The Rustlers were able to get two and three shots every time on the offensive boards.

"MSAC played into our hands as we had the lead and they had to make the foul," noted Golden West's Dick Stricklin. However, I wasn't too happy about the free throws as we missed several which could have swung the game over to MSAC."

While the Mounties missed three critical free throws down the strech, Golden West blew a golden opportunity twice to salt away the contest at the charity line.

The contest was decided at the free-throw line as Golden West hit on 13 of 20 tries while the Mounties could only manage to net 6 of 16 tries.

Bob Vigil addded 18 points in suport of Rockwood's performance. Golden West's top scorer was John Hirschler with 16.

Citrus managed to hang on for a six point victory over Glendale despite turning the ball over 29 times. Citrus was plagued by a tenacious Glendale press.

Citrus was paced by forward Eric Childs with 19 points and Bill Rutz with 15 as five Owl scorers finished with 10 or more points.

Glendale's top man was Southworth with 22 points. Teammate Mike Carter added 20 points to the Vaqueros' point total.

Chaffey College led 7-6 in its contest with West L.A. with 16:37 left in the opening half of play. However, it was short lived as the Oiler's outscored the Panthers 50-21 by end of the half to take a 56-28 lead at the intermission.

Chaffey played West L.A. to a standstill in the second half as both squads bucketed 29 points. But the contest had long been put to bed by the Oiler's domination of the boards and their ability to beat the Panthers down the floor for easy hoops.

Ford applies for Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Amateur golfer Gerald Ford, who lists himself as an 18 handicapper, has applied to play in the 36th Bing Crosby National Pro-Am tournament here on his first full day as an ex-President, tournament officials say.

Ford explained on his entry blank that he expected to attend the inauguration of Jimmy Carter Thursday, Jan. 20 and would fly to Palm Springs later that day and then fly here the next day.

An unprecedented arrangement has been made for a stand-in amateur to play in Ford's place on Thursday, first day of the four-day tourney over the Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point courses.

GETTING READY — Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw loosens up for practice for NFL Playoffs Sunday. Bradshaw missed six games with injuries this season and hopes to avoid them against Baltimore.

Vachon cools Flames

By the Associated Press

It took a hot goalie to cool the Atlanta Flames Wednesday night.

The Flames fired 19 shots at Los Angeles' Rogie Vachon in the first period and the Kings' goalie stopped each one. At the end of two periods, the Flames, beaten only once in their previous 15 games, enjoyed a 30-16 advantage in shots. However, the score was tied 1-1.

Then, Gene Carr's 10th goal and Marcel Dionne's 20th gave the Kings a 3-1 National Hockey League victory.

"Yes, it was my best period of the season," said Vachon. "It's funny. I don't know why, but certain guys just play better against certain teams. I guess I just like this building (the Omni in Atlanta).

"When you know you're going to play the hottest team in the league, it's not hard to get up for the game. We seemed to get stronger as the game went along."

In other NHL games, Toronto posted a 4-1 triumph over St. Louis, Cleveland routed Detroit 7-3 and Montreal beat Colorado 8-2.

In the World Hockey Association, Cincinnati blanked Minnesota 5-0 and Phoenix edged Birmingham 6-5.

"We had our opportunities in the first and third periods, but we just missed," said Atlanta Coach Fred Creighton. "We never seemed to pursue our advantages."

Maple Leafs 4, Blues 1

Inge Hammarstrom and Lanny McDonald scored 16 seconds apart, climaxing a three-goal opening period by Toronto and goalie Wayne Thomas held St. Louis scoreless until Garry Unger beat him with 51 seconds left in the game.

The loss extended the Blues' winless streak to eight games.

Barons 7, Red Wings 3

Cleveland's Bob Murdoch, whose younger brother Don has established himself as a solid candidate for Rookie of the Year honors with the New York Rangers, scored three goals in a game for the first time in his NHL career.

Cleveland bombed veteran Ed Giacomin for five goals in the opening period. The Barons have scored at least three goals in the opening period of their last three games and won all three.

"I like the quick starts," said Cleveland Coach Jack Evans. "You know the percentage of a

OWING TO THE DISCOURTESY OF BRITSH WINTER we did not get the Aston Villa/Tottenham Hotspur TV game last Sunday but in its place Mario Machado and Channel 28 came up with a masterful replacement in the 1st place Liverpool vs Ipswich Town confrontation . . . and you can't complain about that!

The Ipswich 1-0 victory on the ice-coated field gave advantage to the man in possession and we saw more ball-carrying than most British players attempt. With a game in hand in midweek the win put Ipswich in first place and the race looks thrilling in the rugged 22-team First Division.

Sunday, it's Chelsea vs Wolverhampton in a 2nd Division fracas. The royal blue-suited Chelsea (they pronounce it "Chell-see") didn't do much for their London fans until 1955 when they won their only 1st Div. League title. Not until 1970 did they win the F.A. Cup. They followed it with a walloping European Cup-Winners Cup victory over Real Madrid in '71.

Famous names have filled the Chelsea lineup like heavy scoring forwards Tommy Lawton, Jimmy Greaves and the famous Scot, Hughie Gallacher. More recent stars were Peter Osgood, David Webb, Eddie McCready (of Scotland), and the L.A. Aztecs fine mid-fielder last year, Charlie Cooke. World Cup goalie Peter Bonetti put in a season with the St. Louis Stars in the NASL, too.

The Wolves of Wolverhampton return for a 2nd Channel 28 TV visit when they meet Chelsea. The black-and-gold Wolves (originally the Wanderers) are known to Southern California fans from the late Sixties when they were the Los Angeles Wolves in the U.S. pro league playing at the Rose Bowl and Coliseum. The thrilling final for the U.S. Pro title at the Coliseum is the well-remembered 6-5 overtime triumph by the Wolves over Aberdeen's Dons of Scotland representing Washington, D.C.

Wolverhampton won the League three times in the late '50s and copped the F.A. Cup four times in a period from 1893 to the most recent in 1960.

Figuring largely in the saga of the Wolves was the great Stan Cullis who captained England for many years and who was succeeded at centerhalf and as England Captain by Billy Wright (whose record of 108 international games stood till Bobby Moore exceeded that total within the last few years.)

A succession of fine forwards like Ireland's Derek Dougan, and wingers Jimmy Mullen and Johnny Hancocks, and 1950 World Cup goalie Bert Williams gave Wolverhampton the envious record of finishing in the first three for 9 straight years.

Chelsea's current standouts Steve Finnieston and Ray Lewington should make it interesting for the long-balling Wolves starting at 6:30 Sunday evening.

You can dig the Latin brand of touch-passing earlier on Sunday over Channel 34 at 9:45 a.m. when America is set to go vs Univ. of Guadalajara. Several stars of Chile and Brazil are in the lineups of these teams.

AN ORANGE COUNTY GROUP will be putting the "California Sunshine" into the American Soccer League to furnish local competition with the champion (Van Nuys) Skyhawks. The Tacoma Tides ASL franchise is up for grabs after one season and Spokane may establish a NASL competition but not before 1978. The San Antonio Thunder has moved to Honolulu and some say the Philly Atoms (owned by Mexican backers) may move into San Antonio's Spanish-speaking country or even farther west. NASL and ASL franchises contain a 100-mile circle restriction wherein a competing team in same league cannot violate the territory without permission and settlement with the established team. Most of the pro scouts will be at the Senior Bowl game at Orlando, Fla. to better judge their draft choices.

REMEMBER THE ONE ABOUT JUNIOR'S new electric train set? . . . Dad was so busy playing "engineer" that junior had little time to enjoy it himself.

As Christmas draws near and we reflect upon the past, it might do us some good to examine if we have allowed our own "juniors" to enjoy the kicking game to the fullest degree. As we make the rounds each week watching the youngsters develop their skills we are able to note a wide spectrum of coaching attitudes.

Who can judge if a coach's attitude is better or worse than another's! A winning record is no proof of a successful attitude; a national title is not the ultimate success story. Success in human interactions cannot be measured in inches, yards, won-loss records or national titles.

Success, as related to adult-youth interaction must be measured in degrees of enjoyment by the participants.

A young player who "must" win so as not to incur the wrath of a coach is like "junior" being admonished severely by his dad every time that his model train jumps the track. Toy trains do jump the tracks, kids do make mistakes, teams do lose, and coaches do make errors . . .

The exaggerated emphasis on winning, errorless play, and demand for all around perfection may turn many promising coaches into disenchanted neurotics who take their teams' natural shortcomings as a personal failure.

We strongly suggest the coaches who enjoy the sport as much as we do (i.e. "soccer nuts") and are involved in youth soccer programs, occasionally pause to evaluate the degree of enjoyment the team derives from practices and games. Determine if the player's skill level is improving satisfactorily, and finally determine the intensity of team spirit and cooperation. Concentrate on the areas where your team rates below a "B". Improvement in these areas will surely bring your team their fair share of victories.

Your time, interest, and dedication will be one of the finest gifts that these youngsters will be receiving from you this Christmas. Make it a FUN game and it will pay dividends.

A CHRISTMAS VACATION SOCCER CLINIC will be conducted by Santa's soccer helper, Frits Rosenveldt, on Tuesday, December 21, at Colony Park, Ontario between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. for youth ages 7 to 18.

For additional information call Frits at 983-8902. Frits had his whole team sign a post card and sent it to KCET Channel 28, in support of Star Soccer . . . a great idea. Try it!

USSF PRESIDENT GENE EDWARDS announced that the U.S. World Cup team is currently in the Caribbean for games against Surinam, Curacao, and Aruba in preparation for their December 22 game against Canada to decide which of the two nations will move to the next round of CONCACAF World Cup playoff competition.

INTERNATIONAL SCENE: Internacional of Porto Alegre, Brazil won its second consecutive Brazilian National Championship blanking Corinthians, of Sao Paulo, 2-0. ARGENTINA: The eight teams to enter the quarter finals for the National Championship have been determined: — Boca Juniors, (Current Metropolitan Champions), Quilmes, River Plate, Banfield, Huracan, Union, Talleres, and Newell's Old Boys . . . SPAIN: Barcelona leads after downing Real Sociedad 2-1. Barcelona has 19 points followed by Valencia with 18; Espanol and Atletico de Madrid have 17 points . . . HOLLAND: Ajax leads with 18 followed by Feyenoord with 25, and Ultrecht with 23.

All-comers meet slated

Both the Claremont High Wolfpack and the Montclair Cavaliers advanced to second-round play in the Azusa High Basketball Invitational Wednesday with victories over Charter Oak and Gladstone.

San Marino 87, Sierra Vista 67
Montclair 62, Gladstone 49
Azusa 48, Royal Oak 44
Today's games
Charter Oak vs. Sierra Vista, 3:15 p.m.
Gladstone vs. Royal Oak, 5 p.m.
Claremont vs. San Marino, 6:30 p.m.
Montclair vs. Azusa, 8 p.m.

It took the Wolfpack two overtimes but they finally were able to edge the Lancers 55-51 in a contest of last-second shooting, while the Cavaliers exploded for 25 points in the fourth quarter to coast to a 62-49 decision.

Claremont was only able to play even with the Lancers in the first half despite the outstanding play of center Derek Britton, who led the team with 28 points, 13 rebounds, and eight blocked shots, two of which came in the final seconds of the fourth quarter frustrating Charter Oak's victory threat.

Montclair was a mirror image of the Claremont game. The biggest lead the Cavaliers ever held was three points until there fourth quarter explosions, when Darrin Pierce and Tom Weaver combined for 14 points making four of nine field goals and shooting 6 of 8 free throws.

After trailing 27-29 Claremont was able to pass the Lancers and take a 36-33 edge in the final seconds of the third period. Next, Claremont forward Kelly Gordien received the tip of a jumped ball and promptly dropped the ball through the hoop for a quick two points. Unfortunately Gordien's shot was aimed at the wrong basket, thus Charter Oak received two points and closed the gap to 36-35 Claremont.

This "gift" almost cost Claremont the game as the Lancers rallied to tie the score in the final period, then through the use of stall tactics Charter Oak drained the clock of its final two minutes taking the last shot, and fortunately for Claremont it missed. The Wolfpack then went on to outscore The Lancers 9-5 in the second overtime period after Britton scored consecutive field goals and blocked the Lancers final threat to score.

Neither coach was especially pleased with his teams performance. However, Claremont coach Jack Smith was encouraged by the performance of sophomore guard Derek Ketcham who took charge and quarterbacked the team. "We're a young team." Smith explained, "So we make a lot of mistakes, but whenever the pressures really on the guys seem to come through!"

Claremont will meet San Marino High tonight at 6:30 p.m., while Montclair faces the victor of the Royal Oak - Azusa contest at 8:00 p.m.

Cowens sees Celtics win

BOSTON (AP) — Dave Cowens, the Boston Celtics all-star who left the club more than a month ago for personal reasons, says he is happy. But he gives no indication whether he will return to the defending National Basketball Association champions.

"It's no big deal," Cowens said of his appearance at a post-game party for former teammate Don Nelson, the Milwaukee Bucks' new head coach. "I just wanted to be here on Nellie's big night."

Cowens, a close friend of Nelson, was on hand when the Celtics retired Nelson's No. 19 and raised it to the rafters in pre-game ceremonies Wednesday night. The Celtics went on to spoil Nelson's party with a 129-125 victory over the Bucks.

"Nellie is an old friend of mine," the 28-year-old Cowens said.

The 6-foot-8 Cowens, who took an indefinite leave of absence for personal reasons on Nov. 10, sat in a private box in the rafters of Boston Garden. He tried to avoid fans, writers and photographers.

However, shortly after midnight, he appeared at a private party given by Nelson. Wearing a plaid blue shirt with the neck open and a winter jacket, he said to old friends: "Yah, I'm happy."

But he refused to talk about his present situation with the Celtics—one in which he does not draw on his reported salary of $260,000 per year.

He indicated he met with Celtics President and General Manager Red Auerbach earlier Wednesday, but declined to comment.

As for the game, he said with a laugh: "I didn't like it too much from up there. You can't see too much. And don't forget, I'm not used to seeing basketball from a seat up so high."

Cowens greeted Nelson with a joking remark. Nelson, who played on five NBA championships while with Boston for 11 years before retiring after last season, was dressed nattily in a vested suit.

"Why, you almost look like a gentleman," Cowens said, pulling out his former teammate's tie from under the vest.

But he did not want to talk about when he might rejoin the Celtics. Boston was 4-4 when Cowens walked out. Since then, the Celtics are 9-7.

Locals shine in tourney action

Tourney play proved to be a tonic for three local hoop squads Wednesday.

Ontario High opened impressively in the Valley Christian Tourney with an easy 62-49 decision over Excelsior. Upland downed Redlands 77-61 in the opener of the Ramona Tourney in Riverside while Ontario Christian won big in the Notre Dame Tourney, 82-40 over San Jacinto.

Lone loser was Walnut, which fell to Miraleste by a 77-71 count in the Temple City Tourney. That loss eliminated the Mustangs from tourney action.

Ontario's Otis Manning led a balanced Jaguar attack with 14 points. Teammates John Donaldson (12) and Leo Olivas (10) also hit in double figures. Hershell McMahon led Excelsior with 17 markers.

Ontario, now 6-1 on the year, will play Savanna today at 6:30 p.m. in the championship bracket of the Valley Tourney.

Upland guard Steve Davenport paced his team to victory over Redlands by canning 21 points. Bob Coughran added 16 to the win, including a spotless 12-of-12 performance on the free throw stripe.

Redlands was led by John Johnson's 30 points. Upland, now 4-2 on the year, will square off against host Ramona today at 6 p.m. Tourney finals are slated for Friday.

OCHS had little trouble downing San Jacinto. Pete Verhoeven tossed in 20 points and pulled down eight rebounds to pace the Knights. Jim Berkompas added 19 points while Hank Bouwman scored nine and led all players with 13 rebounds.

Ontario Christian is now 5-1 on the season. The Knights will not play in the Notre Dame Tourney today, but will resume action Friday at 6:30 p.m. vs. Aquinas.

Walnut lost to Miraleste in overtime in the Temple City Tourney to be ousted from that competition. Walnut is now 3-4 on the year and will not return to the hardwoods until the start of the Nogales Tourney, Dec. 27.

Jeff Davis led Walnut with 21 points vs. Miraleste, with Doug Vind adding 19.

The Edgewood finals are slated for Friday.

Chino saw four of its five starters hit in double figures to defeat Edgewood. Forward Roger Hairston led the way with 21 points, while center Gene Campbell tossed in 18, guard Joe Pickens 13 and forward Barry Higgins 12. Sam Favata of Edgewood led all scorers with 29 points.

Chino is now 3-3 on the season.

West Covina's Mike Evans, a 6-9 center, virtually destroyed Chaffey all by himself. Evans netted 33 points in the win.

Chaffey, which saw its season mark sag to 1-4, was led by forward Randy Johnston's 15 points.

Bonita saw its season mark drop to 0-4 with the loss to Bishop Amat. Amat's Alex Acosta led the scoring with 23 points.

The Bearcats were paced by Keith Knight with 16 points and Keith Brandt with 14. However, Brandt fouled out early in the second half to prevent a 'Cat comeback.

Hayes takes over scoring for Bullets

By The Associated Press

Elvin Hayes says he feels a lot of pressure when Phil Chenier is out of the lineup.

But he certainly did not let it bother him Wednesday night.

Hayes took the scoring load on his broad shoulders, firing in 45 points as the Washington Bullets defeated the Kansas City Kings 104-100 in National Basketball Association action.

"I feel I can score any night if I get the ball," said Hayes. "But usually we try for balanced scoring. It's very simple to score if you know you're going to get the ball."

Hayes knew he was going to get the ball more because of Chenier's absence. The high-scoring guard pulled a hamstring muscle last week and the Kansas City game was the first he missed this season.

In other NBA games, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Phoenix Suns 97-87; the Detroit Pistons blitzed the Golden State Warriors 136-116; the Los Angeles Lakers trimmed the New Orleans Jazz 115-105; the Boston Celtics stopped the Milwaukee Bucks 129-125; the Indiana Pacers defeated the San Antonio Spurs 116-102, and the Denver Nuggets defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 117-103.

Hayes connected on 19 of 32 shots and grabbed seven rebounds in his best performance since scoring 46 points in a playoff game against Buffalo two years ago.

76ers 97, Suns 87

Julius Erving collected 25 points and George McGinnis 20 as Philadelphia beat Phoenix. Philadelphia raced to a 17-point first-period lead and never trailed. The Suns reduced the lead 33-31 with 7:51 left in the second quarter, but a 10-point 76ers' spurt led to a 51-41 halftime advantage.

Pistons 136, Warriors 116

Guards Kevin Porter and Chris Ford each tossed in three baskets during a 16-0 first-quarter spree as Detroit swept past Golden State. The Pistons, winning for the fifth time in their last six games, trailed 10-6 when Porter scored two baskets and Ford followed with two more, giving Detroit a lead it never relinquished.

Celtics 129, Bucks 125

Boston, cheered on by AllStar center Dave Cowens seated high in a rooftop box, rallied behind Charlie Scott in the fourth period and defeat Milwaukee. With Milwaukee in front 107-104, Scott scored 12 points while the Bucks managed just four, putting Boston in front to stay. Scott wound up with 29 points, while Milwaukee's Junior Bridgeman had a career-high 41.

Pacers 116, Spurs 102

Wil Jones scored 26 points and grabbed 19 rebounds, both season highs, leading Indiana past San Antonio. The Spurs led 53-50 at halftime, but Indiana took the lead for good midway through the third quarter and steadily widened the margin to as many as 22 points late in the game.

Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard said, "That was a super (second) half, possibly our best all year."

Nuggets 117, Sonics 103

Dan Issel poured in a career high 38 points while David Thompson added 24 and Bobby Jones 23, leading Denver over Seattle. Trailing 86-80 after three periods, Seattle rallied behind Dean Tolson's six consecutive points and pulled within 104-101 with 2:17 left. But Issel scored seven straight points, putting the game out of reach.

Prothro talks to Coley

SAN DIEGO (AP)— Coach Tommy Prothro of the San Diego Chargers says he's talking with Max Coley about the team's opening for an offensive coordinator.

"Max and I met today and had a long talk. We both obviously are interested but we reached no conclusions," Prothro said of the Wednesday session with Coley, who may not return as an assistant coach at Denver.

Coley, 47, once a candidate for the job Prothro holds, was said to have left San Diego after the talks. His destination was not known.

Nor would Denver Coach John Ralston shed light on reports Coley either quit the Broncos or was fired.

Ralston was not expected back for a meeting with the board of Empire Sports, Inc., which operates the Broncos, until today.

Prothro is looking for a replacement for Bill Walsh, who quit as the Charger offensive coordinator following the season finale at Oakland.

Ramirez enjoys pressure

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Mexico's Raul Ramirez, analyzing the strange jinx he has over Americans in Davis Cup action, says he thrives on boisterous crowds, pressure matches and the role of an underdog.

"We were underdogs at Palm Springs in 1975 and in Mexico City last Spring," the 23-year-old tennis star said. "The American team also has an edge here this weekend.

"We're underdogs again, but I like that."

Ramirez, who scored a sweep of his matches in upsetting the United States in the past two American zone clashes, joined his teammates Wednesday at Margaret Court's Racquet Club Tennis Ranch here.

He will lead Mexico against a seasoned U.S. squad in the best-of-five series, starting Friday. The draw was set for noon today (2 p.m. EST) for the traditional opening two singles matches Friday, which will be followed by doubles on Saturday and the final singles in reverse pairings Sunday.

Ramirez again will carry the heavy load for Mexico, backed up by 27-year-old Roberto Chavez, who edged teammates Joaquin Loyo-Mayo and Emilio Montano in an unusual roundrobin shootout.

The United States will use veteran Arthur Ashe and Roscoe Tanner in singles with Stan Smith and Bob Lutz playing doubles.

The slender, mustachiod Ramirez arrived from his home at Ensenada after a three-day rest and immediately launched into an intensive four-hour workout.

"After the Grand Prix Masters in Houston last weekend, I was very tired—mentally tired," he said. "I have had a long and busy season. I could tell how tired I was because I felt a pain in my left ankle and the muscles in my left leg hurt. But now I am fine."

Ramirez was one of the most active players on the world tour, competing in 32 tournaments—compiling a 99-30 record in matches and banking $476,343. He finished first in both the Grand Prix doubles and singles, but looked jaded in losing to Brian Gottfried in the Masters.

The lightning-quick Mexican has a 7-1 record against Tanner and is 2-6 against Ashe. He and Gottfried are rated by many as the best doubles team in the world. But, Ramirez seems to hit his best form in the Davis Cup.

"I like this kind of competition," he said, "I get inspired. The crowd gets involved. When I hear them cheer, I want to play better. I like to play for Mexico. I like to play for the Mexican people."

Ramirez said that in September he had considered pulling out of the Davis Cup team because he knew that even if he won, the team could not go all the way because of the Mexican government's stand on South Africa.

"I always go along with the government. But now we have a new government. I don't know what this government's stand will be on South Africa. Personally I am opposed to apartheid. But if my government says for me to play, I'll play," he said.

Ramirez said he was surprised that Jimmy Connors, whom he beat in the decisive match last Spring in Mexico City, declined to play for the United States.

"He has his reasons," Ramirez said. "He does funny things. He does things nobody expects. I think the United States would be better if he played. But in this game, any good player can beat any other good player on a given day."

Bronco gymnasts plan holiday clinic

The Cal Poly Pomona gymnastic team is sponsoring a four-day gymnastics clinic on December, 27, 28, 29, and 30. Beginning, intermediate, and advanced instruction will be given on the four Olympic competitive events, plus tumbling.

The clinic staff will include instructors, who are head coaches of many private clubs, and the Cal Poly gymnastic team.

The schedule for each day will be as follows: 8-8:30 a.m. — warm-up and registration; 8:30-11:30 a.m. — instruction; 11:30-12:30 — lunch (must provide your own); 12:30-3:30 — instruction.

The cost is $15 per gymnast if registered prior to December 21. From after the twentieth of the month, participants will be charged $20 for 4 days, or $5 per day.

Application forms are available at the Physical Education Department at Cal Poly, Pomona. More information may be obtained by calling Bruce Coulter, head gymnastic coach, at 598-4610, or the P.E. Department at 598-4613.

Olympics fate expected soon

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The battle lines have been drawn. The wheeling and dealing is over. The high commands of the three major networks are on hand. Two years of preliminary negotiations will climax over the weekend with a meeting in Moscow.

And within the next few days it should be known which network will own the television rights to the 1980 Summer Olympics.

"When you look back over the last several years to what has captured the fancy of the American viewing public, to what has brought viewers to their TV sets that might not otherwise be there, the answer is the Olympics," says CBS President Bob Wussler. "We would be hard pressed to find a better way to spend our money."

And spend someone will. ABC paid $25 million for the rights to the Montreal Games last summer. The price tag for the 1980 Games is expected to be in neighborhood of $100 million. At that rate, even keeping in mind expected inflation over the next four years, whoever gets the Games will be fortunate to break even on the deal.

But the Olympics are a big prestige item, and the networks are willing to risk a loss in order to give their image a big boost.

"The Russians will get what the traffic will bear," says one network official, "and the traffic will bear a lot. The primary reason is that the network that gets the Games will enhance its world-wide image. It's a tremendously prestigious item."

It's not a bad ratings booster, either. ABC averaged a 47 per cent audience share, meaning 47 per cent of the televisions turned on were tuned to ABC, over the two weeks of the Summer Olympics. And the network drew a 35 per cent share over the 11 days of the Winter Games in Innsbruck. Those are big numbers, even if the figures for the Summer Games are somewhat misleading since the competition was mostly reruns.

ABC says it made a profit on the Olympics, a small one, but the network gained immeasurably in prestige.

The 1980 Games in Moscow, in addition to being expensive, are fraught with pitfalls. The Russians will doubtless exercise some editorial controls over the enterprise and could insist that some air time be devoted to "Soviet Culture" of dubious interest in the U.S. Political hassles, not uncommon in the Olympics, could give the enterprise a sour taste and even result in a U.S. pullout.

These considerations and others prompted talk of a network pool. ABC was in favor of it because, as one source explained, "We think the other networks would do such a poor job that we would look great by comparison." NBC favored it because, a spokesman said, "The three networks together could resist any political pressure from the Russians better than one alone."

But CBS turned the idea down, saying it would prefer to take its chances alone.

And those chances look pretty good. A brief look at the competition:

CBS—The network is rated the favorite. CBS has worked very hard for the Games and may be willing to bid higher than the others. Network officials have pursued the Soviets vigorously for 2½ years. Also, CBS has been in a slump lately and needs the Games badly to restore lost prestige.

ABC—Experience is the key to ABC's presentation. The network did a fine job in Innsbruck and Montreal, and the Russians were impressed. But there is a feeling that ABC, having already invested in the 1980 Winter Games in Lake Placid, N.Y., would be less than bereft if it lost out.

NBC—Rated the longshot. Network sources have been pessimistic over their chances of landing the Games, and the feeling in some quarters is that NBC isn't really sure if it wants them.

Regardless of which network gets the Games, all three have learned at least one valuable lesson. For a Communist country, the Soviet Union is quite well versed in the ways of capitalism.

Keystone Ore easy choice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Keystone Ore, with an unprecedented 21 sub-two minute victories and winnings of more than $539,000 this season, was an overwhelming choice today as the 1976 Harness Horse of the Year.

The Stanley Dancer-trained colt received 130 votes to 31 for runner-up Keystone Pioneer in the balloting by the U.S. Harness Writers Association, it was announced by the U.S. Trotting Association.

Keystone Ore, a bay son of Bye Bye Byrd-Oregon's Tiny, previously was voted Pacer of the Year and 3-year-old Pacer of the Year.

Hambletonian winner Steve Lobell, named Trotter of the Year and 3-year-old Trotter of the Year, was third with 25 votes.

Bucs will be better, —McKay

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Following the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' record-setting 0-14 season, Coach John McKay says, "If everybody didn't do anything next year, things would improve."

If nothing else, the first-year Bucs know each other better now and there are game films to point up mistakes and weaknesses.

"I never thought I'd be looking back on a winless season," McKay said at a year-end news conference Wednesday, adding he had expected his team to win four or five games in its first season in the National Football League.

"I wouldn't change one iota of what we did in training camp," McKay said. "We would have preferred to work harder, but we couldn't do it with the number of injuries."

The Bucs managed only a total of 125 points in 14 games, while giving up 412.

In the off-season, through the college draft or trades, the Bucs' top priorities are a quarterback who can run, an offensive lineman or two and a linebacker.

"We hope to make some deals with other teams," McKay said.

Seventeen players are on injured reserve, 11 of them rookies or first-year men. Of the 39 offensive players who suited up for the opening season game, 14 were left by the last game. On defense, eight of the 33 still were in uniform at the end of the season.

McKay, used to winning in his college days at the University of Southern California, admitted to the frustration of his first year in the NFL.

"I was disappointed in the individual play of some on whom we counted heavily. But then I was surprised and pleased by the play of some on whom we did not count heavily," he said.

"I'll be honest, being 1-13-0 doesn't mean anything more than 0-14-0, except for the players and the fans."

In the off-season, McKay said he hoped a good number of players might stay around and get into training programs.

The Bucs already have acquired running back Anthony Davis for next year. And with the first pick in the scheduled college draft, the team plans on taking Southern Cal running back Ricky Bell.

If there is no draft and an open bidding war ensues for promising collegians, the Bucs will be ready for that, too, said Ron Wolf, the team's vice president of operations.

About plans on which players will stay, McKay said, "We have to find out who everybody else is going to cut ... (Don) Shula says he might trade the whole team and we may get Miami."

Texas Wishbone gone?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The surprise selection of Fred Akers of Wyoming as Texas' new football coach could signal the end of the Longhorns' Wishbone-T offense that once rolled to 30 straight victories.

The Wishbone was created at Texas prior to the 1968 season, and Coach Darrell Royal used it to win the 1969 national championship.

Royal, 52, the winningest coach in Southwest Conference history, wound up a 20-year coaching career as Longhorns coach Dec. 4 but kept his job as athletic director.

A seven-member committee unanimously chose Akers, 38, an assistant to Royal in 1966-74, as his successor Wednesday after interviewing three other candidates.

Akers, preparing his 8-3 Wyoming team to face heavily favored Oklahoma Christmas Day in the Fiesta Bowl at Phoenix, accepted a five-year contract at $45,000 per year to return to Texas.

Dr. Lorene Rogers, Texas president, said Akers told the selection committee he runs a "varied offense," often using two or three formations a game.

Akers' Wyoming teams, however, have run from the Wishbone about 80 per cent of the time.

Royal's assistant for 21 years at Washington and Texas, Mike Campbell, 54, was the favorite to get the job, partly because of a strong recommendation from Royal.

Dr. Rogers noted that Campbell had been quoted as saying the committee "can't afford a mistake" in selecting a coach. "We're certain we haven't made a mistake," she said.

She said the committee had been "very impressed" with Akers' "appearance, enthusiasm and energy."

The committee also talked to Jim Wacker of North Dakota State, but Dr. Rogers refused to name the fourth person who was interviewed.

"I accept," Akers told Dr. Rogers over the telephone. "I can hardly wait to tell my wife."

Texas, wracked by injuries, finished this season with a 5-5-1 record.

Akers was a former quarterback, defensive halfback and kicker at Arkansas.

Royal and Dr. Rogers were asked how long they thought it would take for Akers to re-establish Texas' winning ways, and Dr. Rogers said she understood that the "tradition" of a team winning all its games "may be gone forever."

Royal agreed.

Dr. Rogers said, however, "I think Coach Akers means to win next year."

Cincy too banged up

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Coach Gale Catlett thinks his basketball team is too banged up to deserve its No. 6 national ranking.

But Miami of Ohio Coach Darrell Hedric disagreed after playing the Bearcats Wednesday night.

Cincinnati, paced by Gary Yoder's career-high 26 points, had little trouble downing Miami University 79-68 before 10,134 fans in jam-packed Millett Hall.

"We don't deserve to be ranked in the Top 10 with the injuries we have," said Catlett, whose team won at Miami for the first time in three games. The Ohio rivalry goes back to 1908.

Center Bob Miller, 6-foot-10, had only 13 points playing with an injured foot, but was effective enough defensively to force Miami to shoot from the outside. Cincinnati has lost Pat Cummings and freshman Greg Johnson to injuries.

UC files appeal for minority admissions

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of California, citing generations of discrimination against minorities, filed an appeal recently with the U.S. Supreme Court to preserve its minority admission programs.

The U.S. Supreme Court, by earlier refusing to hear the case, upheld California Supreme Court decisions that special admissions programs that consider race are unconstitutional. But it granted a stay to allow the university to file a new petition.

The state high court ordered the UC Davis Medical School to admit Allan Bakke, a white student who had sued over inability to enter the school. He contended that he was denied admission at Davis because 16 of the 100 openings for new medical students were reserved for disadvantaged minorities.

The Bakke case dealt only with the UC Davis Medical School, but the state court's ruling left uncertain the status of other UC professional school and undergraduate minority admissions programs, said UC spokesperson Sarah Molla.

UC regents said the U.S. Supreme Court is being asked to decide whether a state university professional school faculty can voluntariy seek "to counteract generations of pervasive discrimination against ... minorities" by having a special program that "increases opportunities for well-qualified members" of racial and ethnic minorities.

The appeal also notes that the special admissions program involves a school where only a small fraction of thousands of applicants gain admission.

Bakke's attorneys have 30 days in which to file a response to the UC appeal.

"...intense competition for limited places in the professional schools, especially schools of medicine and law, makes more difficult the admission of minority students through traditional methods," regents said.

Conflicting decisions in other state courts that have considered the issue is another reason for a U.S. Supreme Court review, the regents said.

Several minority groups have opposed UC's decision to appeal, saying UC attorneys presented a weak case and that an appeal on that record would likely result in a more restrictive decision from the U.S. Supreme Court with nationwide impact on all programs giving minorities an edge.

These groups include National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Legal Defense and Education Fund, the National Conference of Black Lawyers, and the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

Paperwork piles up despite Ford's cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal government forms now take Americans 143 million hours to fill out, up almost 13 million hours despite President Ford's effort to slash the burden of the paperwork.

Ford's campaign succeeded in its major stated goal — eliminating more than 700 different federal forms.

But the effort to ease the burden of government paperwork — as emphasized by Ford in speech after speech — was thwarted by new programs, more people in old programs and perhaps consolidation of old forms into longer new ones.

In October 1975, Ford ordered that the number of forms be cut by 10 per cent.

At that time, the Office of Management and Budget listed 5,146 forms repeatedly sent to the public by 44 federal departments and agencies under a president's control. As of Nov. 30, the OMB lists 4,418 forms, a drop of 738 forms, or about 14.3 per cent.

The November figure is below even the June 30 list of 4,504 forms — the figure Ford cited in announcing the success of his effort.

But the measure of the burden of those forms — the number of hours needed to fill them out — has been going up.

In October 1975, OMB estimated that it would take 130.3 million hours to fill out the forms. In June of this year, OMB estimated 138.4 million hours. In October, the figure was 138.6 million. Last month, the estimate was 143 million — up almost 13 million hours from the previous year.

And this continuing increase in the burden comes as the number of forms has dropped month-to-month through that same 13-month period.

As Ford admitted in July, most of the forms that were dropped were minor ones sent annually to only several hundred or several thousand people.

For example, the critique forms for the "Discover America Pow Wow And Trade Mart" and "Preliminary Fiscal Report and Final Fiscal Report (EPDA), Part E, Fellowship Program and Title IX-VB Fellowship Program" are absent from the October 1976 list. Together, those two forms elicited 772 responses and took 600 hours to fill out.

But the "Application for Determination of Basic Grant Eligibility for the Current Academic Year" is expected to get 3.5 million responses this year, up from 2 million in 1975. And that change in the numbers of one form adds an estimated 3 million hours of filling out the forms.

This scholarship application and other changes boosted the burden of paperwork from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare by 6.6 million hours to 49.8 million hours, while the number of different HEW forms dropped from 957 to 798.

The Department of Labor increased the burden of its forms by about 5 million hours, up from 15.4 million in 1975. The number of different forms dropped from 270 to 241 in the same period.

Two firms fined for violations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A soft drink maker and a restaurant have each been fined for violating labeling or advertising laws.

Orange Bang Inc. of Sun Valley which manufactures noncarbonated drinks pleaded no contest to six counts of manufacturing and selling food products with labels which failed to list all ingredients.

Municipal Court Commissioner Mayer Newman fined the firm $2,500 Tuesday and placed it on two years unsupervised probation.

Newman also fined David Wong, owner of La Place restaurant, $750 after he pleaded no contest to three counts of false advertising.

A health department investigator said he found the restaurant's menu advertising fresh shrimp and scallops, prime New York cut steak and fresh salmon that was "swimming this morning."

The salmon, shrimp and scallops were all frozen and the steak wasn't prime grade, the investigator said.

Aggressive defensive bidding is something like a two headed rattlesnake. It can bite in either direction.

North's five-club call was a tremendous overbid, but he was forced into it by West's jump to four spades. It just seemed to him that a pass was too much of an underbid.

South's five-spade cue bid was fully justified and when West doubled North was able to pass and indicate that he wasn't too happy about his hand. This didn't deter South. He reasoned that if his partner didn't have two aces the chances were that East would hold the missing one and that West would probably lead a spade in any case. So South bid the grand slam.

Sure enough, West did lead that spade. South ruffed in dummy and proceeded to make the grand slam by careful play. He came back to his hand with the ace of clubs; ruffed a second spade. Cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds in order to get rid of his jack of hearts; ruffed a heart in his hand; ruffed his last small spade; came back to his hand by ruffing another heart; played his king of clubs to pick up East's queen and claimed.

Ask the Jacobys

A Quebec reader wants to know the correct opening bid with:

♠ K x x x x ♥ A x ♦ x ♣ A K J x x.

Our answer is of the waffling type. We open one club or one spade depending on what our partner likes. In general you bid the higher ranking of two five-card suits first, but you may make an exception with spades and clubs.

Carter prefers initial visit from Chinese

BOSTON (AP) — President-elect Carter has been invited to visit China as soon after his inauguration as possible, but he would rather have the Chinese visit him first, The Boston Herald American reported today.

The newspaper said it learned from key Democratic party officials that the invitation had been conveyed to Carter by personal friends and important Democratic party fundraisers who have recently visited China.

A key Carter foreign policy expert responded that the President-elect was grateful for the invitation, but would prefer to explore having a top-level Chinese official visit the United States first, the newspaper said.

Bodies of anglers missing 9 years pulled from lake

LAKEPORT (AP) — Two bodies found in Clear Lake apparently were those of two fishermen who drowned nine years ago after their car fell into the lake, authorities say.

The skeletal remains of two men thought to be Melvin Murrin of Yakima, Wash., and Chester Lowe of Kelseyville were discovered Saturday in the rusted-out body of a car registered to Murrin.

State's taxable sales up sharply

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's taxable sales shot up sharply during the second quarter of this year, the state Board of Equalization says.

The board reported Wednesday that during April, May and June taxable sales totaled nearly $20.7 billion, an increase of 13.9 per cent over the same time last year.

Mobile home and trailer dealers had the largest gain of any retail group: 36 per cent. New car dealers registered a sales increase of 25.2 per cent, while sales of building materials jumped 24.7 per cent, according to the board.

Illegal alien raid nets 300 suspects

ANAHEIM (AP) — More than 300 alleged illegal aliens rounded up at a motor home factory awaited deportation today.

Immigration Service spokesman Fred Englert said 80 per cent of the aliens picked up in a sweep by 60 agents Tuesday at the Executive Motor Homes plant were from Mexico, the rest from assorted other countries.

Officials, making their third sweep of the plant within a year, acted on tips that illegal aliens were working at the plant, Englert said.

Avalanche kills 4 Swiss youths

ST. GALL, Switzerland (AP) — Four young Swiss were killed and a fifth was injured Sunday in Switzerland's first major avalanche accident of the premier season.

The police said the avalanche caught seven youths coming down from the 4,555-foot Schwaegalp. Three freed themselves, and police with avalanche dogs recovered the bodies of the four victims several hours later.

The avalanche followed heavy snowfalls in central and eastern Switzerland last week.

New homicide high

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — Kern County has set a single-year record for homicides with more than one a week in 1976, officials said.

The county recorded its 53rd and 54th murders of the year during the weekend, Coroner Richard Gervais said Monday. That placed the total one above the record set last year.

Gervais said the body of Robert Chambers, 26, of Bakersfield was found near Lake Isabella Sunday with three shotgun wounds in the back. He apparently had been dead since the middle of last week.

The body of Charles Norman Kellogg, 30, of Lamont was discovered outside the Lucky Spot Bar near here on Sunday.

Soviets plan wave of honors for Brezhnev's 70th birthday

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will celebrate his 70th birthday Sunday amid a torrent of praise from the official Soviet media and no sign that he is thinking of retiring.

"He is still a modest, unassuming man," claims one of several biographies of Brezhnev issued to mark the anniversary. But that hasn't stopped a wave of honors and adoration from being heaped upon him as the day approaches.

In the past few weeks, the Communist leaders of Romania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia have all presented state medals to Brezhnev to mark his birthday, calling him a true friend of East Europe and a champion of peace.

Two new films, called "Leonid Brezhnev in Kazakhstan" and "The Life Story of a Communist," have been created to glorify him to Soviet moviegoers. There are also new paintings and a photograph album of Brezhnev's life and a birthday collection of his speeches entitled "Questions of Economic Management in Developed Socialist Society."

Brezhnev has already been declared a Marshal of the Soviet Union, a military rank held previously by no Soviet leader except the late dictator Joseph Stalin. A bronze bust of Brezhnev has been unveiled amid great ceremony in his home town of Dneprodzerzhinsk in the Ukraine.

No one is predicting what additional honors may be given him on the birthday itself, although there is talk of more statues and medals or perhaps an honorary title from the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

But since Brezhnev still likes to stress the Soviet leadership's supposed team spirit, he is likely to follow former Soviet boss Nikita S. Khrushchev in abstaining from the wild hero-worshipping of Stalin's birthdays.

Stalin used celebrations of his 50th birthday in 1929 to have himself recognized as the sole ruler of the Soviet Union following the purge of his opponents. His 70th birthday, on Dec. 21, 1949, was a state occasion with thundering salutes, a Red Square procession and the launching of balloons carrying his image.

Khrushchev's 70th birthday, on April 17, 1964, was substantially less lavish. It included, however, many congratulatory speeches and telegrams, plus a large Kremlin party. The main oration came from none other than Brezhnev, who was to join with Azexei N. Kosygin and Nikolai V. Podgorny six months later to topple Khruschchev from power.

"Dear Nikita Sergeevich," Brezhnev said in his speech then, "your marvelous deeds have won you the love of all our party, the whole Soviet people . . . This fills our hearts with joy and pride in you. Dear Nikita Sergeevich, for our respected comrade, friend and leader."

The themes of the birthday celebration for Brezhnev, as laid out publicly so far, are that he is "of workers' flesh and blood," is devoted to peace and disarmament and is "a democratic person, without a trace of conceit."

Substantial attention is being paid to his role as political commissar in several decisive battles in World War II and to his current role as an international negotiator.

As he reaches 70, Brezhnev has shown little sign of winding down his work pace. Although he has disappeared for weeks at a time in the past few years without explanation, his overall health condition appears excellent except for a hearing aid that has appeared this year.

He is clearly the Soviet Union's top leader, with Premier Kosygin and President Podgorny receiving comparatively little attention. Each speech he makes now is printed in massive press runs and favorable comments about his work are gathered from around the world for Soviet newspapers.

Many ordinary Soviets see him as an acceptable leader and credit him for working his way to the party leadership with no special advantages from the metalworking factories of his native Ukraine.

In accepting a state medal from Bulgaria a few weeks ago, Brezhnev suggested that much work lies ahead for him in solving international and domestic conflicts.

Political observers note in particular that many of the Western statesmen with whom he first forged detente — including U.S. President Richard M. Nixon, French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt — have now passed from the scene, leaving him the job of "breaking in" their successors in a new round of detente diplomacy that he may well want to do personally.

In any case, age does not seem to be a central worry for Brezhnev in planning his future. Kosygin is already 72, Podgorny is 73 and one member of the Communist party's ruling 15-man Politburo, Arvid Y. Pelshe, is still working and dropping in on diplomatic cocktail parties at age 77.

Brezhnev can also cite the comments of one of his most trusted political lieutenants, Andrei P. Kirilenko, as a reason to stick to his post for years to come.

"A 70-year road through life is not short, but it isn't so long, either," Kirilenko said in October when he became 70. "It is good that, in our country, this age is considered only middle age."

Murder charge admitted

VENTURA (AP) — A veterinary worker has brought his kidnap-murder trial to an abrupt halt by agreeing to lead authorities to the burial site of the woman he is accused of killing two years ago.

Richard William Durkee, 22, changed his plea from innocent to guilty and agreed to lead officials to the gravesite Monday as his trial was about to begin.

Durkee is charged in the disappearance of Antoinette Talan, a 36-year-old Simi Valley mother of three. She was last seen at 9 p.m. on June 28, 1975, when her 10-year-old daughter left home to spend the night with a neighborhood friend.

The woman's husband and two sons were away on a fishing trip.

When Talan and his sons returned the next day, the house was empty and they found a ransom note demanding $25,000. The note said the kidnapers would telephone Talan with instructions on where to leave the money, but the call never came.

Christmas mating time

CHICAGO (AP) — Christmas is traditionally a time for prayer and celebration. But in some countries it's also a time to pick a spouse, according to World Book Encyclopedia.

Swiss youths may visit nine fountains on their way to midnight services and take three sips of water from each. Legend says if they do this, they will find their future husband or wife waiting at the church door.

In Czechoslovakia, a girl can "predict" her wedding plans by putting a cherry twig in water on December 4. If it blossoms before Christmas Eve, she will marry sometime that year.

Koala death blamed on inflammation

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The San Diego Zoo says the death of one of the koalas donated by Australia for the Bicentennial resulted from an intestinal inflammation coupled with a virus infection in the liver.

Dr. Kurt Benirschke, research director for the zoo and chairman of pathology for the University of California-San Diego School of Medicine, said the koala, Audrey, was also weak because she was nursing a baby born since her arrival with six other bears on July 27.

Another among the koalas donated by Australia died Oct. 26, but zoo officials said Monday the four remaining adult bears, Audrey's baby, named Gum Drop, and two koalas owned by the zoo since 1960 show no signs of illness.

Federal Reserve aids consumer credit

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — Consumers nationwide are finding help with their consumer credit problems at the Federal Reserve.

The FED has recently announced a formal system for handling complaints on everything from the disclosure of interest rates on loans to mixed-up credit billings.

Here in the West, the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco maintains a consumer affairs division aimed at making the life of consumers much easier when it comes to banking problems.

"Imperceptibly the FED has become a very active agency dealing with consumer matters," said credit and consumer affairs officer Oscar Celli. "Congress assigned to the Federal Reserve the responsibility for implementing a wide range of consumer legislation. This includes the Truth in Lending Act, the Fair Credit Billing Act, the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act, the Consumer Leasing Act and the Fair Credit Reporting Act."

According to the FED, consumers are becoming more and more knowledgeable about the laws affecting them and their banking relationships. Two years ago, the FED established a division of consumer affairs to help administer the laws passed by Congress in this broad field.

In the past several weeks a specific complaint procedure was set up to make sure that consumer problems were heard — and acted on with dispatch.

Any consumer with a complaint about a banking practice which he considers unfair and deceptive or in violation of a law or regulation can contact the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco. This means the consumer affairs staff at 400 Sansome St., San Francisco 94120.

The FED will try to make a substantive response within 15 days. If that is not possible, the FED will acknowledge the complaint within 15 days and set a specific time period within which a substative response will be made. Consumer assistance also may be obtained at 415-544-2226.

The FED itself investigates only those complaints involving state-chartered banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System. Other complaints are forwarded to the appropriate Federal Agency, such as the Comptroller of the currency for national banks, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for state banks that are not members of the Federal Reserve System.

"Procedures for dealing with consumer complaints are designed to accomplish two primary purposes," Celli said. "First, we want to assure consumers that they will have prompt and responsive action on complaints involving other banks.

"A second goal is to single out banking acts or practices that are widespread or frequent enough to warrant possible regulatory action by the FED. This will be accomplished by exhaustive record-keeping of complaints and of the resolution of those complaints."

The FED received over 1,400 complaints nationwide during the first six months of 1976. The largest number dealt with Truth in Lending and the Fair Credit Billing Acts, and concerned disclosure of interest rates on loans and procedures for handling credit-card billing errors.

"We believe that we can perform a valuable service to consumers and the banking industry," Celli said, "by acting as a clearinghouse for bank-related problems and providing a sympathetic hearing when an impasse develops. We want to make sure that a consumer with a problem can bank on us."

ADVICE ON CHRISTMAS TREES — John Koch, president of the National Christmas Tree Association, advises tree buyers to cut off a couple of inches of trunk and to place it in water to keep it healthy longer inside home. Koch is shown on his tree farm at Birdsboro, Pa.

Hints on keeping Yule tree fresh

By The Associated Press

'Twas the week before Christmas
And the family saw red,
As the tree they had chosen
Started to shed.

Millions of Americans will be buying the family Christmas tree this weekend and by the time next Saturday rolls around they will have purchased an estimated 27 million live trees. And many consumers will find themselves sweeping up needles even before the holiday arrives.

You can avoid shedding entirely by buying an artificial tree. You can also keep a live tree fresh with just a little care, however.

John Koch, a Birdsboro, Pa., grower who is president of the National Christmas Tree Association, says consumers should take two steps to minimize shedding.

First, he says, slice an extra piece off the bottom of the tree or have the retailer do it for you. As much as three weeks may elapse between the time the tree is chopped down and the day you take it home. In that period, the "wound" at the base has healed and the tree cannot absorb water unless you make a new cut.

Second, give the tree plenty of water. Because it has been dry for a long period, the tree may "drink" up to three quarts of water the first day, Koch said. Never let the stand get completely dry. Once it has dried out, the "wound" at the base of the tree heals again and adding more water later on is useless.

How long should the tree last?

"I know people who have Scotch pines still up at Easter," Koch said.

While they are growing, trees shed once a year.

You may find some needles from this normal shedding left in the tree, particularly with a Scotch pine. But Koch said that a tree will keep indefinitely, without covering the floor with needles, as long as it is kept in water and not allowed to get dehydrated.

The most popular trees, according to Koch, are the Scotch pines and the Douglas firs, followed by balsam firs. The Douglas firs are the most expensive. Koch said wholesale prices this year are $8 to $9, meaning consumers can expect to pay at least $20 for a six-foot tree. Scotch pines at the wholesale level are going for about $4 or $5, Koch said.

There are several things to take into consideration when buying a tree, Koch said. Personal preference in terms of shape and size is a major factor. The experts also look for a symmetrical tree that tapers at the top, has a fair amount of fullness and is a good dark green. Don't be too quick to ignore the tree that seems scrawny on one side. You can put it into a corner or against a wall and may be able to find a price bargain.

To check for freshness, simply try to bend a needle or two. If it feels rubbery and doesn't break, the tree is fresh.

Finally, make sure you place your tree well away from any source of heat such as a fireplace. Check tree lights for frayed wires, loose connections, broken or cracked sockets and spots where bare wire is exposed. Fasten the lights securely, but make sure that none of the bulbs come into direct contact with needles or branches.

Harbor gas project given okay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A city council committee has recommended approval of a controversial liquefied gas project for Los Angeles Harbor.

The three-member committee voted unanimously Tuesday to back the lucrative offloading facility, which has drawn state and federal criticism for being too risky to locate in a populated area.

The project, proposed by Pacific Lighting Corp., would yield $1.2 million a year to the city's Harbor Department and another $5 million in taxes.

The committee vote came without an independent study of the project, since an environmental impact report prepared by the Harbor Department relies almost entirely on work done by Pacific Lighting consultants.

The proposal is expected to go before the full council on Thursday, with a two-thirds vote needed for approval.

'Map' origin

The English word "map" has its roots in "mappa," the Latin name for the linen material used by Roman cartographers for sketches.

Goddess mother

The Tibetan name for the world's highest mountain is Chomolungma ("goddess-mother"). It was named Everest after the Englishman Sir George Everest who in 1841 was the first to record its height.

You're a man who's made it. And it shows, in the way you dress, the way you think. If you're this kind of man, this is your kind of watch. Made of 14K yellow gold, it's framed with precious diamonds, and finished in tasteful Florentine gold, with matching bracelet. It's rich. Handsome. Sophisticated. It's the watch that says you've got it all.

Famous Ritz as 'ritzy' as ever

PARIS (AP) — The Ritz, the Paris hotel synonymous with elegance for three-quarters of a century, "is like an ocean liner that never stops," Board Chairman Monique Ritz says.

"Here, you're a name, not just a number," she added in an interview in the lobby of the hotel which boasts 430 employes for 250 guests, roughly a 2-1 ratio.

Asked about rumors that the 209-room hotel on Place Vendome would be sold because of the death of her 84-year-old husband Charles in July, the blonde, 53-year-old Mrs. Ritz said, "Never."

"We did have two difficult years, just like everyone in the business, but that's over with and we're confident about the future," Mrs. Ritz, one of Europe's top women executives, said.

She said the hotel, where prices range from 310 francs ($62) a day for a single to 2,000 francs ($400) a day for the six-room Imperial Suite, was just about full at the moment.

Mrs. Ritz, wearing a tailored black suit, black boots, white blouse, gold earrings and gold necklace, declined to say how much the hotel earned or what her own salary is, however.

"I'm here every day, encountering every situation one can in such a hotel. But I couldn't do it without my team," she said of her 12-member managerial staff.

Mrs. Ritz was responsible for redecorating the hotel four years ago while her husband was still alive and setting up conference facilities for businessmen.

However, she said no new projects are planned for the moment and that the hotel's conference room would remain limited to about 25 executives.

"We're not competing with other hotels for that type of business," Mrs. Ritz said. "We're an entirely different kind of hotel."

Cesar Ritz, Charles' father, founded the hotel in 1898 but died shortly after its opening. His wife ran the business until her death in the late 1950s then Charles took over.

Asked once for his own definition of "ritzy," Charles, who sometimes held fly casting competitions in the lobby of the hotel, replied "Ritzy simply means reasonable perfection."

Charles was also responsible for several innovations in the hotel, including a time clock for employes, potato frying machines, dictaphones and American shower heads.

"I hate little showers with small holes, so I decided since Americans are the world's greatest shower takers they must make the best showers," he once said.

'Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer'

Songwriter's big hit due to singer's wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Marks remembers a visit to a Japanese bath in Tokyo, four or five years ago.

"... And there you have these girls who give you a bath. And I was having this bath and this girl was scrubbing my back, and what do I hear? Dum di da-dum di dum-dum. And I turned to her and I says, 'What are you singing?'

"She looked at me in utter scorn. 'Don't you know (squeaky mock-Japanese) "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer"?'"

Does Johnny Marks know that song? He wrote it — 27 years and 113 million records ago.

"I don't think there's ever been a record that catapulted itself like that one," muses the trim, 67-year-old composer. "It's the only one I know of that became No. 1 on the country charts, on the pop charts, in the jukeboxes."

Johnny Marks became an overnight hero to millions in 1949, though few knew his name. He's a hero today, still behind the scenes. Millions will hear his biggest hit in countless tongues. Millions will see three Christmas specials on TV — Johnny Marks wrote all the music. "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" was just telecast for the 13th year in a row.

It was 1948. Tin Pan Alley. Nearly a decade earlier, Robert L. May had written the "Rudolph" story in Chicago as a Christmas giveaway for his employer, Montgomery Ward and Co.

"I wrote it," recalls Johnny Marks, "easily one of the worst songs ever written. It was just terrible. I threw that away, and the following year, I rewrote it. And that is the song you know today.

"I can sing it for you. The first one went, 'Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, had a very shiny nose." But that's a terrible tune. (It only resembles the well-known smash hit.)

"Now what happened is, a year later, I'm walking along the street, it's never happened before, I started to hum. Dum di da-dum di dum-dum. You see, what I'm doing is inverting the notes, instead of going down, I'm going up."

Out went demonstration records — to Dinah Shore, Bing Crosby "all the top artists of the day, including Gene Autry. What's great about this, I did not know this man (Autry), I had no relation with him.

"He got the record at his office, played it over, and took it home with seven other songs to pick four for his next record session.

"He decided not to do 'Rudolph'. He said, 'I didn't feel it fit my image.' But his wife said, 'Gee, I think "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" is one of the greatest songs I ever heard. Put it on one side of the record for me, put what you think are the hits on the other.'

"And of course, the rest is history."

Three months later, Autry, the singing cowboy, sung "Rudolph" at Madison Square Garden. "I thought it would be a hit, a normal hit song," says Johnny Marks. "What happened to it, that was beyond my wildest dreams. I could not conceive of it."

JOHNNY MARKS

Johnny Marks looks and plays the part. Trim white goatee, mellow cigar. He taps his foot as he hums through a tune. Home is in Greenwich Village, "a little yard in the back." His office probably hasn't changed much in the last quarter-century.

Johnny Marks had hits before "Rudolph," and he's had some since, not all of the Christmas variety. Kate Smith did "Anyone Can Move a Mountain," the Ink Spots did "Address Unknown," Bing Crosby did "Who Calls," Glenn Miller did "She'll Always Remember."

He set up St. Nicholas Music Co. to publish "Rudolph," and he's concentrated on Christmas songs since — "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day" (Bing Crosby-1956), "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree (Brenda Lee-1960), "Holly, Jolly, Christmas" (Burl Ives-1963).

Nothing Johnny Marks or anyone else ever did took off like "Rudolph."

"When I wrote it, I did not think of it as a Christmas song. I remember arguing with people, 'Well, it has something to do with Christmas.' And you know, I was partially right.

"The record of Gene Autry's ... was released Sept. 19, and by Oct. 15, that song was a hit. So the public, while it (the song) referred to Christmas, could not have thought of it as a Christmas song."

Johnny Marks still writes a little music, but "it's a different world. I have to admit it's youth oriented ... and I find it a little more difficult."

Christmas songs? "There are practically none come out now. John Denver, Como, Crosby, Autry, I mean, they just reissue.

"I think a few years ago there was just too much produced. The disc jockeys got deluged, they said we won't play anything until December the Fifth, and around the country they're just starting to play them. Now what can you do with a new thing?"

"Rudolph" will be around for years to come, though even the composer can't say why.

"I remember talking to Gene Autry, calling him to wish him a Merry Christmas one year. He said, 'Johnny, I want you to write me another "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer".'

"I said, 'Look, Gene, never in a million years will I write another one. Let's just try to get a little hit'."

Survey finds women want dignity on job

NEW YORK (AP) — Dignity on the job, a boss who is fair and work that generates a sense of identity or importance are the three most important job factors to a working woman, according to a survey sponsored by a temporary help service.

The survey, which queried women office workers on assignment for Western Temporary Services in seven states, revealed that women are unhappiest when asked to do trivial tasks, personal favors for the boss or to work for people who are not fully competent.

Do women prefer to work for a man or woman?

Of those who responded, 77 per cent prefer men as bosses; 13 per cent prefer women and 10 per cent said it didn't matter as long as the boss was competent. Those who preferred to work for men had a variety of reasons. Among them:

Men are less catty and easier to get along with; men usually don't flaunt their authority or regard women as a threat; men are easier to please — women bosses are too particular; men don't lose their tempers as fast as women and women bosses always feel competitive with their female secretaries or clerks.

Those who would prefer to work for women cited female empathy. Said one respondent: "A woman understands the problems of working women, such as sick children, babysitting needs and the like."

The best bosses were almost unanimously described as "understanding." Said one woman: "I like a boss who understands that a woman — particularly one with children — may have to leave early on occasion and without much warning. Most bosses understand this, but some don't. Insensitive ones think it's all right for them to play golf in mid-afternoon but unreasonable for a mother to tend an injured child."

Others felt that the best bosses were "reasonable about what they expect," "down to earth," "friendly — but businesslike," and "able to view a subordinate as a person as well as a worker."

The worst faults bosses have, according to the women surveyed, are haughtiness, the use of foul language, poor administrative abilities and a patronizing attitude.

Said one: "The boss was never on top of his job. He waited until five minutes to quitting time to give you an hour's work. Then he wondered why morale was low and there were inefficiencies in the office."

Asked whether there was any one thing they would like to change on their job, the women responded with varied checklists; the working hours, the attitudes of coworkers, the need for more variety, the need for more challenging work.

As for why they work as temporaries, respondents cited "flexibility" and "variety" most often. Many said that home responsibilities made it impossible to accept a permanent job. Others pointed to the advantages of meeting new people and new work situations by working as temporaries.

The survey revealed that a majority of married women hold their jobs with their husband's approval. In some cases, the husband approves because the wife's paycheck augments his own. But in most cases, the husband welcomes the creative outlet that work provides for his wife.

A few husbands, however, do not approve. Said one wife: "My husband dislikes the independence work gives me. I think it makes him feel insecure." Another said: "My husband just thinks a woman's place is in the home."

Whether they enjoy working or not, over 50 per cent of the women who take temporary assignments said the main reason they work is financial. However, many women who were not obliged to work for financial reasons did so for the selfesteem that work provides. Said one woman: "I wouldn't have as much knowledge if I didn't work — and in a sense would lack the mental maturity of my husband."

Another said simply: "We'd be able to manage on my husband's salary, but I just enjoy working and being out of the house." She added: "The more successful my husband is, the more incentive I have to work to feel a sense of identity."

The survey covered women performing a wide range of office jobs, including secretary, bookkeeper, receptionist, file clerk and various data processing jobs.

How Much Do You Know About Christmas?

We know that Christmas is a holiday from work and school, but we want to put you to thinking just a bit. Everyone loves singing songs and hearing stories this time of year. We think you'll be surprised at the amount of knowledge you've already stored up about the legends and lore of Christmas. This week try your luck with questions like these: Why do we use holly? What favorite Christmas character was described as a "squeezing old sinner"? What is "hackin'"? What Christmas plant was named after a United States Ambassador? Why is St. Francis of Assisi important to Christmas? But it won't be all school work. We'll also teach you the proper way to kiss under the mistletoe.

TLC for Lp's

Records will sound better and last longer, if treated with care. Warping, scratching and dust damage can be prevented or minimized following the methods listed.

Remove the plastic casing on a new record. Then, store records vertically in a cool, dry place, away from sunlight or direct heat, to prevent warping. Remove from the turntable after use. Handle by the edges only and return to paper sleeve and then the jacket. This minimizes scratching. Dust with a record cleaning cloth or soft brush before playing.

Frequently used or dusty records should be treated to a "bath" from time to time. Immerse records, one by one, into a plastic dishpan of detergent or soap and warm water. Swish through the suds; rinse under a gentle flow of warm water. Dry with a soft, lint-free towel.

Records will also last longer if stereo equipment is handled carefully and kept at peak performance.

Dinner table tears

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Every time we sit down to the dinner table, someone ends up in tears because this seems to be the time for the family fights. I go to all the trouble making a good meal and I hate to see it end this way but I don't know how to break this habit. Any suggestions? — Y.L.

DEAR Y.L.: I would suggest you get the family together around the table directly after your next meal. If you think you're going to lose them before you deliver your message, hold dessert until after you're through. Let them know that you consider this behavior unacceptable and ask for suggestions in a box that you place on the table. At the next meal go over each of the suggestions in the box and discuss the merits.

Mealtime is a time for sharing thoughts and ideas as well as food. It is a kind of school for communication. It is where we all get our early training in human relations. Sometimes, children misbehave and fight at meals because they feel it's the only way to be included. The screamer may feel he or she has to shout to get attention.

Parents can help by introducing subjects that will be of interest to all the members of the family and then making sure that each member, no matter how small, gets a chance to comment. Children model themselves and their behavior on parents and if father constantly interrupts and contradicts mother, then the children will behave in in the same way.

You might experiment with a discussion of dreams and let each child tell his own or try to analyze what the dream means. This is a way of getting acquainted and bringing the family closer together.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We just learned that our 7-year-old son has an extra male chromosome. We had taken him to the doctor because he was not doing well at school. My husband had read some place that this extra chromosome was linked to crime and he is heartsick. Is this true? — W.P.

DEAR W.P.: A recent study in Denmark revealed that men born with the XYY, that extra male chromosome, are not unusually aggressive, nor are they more apt to commit violent crimes.

At one time it was thought that males with this extra chromosome were always superaggressive and that there would be some benefit in identifying such males in childhood. Dr. Herbert Witkin, a research psychologist at Princeton, feels this would be of no value, and that it would be much better to simply identify and aid all children who have intellectual difficulties without chromosomes entering into the picture. Children, like adults, suffer from being labeled and labels often become self-fulfilling.

Don't make an issue of this with your son and if he doesn't know it already, I see no point in telling him.

If he does know it, I suggest you stress the positive factors. For instance, he will probably be very tall and this will obviously give him many advantages in certain sports activities, such as basketball.

Heavy Santa

Political cartoonist, Thomas Nast, who created the elephant and donkey political symbols, is credited with giving Santa Claus his red suit and roly-poly physique, according to Hallmark Researcher, Sally Hopkins. Nast, who apparently used Dr. Clement Clarke Moore's 1822 poem, "A Visit From St. Nicholas," for inspiration, published his first drawing of Santa Claus in 1863 in Harper's Weekly.

When you play with a baseball you are playing with a ball of yarn that has a leather cover sewn around it so that it won't unwind when you whack it.

To make a baseball, the ballmaker begins by wrapping a small cork center with a rubber cover. He calls this the "pill."

Next, a wrapping machine winds many yards of woolen yarn around the pill until it is a ball of tightly-wrapped yarn that is almost as big as a baseball.

After dipping the ball of yarn into a tub of special glue, the ballmaker tightly stitches two strips of white horsehide over it, much like lacing shoes. The cover has not been cut so that it fits the ball of yarn like a leather glove.

To be an official baseball, the finished ball must be between 9 and 9¼ inches around and weigh between 5 and 5¼ ounces. A softball is bigger and softer than a standard baseball, and has a smooth seam.

PEANUTS

Happy Beethoven's birthday.

How nice! What is it? It's a Beethoven lunch box!

The salesman said it's just the kind Beethoven used when he sat in the park and wrote all those Strauss waltzes.

That must have been some salesman. He said to wish you a happy Beethoven's birthday.

Your actual mileage will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment; but, the answer to more miles per gallon is definitely "The Answer." "The Answer," It's here today. You asked for it. You got it. Toyota

"MODEL-ETTS" HELPS CURB YOUR APPETITE HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT • NO CALORIE COUNTING! • NO EXERCISES! • NO SPECIAL DIETS!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.

HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS

These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL-ETTS." "Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found: 1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever. 2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight. "Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant—not a drug. So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

One "Model-etts" Wafer has the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 lb. boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

Botany 500

Our new vested look is classic.

(A natural for you from Botany)

We call this suit "Monaco". But don't let the Continental handle fool you. The all-new "Cartier Collection" is American born and bred. Except, of course, for the unbeatable European look that includes sophisticated, shaped lines and peak lapels, an exciting low-cut vest, and the flair of side vents behind.
